NO. 129—SIXTY-THIRD YEAR | VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, MAY 13, 1921 | TWENTY PAGES

THINKS MEETING OF TWO LEADERS VERY SIGNIFICANT

Irish Government Makes Reference to Conversation Between Sir James Craig and Eamonn de Valera — First Consultation of Representatives of North and South.

RECORD OF VIOLENCE IS NOT LESSENED BY NEGOTIATIONS

DUBLIN, May 12.—The meeting of Sir James Craig, Premier-Designate for Ulster, and Eamonn de Valera, Irish Republican leader, must be regarded as an event of the first political importance, says a statement issued by the authorities at Dublin Castle. It adds:

"With the doubtful exception of the convention of 1917-1918, which was held at a time when the authority of Redmond (the late John E. Redmond, president of the United Irish League), to speak on behalf of the majority of the Southern Irishmen already was seriously challenged, this is the first occasion in modern history in which duly accredited representatives of North and South Ireland met of their own initiative, without the intervention of British statesmen, to discuss the differences so long dividing the two sections. And although neither Sir James nor Mr. de Valera appears to have emerged with his convictions in any degree shaken, the fact of their having entered into direct negotiations has produced an impression on the minds of men of all parties of materially improved prospects for peace."

WEST VIRGINIA TOWNS FIRED ON

Coal Fields Dispute Gives Rise to Another Fierce Outbreak —One Man Shot Dead and Two Severely Wounded

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., May 12.—Guerilla warfare was being waged tonight in the mountains of the strike-torn Mingo county coal fields. Shots were poured from the mountain side into Merrimac, Rawl, Sprigg and Matewan, West Virginia, and McCarr, Kentucky.

All available state police and deputy sheriffs were rushed to the scene, but are unable to check the shooting.

Harry C. Staton, state prohibition officer and merchant at Sprigg, was killed, and Noah Phillips and a young man named Calvert, at Merrimac, were seriously wounded during the shooting. Rumors of other killings and woundings have been received.

Tonight about twenty state policemen are working their way over the mountains between Merrimac and Rawl, seeking to outflank their hidden foe.

Today's outbreak, the worst since the Matewan battle of last May 19, in which ten persons were killed, had all the appearance of a prearranged attack.

The towns under fire are within seven miles of each other, and lie in a narrow valley on the banks of the Tug River, which separates West Virginia from Kentucky. The firing came from the mountains on both sides of the river.

Terror reigned in the towns in the zone of fire as night fell, and it was learned that the authorities had failed to apprehend any of the attackers. Lights were extinguished and residents kept close under cover.

The police were helpless during the day, as the attacking forces in the mountains were screened by foliage and boulders, while the police, in order to attempt a direct attack, would have been obliged to cross the open valley and climb the slopes in view of the hidden marksmen.

Several hundred passengers on a train found themselves under fire when they reached the battle zone. Bullets came peppering down from the mountains; women and children screamed, and the passengers fell to the floors of the coaches for protection.

Further Outrages

Fourteen civilians were injured, some of them seriously, by the explosion of a bomb thrown at a lorry loaded with auxiliaries in Grafton Street this afternoon. The explosion created a panic and pedestrians fled from the street.

Three persons were shot today and several wounded in a fight which followed a police ambush near Listowel. There were no casualties among the police.

There were twenty-six attacks on the crown forces in Ireland during the last week, resulting in twenty-eight casualties, of which eighteen were mortal, says the official weekly summary of conditions issued today.

There were 73 courts-martial, resulting in 58 convictions. Another headquarters report says that an engagement occurred between troops and "military rebels" near Kilbrittan, County Cork, in which one of the rebels was killed and six captured. The crown forces suffered no casualties.

Three republicans were shot dead today and several wounded in a fight which followed a police ambush near Listowell.

Today's Nominations

DUBLIN, May 12.—Unless the unexpected happens tomorrow, the date for the nomination of candidates for seats in the Southern parliament there will be no contest, and apparently no one except persons in favor of the republican movement will be nominated.

Five women will be nominated for the Southern parliament and two for the Northern. Mrs. Clark, widow of one of the signatories of the republican proclamation during Easter week, 1916, and Mrs. Pearce, mother of Patrick Pearce, who commanded the Dublin republicans on that occasion, will stand with the Countess Georgina Markievecz for Dublin seats, while Miss Mary Macswiney and Mrs. Kate O'Callaghan, widow of the Mayor of Limerick, will run respectively in Cork and Limerick.

In Ulster, Mrs. Checkster, whose husband commanded a battalion of the Ulster division in the war, will be a candidate for Londonderry, and Alderman Mrs. McMordie, widow of a former Lord Mayor of Belfast, will make a contest for a Belfast seat.

GERMANS AT OPPELN STRIKE IN PROTEST

OPPELN, Upper Silesia, May 13.—The Germans have declared a general strike in Oppeln in protest against the so-called armistice, which is interpreted by them as recognition of Adelbert Korfanty, head of the Polish invasion. All the telephone and telegraph wires and the gas, water and light services were cut at 1 o'clock today. The populace is greatly excited. Many civilians are appearing armed in the outskirts of Oppeln.

BERLIN, May 12.—The action of the interallied commission in establishing a line of demarcation in the Upper Silesian plebiscite area is pronounced as a breach of the Treaty of Versailles, in articles in the Berlin newspapers today dealing with conditions in the area overrun by the Polish insurgents.

ARABS ARE DESTROYING FRENCH SYRIAN TOWNS

NEW YORK, May 13.—Arabs led by Sheik Salam have destroyed thirteen towns in French Syrian territory, said advices received today by the Near East Relief Society and read at a meeting of the executive committee.

A well-organized system of warfare by the tribesmen caused the French commander to withdraw troops from threatened towns and call for reinforcements. Gravest anxiety for the safety of the Christian population was expressed.

With the exception of 300 Algerian Mohammedans, the French were said to have withdrawn all troops from Aintab.

University Examinations

VANCOUVER, May 12.—Examination results were not passed upon by the University senate here today, and it is not expected that they will be given out for publication until next Tuesday.

CONVICTS ESCAPE FROM TEXAS PRISON

HUNTSVILLE Tex., May 12.—Forty prisoners at the Huntsville state prison mutinied and escaped this morning. Two guards were shot, one probably fatally. Six of the men obtained pistols, stormed the front gate of the prison, and then charged guards on the inside of the prison walls and broke into the armory, obtaining shotguns.

About twenty-five shots in all were fired by the convicts. The guards returned the fire, but as far as known no convicts were hit.

HOUSTON, Tex., May 12.—Thirty-three of the forty convicts who escaped from the state penitentiary at Huntsville today were still at large tonight, although hundreds of armed officers and citizens were scouring the country within a radius of seventy-five miles in an effort to apprehend them. Seven have been recaptured. Posses closed in on four others just before nightfall.

Vessel Fined at Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., May 13.—A fine of $1,000 was levied against the steamer West Ivan just prior to her departure for the Orient early today, according to Will Moore, customs collector, of which $500 was for clearing without the prescribed number of officers and $500 for clearing shorthanded in the crew. The fine was paid and the steamer proceeded.

RUSSIAN FORESTS SWEPT BY FIRE

RIGA, May 12.—Forest fires are sweeping the timber belts of Central Russia with such frequency and in such magnitude that a catastrophe for the forests is threatened, says The Moscow Izvestia, which places the responsibility for these conditions on the drought, the carelessness of the peasants, and the disorganization of the forest service.

These statistics are incomplete, but in twenty-four provinces 11,364 fires have been reported, destroying or damaging 5,400,000 acres of timber.

WOMAN IS ACCUSED OF KILLING HUSBANDS

HONOLULU, May 13.—Mrs. Paul Vincent Southard, also known as Mrs. Lydia Meyer, was held by the police here today on orders from Los Angeles in connection with the deaths of four of her husbands, a brother-in-law and a child of one of the men she married.

Southard, whom she married in November, told the police here she tried to get him to take out $10,000 worth of life insurance. Southard is a petty officer on the U.S.S. Monterey, stationed at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Insurance, of which she was the beneficiary, was carried on the lives of all the five men whose deaths are being investigated.

Mrs. Southard, according to the police, has agreed to return without extradition. Papers for extradition are being prepared.

LIBERALS OPPOSE PUBLIC SHIPPING

Nova Scotia Members Think Government Vessels Should Not Compete With Those Owned by Private Persons

OTTAWA, May 12.—That it was unfair for the Government to operate ships on routes where private Canadian firms were endeavoring to build up a trade, was the stand taken before the parliamentary committee on Government-owned railways and shipping this afternoon by A. K. Maclean, Halifax. Mr. Maclean argued that if the Government ships drove their competitors from the seas and failed to make money themselves, Canadian trade would be ruined.

This argument was advanced during the resumed examination of R. B. Teakle, operating manager of the Canadian Government merchant marine, who quoted a Montreal shipping head to the effect that the Government ships were not injuring private enterprises.

William Duff, Lunenburg, informed the witness that the Government ships in the West Indies trade had driven sailing vessels from the Atlantic coast trade, and especially those sailing vessels engaged in the transportation of molasses from Barbadoes to Halifax.

ANNOYS SENATE OF UNIVERSITY

Restriction of Its Power to Deal With Victoria College Affiliation Is Not Relished — Members Speak Strongly

VANCOUVER, B.C., May 12.—The question of affiliation of Victoria College with the University of British Columbia again occupied the attention of the Senate in meeting today. The Senate members of the joint committee of Senate and Board of Governors appointed to investigate the question refused to make a report because some of the members of the Senate thought that body seemed to have been relegated to a position of an advisory board, with no powers of initiative.

Heated discussion took place over this issue. Dr. E. Ashton declared that "if the University is going to be directed in policy by the Government, with the Board of Governors and Senate as a gallery, then we cease to be of any use. There are already two cases where the university has been dictated to by the Government, and I think it is a lamentable state of affairs."

Bishop dePencier felt that as things now stand the Senate was a superfluous body. "Our position is anomalous," he said.

The interpretation by the Board's solicitors is to the effect that all power with regard to the affiliation of Victoria College is taken out of the hands of the Senate.

J. S. Gordon wanted to know just what use the Senate was if this was the case. The Board has the final say in the matter, although the Senate could draft the terms of affiliation.

Mr. George Jay, of Victoria, was appointed by the Board of School Trustees of that city to represent the Victoria College on the Senate.

E. B. Paul, principal of the Victoria College, expressed appreciation for the co-operation lent by the local faculty, without which it would have been impossible to carry on at all during the past year.

LONDON BANKERS TALK ON TRADE

Issue Manifesto Declaring Against Restrictions Tending to Reduce Commerce of Britain With Other Countries

LIMITING IMPORTS LESSENS EXPORTS

Controls, Licences and Tariffs Regarded as Undue Hampering of Business—Prominent Men Sign

LONDON, May 12.—A manifesto signed by a score of leading bankers was published here today protesting against any legislative or administrative measures tending to check the free exchange of goods with foreign countries, and declaring the policy of trying to exclude foreign commodities to be a mistaken one.

"We cannot limit imports without limiting our export trade and striking a grave blow at world-wide commerce, on which this kingdom depends," the manifesto says.

Expressing the opinion that all Government controls, licences and tariffs can only retard improvement in continental exchanges and prevent the natural recovery of trade, the manifesto continues:

"We desire to respectfully protest against every restrictive regulation of trade which tends to diminish the resources of the state."

The signers include Lord Avebury, partner in Coutts & Co.; Lord Chalmers, former Joint Secretary to the Treasury; Frederick C. Goodenough, chairman of Barclay's Bank, Ltd.; Sir Everard A. Hambro, a director of the Bank of England; Lord Inchcape, senior partner in MacKinnon, MacKenzie & Co.; the Right Hon. Frederick Hugo Jackson, director of the Bank of England; Sir Robert Kindersley, director of the Bank of England; Walter Leaf, chairman of the London Company, Westminster, and Parr's Bank, and Reginald McKenna, director of the London City and Midland Bank, and former Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The manifesto is a move aimed at the present Government's trade policy as exemplified by two resolutions passed in the House yesterday, although the resolutions are not mentioned in the manifesto, and also at public expenditure, which the manifesto says "threatens to cripple the country's resources and impair its credit abroad."

The document, in protesting against trade barriers, declares:

"We have to build up the markets we need by encouraging the continental nations to export to us, for it is only by exports that they can re-establish their credits and provide funds for the payment of their debts."

The banking community is said to be in favor of repealing the 50 per cent levy on German exports, which, according to an official statement made in Parliament yesterday, only produced in the first five weeks nine thousand pounds, and, in the opinion of business community, will act as a great hindrance to trade with Germany, driving it into the hands of neutrals.

Statistics recently published show that while in 1913 of the total British trade done with Germany, France, Russia, Holland, Belgium and Denmark, fully half was done with Germany and Russia, only one-fifth of the trade was done with Germany and Russia in 1920.

Former Chancellor McKenna, Lord Inchcape, Walter Leaf and Frederick Goodenough, as well as other signatories of the manifesto, have all emphasized in speeches recently before the shareholders of their respective banks, the urgency of reopening European trade for the purpose of finding markets for the huge accumulation of stocks in British warehouses.

DESERTERS FACING CHARGE OF MURDER

TACOMA, May 13.—First degree murder charges will be filed today against the four Camp Lewis deserters who have confessed to the murder of Kari Timbs, taxicab driver, Prosecutor J. W. Selden announced. Mr. Selden said, however, that the men will be permitted to plead guilty to murder in the second degree. He said this course will be taken to save the State the expense of jury trials, a plea of guilty to first degree murder being unlawful.

The penalty for second degree murder is from ten years to life in the state penitentiary.

Dr. Willis H. Corson, coroner of King County, who performed the autopsy on the body of Timbs, notified the prosecutor today that death resulted from chloroform and not from the blow on the head. The blow did not fracture the skull, and inflicted only a superficial wound, Dr. Corson found.

According to the confession of the soldiers, Sergeant George W. Sharp provided the chloroform, and it was administered to the victim while he was held by Privates George Fillon, James Sparks and Carl Perrin.

Mrs. W. A. Macdonald Recovering

VANCOUVER, May 12.—Mrs. W. A. Macdonald, wife of Mr. Justice Macdonald, who has been seriously ill at her home here, is now considerably better, and is reported to be on the road to recovery.

Disastrous Fire at Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, May 12.—Fire here early this morning caused a loss estimated at $1,500,000. The old Mahoning Valley power house, a lumber yard, ten houses and a garage were destroyed. Firemen say the blaze was incendiary.

RENDERS JUDGMENT IN CASE INVOLVING GOODS FROM RUSSIA

British Court of Appeal Reverses Decision of High Court Concerning Ownership of Merchandise That Had Been Confiscated by Soviet and Sold to English Importers

HIGH COURT HELD SEIZURE ILLEGAL

Court of Appeal Declares That Soviet Government Has Been Recognized by Britain as De Facto Government of Russia — Courts Must Ignore Morality Question

LONDON, May 12.—The initial judicial decision affected by the British Government's tacit recognition of the Soviet Government as the de facto government of Russia was rendered this afternoon when the Court of Appeals reversed a previous finding of the High Court in the disputed ownership of a quantity of veneer and other material shipped from Russia under a contract made by Leonid Krassin, the Soviet trade commissioner.

The goods concerned had been confiscated by the Soviet Government in 1919, and were sold to a firm of British importers last August. The British High Court found the original owners entitled to the material, as the Soviet Government had not been recognized by the British Government, and consequently had not the right of confiscation.

The Court of Appeal found, however, that since the Soviet Government had been recognized as the de facto government of Russia, it was not within the jurisdiction of the British court to consider the justice or morality of the confiscatory order, "although such principles," said the court, "are repudiated by the vast majority of the citizens of Great Britain and are not recognized by its laws."

WATCHES LABOR LAWS PASSED IN DOMINIONS

LONDON, May 12.—Asked in the House of Commons today whether in consequence of industrial disputes, he would appoint a committee to inquire into the industrial arbitration acts in Canada and other Dominions, Premier Lloyd George said that the industrial legislation of other countries was continually receiving attention, and the experience of the Dominions was utilized in framing the Industrial Courts Act of 1919.

U.S. FURNISHES BEST MARKET FOR AUTHORS

OTTAWA, May 12.—J. M. Gibbon, president of the Canadian Authors' Association, novelist, and general publicity agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, told the copyright committee of the House this morning that the United States was the market for Canadian authors, and that the Canadian market was too small to consider.

He said that proposed amendments to the Copyright Act would seriously interfere with the United States market.

EXCHANGE RATES HAVE IMPROVED

Germany's Acceptance of Reparation Terms Stimulates Market for Europe—Canadian Rate Is Not Affected

NEW YORK, May 12.—International money markets, as represented by foreign exchange, were further stimulated today by Germany's acceptance of the Allied reparations ultimatum.

Demand sterling, or bills on London, rose to $4, the highest level reached by that remittance since April of 1920, when they made an extreme rise to $4.07.

French and Belgian francs at 6½ cents showed an overnight gain of about 20 points, and were at maximum levels for any period since the armistice.

Dutch, German, Greek and Scandinavian exchanges also made gains.

The general opinion of the Canadian bankers here and of business men interested in the trade between the two countries is that the recent budget announcement of Sir Henry Drayton is not likely to have any immediate effect upon the exchange situation.

The discount rate on Canadian dollars has gone up a point in the last 24 hours, being quoted at 10¾ per cent this morning, but representatives of the Canadian bank agencies here could offer no explanation, other than that the rate has been subject to frequent fluctuations of late. Sterling exchange was practically unchanged today. According to Canadian financial men here, the tariff changes which are forecast in the budget are not of a nature likely to affect the exchange market, and the announced change in the method of estimating valuation can have no immediate influence upon trade.

TORONTO, May 12.—Arthur Richardson, 18, a technical school student, was instantly killed by shock received when he grasped the end of a broken wire lying on the sidewalk last night.

MAXWELL MOTOR CO. IS SOLD AT AUCTION

DETROIT, Mich., May 12.—Sale of the Maxwell Motor Company by auction, as ordered by the district court some time ago to provide for reorganization of the company with the Chalmers Motor Company was consummated today.

The property was acquired by Walter P. Chrysler, of New York, chairman of the reorganization committee of the two concerns, and Harry Broner, of New York, a member of the committee.

The sale price was $10,916,100. The court stipulated that the property must not be sold for less than $10,000,000.

FORTY THOUSAND MEN IDLE AT PAPER MILLS

ALBANY, N.Y., May 13.—Approximately forty thousand men in the paper-making industry now are on strike in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland, it is estimated by J. T. Carey, president of the International Brotherhood of Paper-makers, one of the organizations which has called out its membership to enforce a demand for ten per cent increase in wages. He said no further conferences between representatives of the Unions and of employers were in immediate prospect.

SUDBURY, Ont., May 12.—Approximately seven hundred men ceased work Wednesday morning at the Espanola mill of the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company, pending settlement of differences with the company. A small staff remained to finish the product in process.

Minister of Militia Defends Expenditures

Contends That Canada's Naval and Military Outlays Are Extremely Small in Comparison With Other Countries—Further Contributions to Budget Debate

OTTAWA, May 12.—Naval and military expenditures of the Government were defended in the House of Commons today when Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Militia, participated in the budget debate.

Mr. Guthrie, who represented Canada at the financial conference held under the League of Nations at Brussels last Summer, quoted statistics to show that Canada's expenditures on naval and military defence were lower than any country in the world. In fact, in Mr. Guthrie's view, they were so low as to make other countries look rather ridiculous. On a basis of a population estimated at 3,000,000 people, the per capita expenditure for defence, including that for militia, navy and air forces, was only $1.89. The percentage of annual revenue to be devoted to defence purposes this year was 3.5 per cent.

The first contribution to the debate today was a speech by F. L. Davis, Neepawa, who occupies a seat in the cross benches.

Mr. Davis suggested an amendment to the income tax act which would provide for a surtax on the profits of corporations who failed to pay their income tax within three months.

Mr. Davis criticized the Government for not getting rid of the national shipping at the close of the war; deplored the fact that the budget made no specific provision for taking care of maturing war bonds, and advised economy in military expenditure.

There was at the opening an entertaining sequel to the imaginary letters which A. R. McMaster read the other day. Speaker Rhodes announced that he had given instructions that the letters were to be deleted from the revised version of Hansard.

Referring to the Speaker's decision, D. D. McKenzie, Cape Breton, asked why then, if imaginative literature were banned, should the Finance Minister's reference to a surplus not be struck from the records? Was not such a surplus imaginary? he queried, to the amusement of the Opposition. Mr. McKenzie criticized the Government for its railway financing, and declared that loans of the Province of Nova Scotia found a more ready market in New York and sold higher than did the securities of the Canadian National Railway backed by the Dominion Government. Why should the Government continue business in the name of "this old housewife, the Mackenzie & Mann concern"? he asked. It was a glaring piece of incompetence to transact business in name of such a bankrupt, defunct organization.

TO AIR BRIDGE FACTS TODAY

Information as to Cost In Comparison With Estimates Will Be Tabled This Afternoon to Answer Recent Criticism

There will be a showdown on the Johnson Street Bridge construction controversy this afternoon when City Engineer F. M. Preston submits figures showing what the work has cost so far in comparison with his estimates submitted before the contract was let by outside companies.

Acting-Mayor George Sangster announced yesterday that he had instructed Mr. Preston to prepare a detailed statement to present to the Streets Committee, composed of all members of the Council, showing the extent of the progress so far made on the foundation of the bridge, and how much the job has cost.

During the past few days the engineering department has been under fire as a result of reports that certain features of the work have not been carried out as economically as they might be. The policy of the department in withholding information from the aldermen until it is actually requested has also been criticised by some members of the Council, who favor the suggestion that Mr. Preston make progress reports on the bridge work every week, or at least every month.

"There has been so much talk about the bridge lately that we have decided to clear the whole thing up tomorrow," said Acting-Mayor Sangster, who is chairman of the Streets Committee, and has been in close touch with the engineering department ever since the work was commenced. "The statement that Mr. Preston is preparing will dispel all fears that the city has been wasting money or labor on the bridge. The actual cost of the work on the present contract for the construction of the concrete foundation has so far been only $70,000, which is well within the estimates.

"It is just as well that the criticism we have heard during the last few days should be answered. Personally, I don't object to criticism regarding the bridge so long as it is properly directed, but I repeat what I said a few days ago: That there are too many people around here who profess to know it all when, as a matter of fact, they know next to nothing about bridge affairs. My contention is that so long as Mr. Preston is city engineer he should be supported. If his work shows that he is inefficient and not competent to hold office, then we had better get another man to take his place. So far as I am concerned, I have yet to be convinced that there is anything wrong with Mr. Preston's judgment and activity in connection with the bridge, and until I receive a different impression as to his ability I intend to stand up for him and defend his department."

City Engineer Preston was down at the bridge site yesterday morning at 4 o'clock supervising the operations on the caisson which listed out of position earlier in the week. At about 2 o'clock in the morning the caisson righted itself, and during the next few days it will be sunk lower.

If any questions are asked this afternoon, or any criticism levelled against the engineering department, the spokesmen for the discontented group will probably be led by Aldermen A. M. Aitken and W. F. Fullerton.

CONTRABAND FOUND IN SOUTH VANCOUVER

SOUTH VANCOUVER, May 12.—Fifty-four half-pound tins of opium, eighty cases of Scotch whisky, 27 cases of Chinese liquor, one set of opium weighing scales, and a .22 rifle were discovered by South Vancouver police, following a report received on Wednesday evening from a resident on Quebec Street, that one of his boys had found a cache of opium on a vacant lot, off an alley, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth Avenues and Quebec Place.

UNEMPLOYMENT BRINGS VERY GRAVE CRISIS

CLEVELAND, May 12.—Organized labor is facing the worst crisis in its history, Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, declared yesterday in his report submitted at the opening of the organization's triennial convention.

Twenty thousand members—almost one-fourth of the total—are without jobs, he said.

Mr. Stone reviewed the Brotherhood's wage movements for the past three years, and declared that had not Woodrow Wilson been stricken on his Western trip, "conditions would have been different."

He said the former President had promised that upon his return he would "place the power of the Government behind the movement to curb the increasing cost of living and profiteering."

FACING RESULTS OF CREDIT CRAZE

Mortgage Loan Men in Convention Consider Situation Brought About by Unwise Expansion

WINNIPEG, May 12.—At the opening session of a two-days' convention of the Canada Mortgage Loan Association here this morning a special committee was appointed to inquire into the whole matter pertaining to the lien priority given to seed grain advances. The gathering agreed with the statement of John Appleton, Toronto, secretary of the Dominion association, that this was "a pernicious and quite unjustifiable practice."

Sharp criticism of the moratorium and of defaulting municipalities also featured the session.

Mr. Long, who presided, presented the report of the executive committee. He said the conference had met under a sense of grave responsibility. A year ago business was active and the demand for capital and commodities strong, and employment was plentiful on an exceptionally high basis of remuneration. This prosperity was based on what were really measures of expediency. Large sums of borrowed money were distributed in the re-establishment of returned men, in housing and settlement.

They were now faced with some of the more serious consequences of credit expansion and expenditure of capital and labor on undertakings which did not yield wealth. Prices of agricultural products had fallen to almost pre-war time levels, unemployment was serious, and great anxiety existed as to the possibility of finding markets capable of absorbing the country's exportable products.

Money required to meet the natural demand which arose in territory but partially developed would have to be obtained from their own resources, he said. New conditions would necessitate adjustment of the machinery created to meet new mortgage conditions.

In the report of the municipal finances committee, reference was made to defaults in payments by cities and towns in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

In Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec, it was said, the Provincial municipal departments had intervened and effected adjustments, which had averted loss to debenture holders. Twelve municipalities, principally in Alberta and Saskatchewan, had a funded debt of $4,513,283, on which arrears amounted to $165,881, or six per cent. Seven in default at present had a funded debt of $3,485,300, on which $377,697, or 10.8 per cent. was overdue.

The situation in Saskatchewan was described as the cause of anxiety to holders of all classes of securities issued by the Province and its municipal institutions.

By appointing a Local Government Board the Saskatchewan Government admitted responsibility in respect of credit of municipal institutions, some of which at the time of the establishment of the Board, in 1912, were experiencing trouble.

In Alberta, Manitoba and British Columbia, active steps had been taken to obviate loss to debenture holders in future.

In practicaly all cases of default it had been found that public debentures for improvements and public works had been excessive, and maintenance has been expensive.

LATE BISHOP HARRIS HONORED BY JAPAN

TOKIO, May 12.—The funeral of Bishop Merriman Colbert Harris, who died May 8 at Aoyama College, was held today with impressive ceremonies. The Emperor sent a gift of money in honor of the bishop-emeritus of Japan and Korea, to which office Bishop Harris was appointed in 1916.

Several newspapers made sympathetic comment, referring to Bishop Harris as a great American and a great friend of Japan, and expressing the hope that there would be more men like him.

AMERICAN CITIZENS HELD BY BOLSHEVIKI

LONDON, May 12.—Questions regarding Englishmen detained in Russia and whether the Government was doing its utmost to help the United States secure the liberation of American citizens under detention there, were brought up in the House of Commons last night.

Cecil B. Harmsworth, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said he regretted the British Government was not in a position officially to take action on behalf of the Americans.

Noted Guide Kills Himself

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, May 12.—John Atkinson, aged 50, one of the best known guides in Manitoba, who had the honor of piloting King George, then Duke of York, through the duck marshes of Manitoba, on his visit to Canada, committed suicide at St. Ambrose, Man., Wednesday morning. He had been despondent for some time over financial difficulties.

Fires in Northern Ontario

COBALT, May 12.—Bush fires are gaining headway in various parts of Northern Ontario, including Cobalt and Porcupine. So far the property damage has not been heavy, though several forests are reported on fire. Heavy clouds of smoke from a fire in the Gillies Limit, near Gillies Depot, are rolling over this town and ashes are falling in the streets.

LAVERGNE OBJECTS TO BEING IGNORED

QUEBEC, May 12.—A rather original damage action has been entered in the Superior Court here, involving a claim for $500 made by Armand Lavergne, K.C., against The Quebec Telegraph, the local English afternoon paper. The damage claim is not for anything libelous that the paper has published, but for the omission of Lavergne's name when he appeared as a lawyer for one William Buckley, who was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary for highway robbery and burglary.

It is alleged by the plaintiff that The Quebec Telegraph omitted his name as the defender of the accused, but mentioned other counsel. He further alleges that the omission was intentional and with the object of doing him injury; that it is but a continuation of the policy of the paper in question to ignore him each time it has the opportunity.

SHAREHOLDERS ACCEPT TERMS

Grand Trunk Meeting Results in Decision to Ratify Agreement—System to Be Turned Over to Government

LONDON, May 12.—At a meeting of the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway Company today, it was decided to ratify the agreement between the management and the Canadian Government providing for the transfer of the control of the railway to the Government this month. Only three dissenting votes were cast.

The meeting was crowded, but quiet. The speech of the chairman of the board of directors, Sir Alfred Smithers, dealt with the position of the company exhaustively. An amendment to defer ratification until there was a better guarantee concerning future action by the Canadian Government was withdrawn, the chairman remarking that they looked to public opinion in Canada and England to see they got fair play. This was greeted with applause.

The first shareholder to speak was applauded when he expressed himself as truly grateful that the Canadian Government had put its foot down and had said further delay in regard to the acquisition of the road must cease. He added that it looked as if the matter was being prolonged for what could be got out of the shareholders.

Sir Alfred Smithers was also cheered when he said the speaker's last sentiment was most insulting. "I have had eleven years of purgatory," declared the chairman. "I yield to no man in the way I have fought for the rights of the shareholders."

Arbitration Question

Sir Alfred spoke of the intense surprise occasioned by the Government's refusal to prolong the sessions of the arbitration board. He remarked: "The directors cannot conceal from the shareholders that the Government has acted in a manner which could not have been anticipated, and judging from the reports of speeches made in the Canadian Parliament, there is considerable misapprehension as to the reasons for the present position of the company. I have purposely kept from making any announcement while negotiations were going on. I do not wish to say anything that will increase the difficulties of the Government, but the statements made in the Canadian Parliament are so misleading that I am bound in justice to myself and others to state the Grand Trunk's position in answer to criticisms in the Dominion House of Commons.

Unexpected Competition

Sir Alfred then proceeded to say that the Government started the Transcontinental Railway, while the Canadian Northern was not only allowed, but was subsidized, to build right into the territory which the Government had encouraged the Grand Trunk Pacific to occupy. The C.P.R. was also allowed to enter into Grand Trunk territory.

The chairman then dealt fully with the earnings report of the Grand Trunk, and ascribed its present position to lack of an increase in rates.

"We only decided to recommend the new contract after Premier Meighen's letter recognising fully our right of appeal," said Sir Alfred. "The directors, in view of the rejection of evidence of the physical value of the company's properties, are of the opinion that the arbitrators must disagree in their award, and if so the directors believe an appeal is vital in the interests of the shareholders. Obviously an appeal cannot be concluded within four months. Believing in the impossibility of any Government taking over the property on a finding which is other than the final award provided for in the agreement as the only basis for payment, the board believes that, should either party desire to exercise the right of appeal recognized by Premier Meighen's letter, the Government must grant the necessary extension of time, particularly as the Government, being in full control of the property, would not be prejudiced by any necessary delay."

Satisfaction at Ottawa

OTTAWA, May 12.—Satisfaction is felt in official circles here at the decision of Grand Trunk shareholders to ratify the new agreement with the Dominion Government. Ratification will obviate the necessity of any further legislation this session, and will mean a reopening of the arbitration proceedings and an extension of the time within which the arbitrators may make the award. Conditionally on such extension being granted, control of the road will be transferred to the Government. Existing directors of the Grand Trunk will be replaced by nominees of the Government, the substituted board of directors to be deemed complete, although it does not constitute more than five members; and meetings of the board may be held in Canada. A Grand Trunk shareholders' committee will further be constituted for the purpose of presenting the shareholders' views to the board of arbitration.

GETS EVIDENCE ON P.R. SYSTEM

Committee at Ottawa Hears Arguments Against It by Mr. Macnicol—Other Witnesses to Be Called

OTTAWA, May 12.—John R. Macnicol, of Toronto, head of the British Representation League, an organization devoted to the opposing of the idea of proportional representation, was the chief witness this morning before the parliamentary committee now gathering evidence on the proportional representation system, and also on the matter of the single transferable vote in one-member constituencies. Mr. Macnicol was wholly opposed to any change in the present system of elections, either parliamentary or municipal.

Ronald Hooper, honorary secretary of the Proportional Representation Society of Canada, gave evidence for a few minutes when Mr. Macnicol concluded, but as the committee's time was up it was decided to call him again at the next session of the committee. Moreover, on the motion of Mr. Harold, M.P., (Brantford), it was decided to ask Tom Moore, of the Dominion Trades Congress, the head of the United Farmers of Ontario, and the heads of other organizations which have proportional representation as a plank of their platforms, to send representatives to the next meeting of the committee to give evidence.

It was also decided to ask Hon. Thomas Johnson, Attorney-General of Manitoba, now in the East, to give evidence at the next committee meeting.

Mr. Macnicol said that the present system of voting had come down from the time of Edward I. They had proportional representation in Winnipeg in the Provincial elections, and the result was that the Norris Government was unable to introduce any legislation and was carrying on without a majority of the Manitoba House. They had it in Vancouver, and the result was that only a very small proportion of the people turned out to vote. The system was new-fangled and intricate, and the people did not understand it.

There was no demand for proportional representation, except such as had been created by propaganda. He wanted to know where the money for this propaganda was coming from. Dispatches emanating from Ottawa on this subject, he claimed, were propaganda for the system and thoroughly unjustified.

Proportional representation led to group government, although he admitted that we had group government without proportional representation—in Ontario for instance. But he thought the people would attend to that in the next Ontario election.

Mr. Macnicol claimed candidates picked by the old parties were more able than those selected under proportional representation.

WOULD REFORM PENITENTIARIES

Committee of Inquiry Appointed by Minister of Justice Recommends Changes in Treatment of Convicts

KINGSTON, Ont., May 12.—The report of the committee appointed several months ago by Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, to inquire into the penitentiary system of Canada and to advise as to the result of its inquiry regarding such amendments of the Penitentiary Act and the revision of the penitentiary regulations as in its judgment seemed necessary, was made public today.

The committee consisted of O. M. Biggar, K.C., of Ottawa, P. M. Draper, of Ottawa, and W. F. Nickle, K.C., Kingston.

The report recommends several far-reaching amendments of the Penitentiary Act and a complete new body of regulations, based upon the committee's recommendations that reformation instead of repression should be the guiding principle of the penal institutions.

Corporal punishment is denounced as unnecessary, although the committee provides for its being inflicted if, in the opinion of the Minister of Justice, an incorrigible convict can in no other way be brought to a realization of his obligations.

The report proposed that the general direction of penitentiaries should be vested in a penitentiary board, including among its members the superintendent and industrial director, a purchasing agent, a medical officer and a parole officer, and the efficient organization of both the medical and industrial departments.

A large number of prisoners were said by the committee to appear to be mentally defective, and it considers that these should not be subject to a rigid penitentiary discipline, but should be treated as patients.

For the bulk of the prisoners adequate work must be provided, the present idleness in the penitentiaries having, in the committee's opinion, the most serious consequences.

The report consequently recommended legislation to provide for the manufacturing in the penitentiaries of all goods required for the use of the Dominion of Canada that can be made. The contract system is disapproved, and the industries limited to those which will not bring convict-made goods into competition in any market with goods made by free labor.

The committee attaches importance to its proposals for giving convicts pay for their work, and suggests that one-third of this labor value be divided every quarter among the convicts according to the character of work done by each.

All employment in the penitentiary would be classified under six heads, according to the skill and capacity entering into them.

The report contains suggestions for the establishment of schools in the penitentiaries, the compulsory attendance of illiterates, the improvement of libraries and the addition to the general knowledge of the convicts by the use of scientific books and approved newspapers and periodicals.

Recommendations are also made insisting upon the standard of the cells being respected and that opportunities be given for outdoor exercise.

The report recommends a regulated distribution of tobacco, as the members of the committee are of the opinion that it will improve generally the regime of the institutions and greatly increase efficiency.

Bandits Overawe Policeman

CHICAGO, May 12.—A uniformed policeman, assigned to escort a messenger for the State Commercial and Savings Bank, failed to daunt five bandits today. They held up the policeman and the messenger and escaped with approximately $7,000 after first forcing the policeman to walk away a block, threatening to shoot him if he turned around.

ITALY'S PREMIER IS OPTIMISTIC

Signor Giolitti Speaks of Situation on Eve of General Elections — Country Bears Its Burdens Well

ROME, May 12.—Italy looks into the future with confidence in spite of the losses she sustained in the war and the burden her people are carrying at present, Giovanni Giolitti the Premier, declared to the Associated Press last night. Signor Giolitti's statement, given on the eve of the general elections which will give Italy a new Chamber of Deputies and lay before the world Italy's expression of national will, was full of optimism.

"We are on the threshold of the general elections," he said. "This is a source of great pride to me, for it seems the greatest proof that Italy is absolutely free from revolutionary tendencies. Elections are not signs of revolutions, but are proof of the contrary. We are looking forward to a new Chamber of Deputies in which the entire process of government will be able to function, which was virtually an impossibility in the last chamber. It is difficult to predict the precise results of the elections, but I can with almost certainty prophesy that in the next chamber the different parties will be grouped in such a way as to allow parliament to complete the task of economic, financial and social regeneration already begun."

LIGNITE PLANT IS NEARLY READY

Mr. Ross, Chairman of Utilization Board, Gives Information to Committee on Fuel Resources at Ottawa

OTTAWA, May 12.—R. A. Ross, chairman of the lignite utilization board, was called this morning by the special House committee on fuel resources.

Mr. Ross said the board had designed a special carbonizer to remove the gases from lignites. Construction of the plant would be complete about June of this year. The briquettes would be produced in commercial quantities of one hundred tons daily by Fall. Delays might be caused by machinery trouble.

The fuel so far tested was practically identical with anthracite, and there was very little ash remaining.

The board was seeking to give a thorough commercial demonstration including that of selling to the public. If this was a success, many private plants probably would be started for briquetting the fine coals of Alberta and Saskatchewan for domestic purposes.

The amount of money thus far expended was $599,674. Investigation work would all be done for private companies. The board's plant being on an experimental basis, would cost much more per ton than a private plant would need to cost.

DESERTING HUSBANDS CAN BE EXTRADITED

OTTAWA, May 12.—A copy of the treaty between Great Britain and the United States providing for the extradition of men charged with wilful non-support of wives or children, from either country to the other, was tabled in the house yesterday afternoon by Hon. C. J. Doherty.

The treaty becomes effective ten days after publication.

PERUVIAN PLOTS ARE REPORTED

Vague Intimations of New Trouble in Republic Received at South American Points—Prominent Men Deported

LIMA, Peru, May 12.—Several prominent persons who were detained recently for political reasons have been placed aboard the Peruvian liner Paita, which is lying in Callao, for deportation, according to yesterday's newspapers. It is reported that General Oscar Benavides, former president of the republic, who was taken into custody last week for alleged complicity in a revolutionary plot, is among those to be deported.

The ultimate destination of the steamer is given by the newspaper as Sydney, Australia.

BUENOS AYRES, May 12.—What is happening in Peru is a question that is interesting the Buenos Ayres newspapers, which, owing to Peruvian censorship, have been unable to learn from their Lima correspondents what basis exists for reports here of serious events occurring in the Peruvian capital.

From Chilean sources some rumors of a revolutionary outbreak are current. The latest report from Santiago to La Nacion says rumors of the outbreak of a revolution in Peru have not been confirmed, but that may prove that the Peruvian Government discovered a plot to overthrow it, and proceeded energetically to imprison and deport the leaders. The reports were brought to Chile by steamship passengers and in other ways.

AMBASSADOR HARVEY FORMALLY PRESENTED

LONDON, May 12.—Colonel George Harvey, the new American Ambassador, was received this forenoon by King George at Buckingham Palace.

Ambassador Harvey was accompanied to the palace by Sir John Hanbury-Williams, marshal of the diplomatic corps, and the members of the embassy secretariat.

The three royal barouches used for the occasion called at the American embassy, and the members of the American party, all of whom were in full dress, entered the carriages and proceeded to the palace. Earl Curzon, the secretary for foreign affairs, was present during Ambassador Harvey's presentation of his credentials and of the letter of recall of his predecessor in the ambassadorial post, John W. Davis.

After this formality had been concluded, King George, Ambassador Harvey and Lord Curzon had a few minutes informal conversation, following which the members of the new ambassador's suite were presented to the King.

REVEAL SECRETS OF "OMOTOKYO"

Japanese Police Find Evidence of Horrible Work by Strange Organizati... — Bodies of Murdered People in Crypts

TOKIO, May 12.—Revelations of the work carried on by the "Omotokyo" cult, which began when the police raided the headquarters of the organization at Ayabe, near here, continue to astound people of the empire. Newspapers accuse leaders of the cult of aspiring to set up an "Omotokyo" dynasty, to which all Japanese would flock with the hope of attaining world domination.

In the temple of organization at Ayabe, connected with the residence of Wanisburo Deguchi, leader of the society, the police declare there were found crypts in which were placed the bodies of those who were slain for betraying the secrets of the organization.

It is declared that "unspeakable crimes" were committed against women by members of the cult, who are said to have bordered on fanaticism in their zeal.

Cartloads of alleged seditious literature have been seized, including a famous volume bearing the title of "Life."

It is said that the followers of "Omotokyo" numbered 300,000.

When the police seized the collection of pebbles representing the divinity of the organization, a band of the faithful clinched their fists in fury, declaring the act of the officers to be sacrilegious.

MAYOR PORTER GIVES INVITATION

Would Have Good Roads Convention Held in Victoria Next Year—Premier Oliver Delivers Address at Halifax

HALIFAX, May 12.—The extension of an invitation to the Canadian Good Roads Association to hold its next annual convention in Victoria, B.C., by Mayor R. J. Porter, of that city, the passage of a resolution urging the Federal Government to considerably increase the federal aid to highways grant, the suggestion that a great national conference of motorists should be held next year at some central point in the Dominion, and the election of officers, formed the business of the annual meeting of the Canadian Automobile Association held here yesterday.

Premier John Oliver, of British Columbia, addressed the body in the morning.

Lieutenant-Governor McCallum Grant, of Nova Scotia, was elected honorary president of the association. Dr. E. P. Doolittle, of Toronto, was re-elected president.

The matter of the suggested national conference of motorists, at which it is proposed to discuss uniformity of traffic laws and the spreading of information as to the scenic beauties of Canada, with the idea of attracting touring parties from across the line and elsewhere, was left in the hands of the executive committee.

Vain Arbitration Work

QUEBEC, May 12.—The arbitration board under the new municipal strike and lockout act, considering the wage dispute between the policemen's union and the city, may have all its work in vain, for it is practically admitted by the lawyers of both parties to the dispute that there is no legal sanction to the law which would bind either party to respect the award of the board.

ASTRONOMER LEAVES FOR VISIT IN EAST

Dr. J. S. Plaskett, Director of Astrophysical Observatory, Now in Ottawa—Lecturing Shortly

Dr. J. S. Plaskett, Director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Saanich, has gone to Ottawa to attend the annual meeting of the Royal Society, the sessions of which are to be held May 18, 19 and 20. Dr. Plaskett is giving several papers, one of which (dealing with the radial velocities of six hundred stars) practically constitutes a summary of the work of the Astrophysical Observatory here since it was opened, three years ago. One of his other papers is on the subject of "The Eclipsing Variable," while yet a third deals with the temperatures of stars.

Before he returns to Victoria, Dr. Plaskett will lecture before the Royal Astronomical Society at Toronto, telling of the work of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria. He has also been invited to speak at popular science meetings at Montreal and Winnipeg, and will be absent from Victoria about six weeks in all.

Mrs. Plaskett accompanied her husband on his trip to Eastern Canada, which was made via Prince Rupert and the C.N.R. At Ottawa they are the guests of Dr. Schutt, head of the Dominion Department of Chemistry.

NEW COAL COMPANY

Western Fuel Corporation of Canada Will Operate Nanaimo Properties

The Western Fuel Corporation of Canada, Limited, with an authorised capital of $5,000,000 and head office at Nanaimo, has been incorporated to carry on business in the Province. The new concern is a reorganization of the Canadian Fuel Company, holders of coal properties at Nanaimo. It will undertake more active development of its properties.

LIQUOR DUTIES

The contention advanced by Mr. J. W. Farris, the Attorney-General, that commodities purchased under the Liquor Control Act by the Province should be free of Federal duties is something new that has been injected into the question of Provincial rights. There is certainly ground for a legal decision on the subject, and in some respects it would be greatly to the advantage of British Columbia if the contention of its Attorney-General were sustained. Under the British North America Act the Provincial properties are free from taxation, and the point raised is whether or not the Federal duty is taxation or some other charge. No doubt the argument against the contention of the Attorney-General will be that the character of the properties exempted from taxation by the B. N. A. Act are clearly implied as the lands and buildings owned by the Government, whereas the produce of the land, once it leaves the Province for any foreign part, can be taxed by the Federal Government, and, vice versa, produce purchased by Provincial Governments from other countries is dutiable.

British Columbia's claim, if sustained, would give our Government the power to compete, on what would be monopolistic terms, in almost any commodity. It might purchase cotton, silk, iron and steel products, and anything for that matter, and buy them duty free and then sell them within the Province in competition with private firms, and, of course, at greatly reduced prices to those now prevailing. Whether a special case for spirits and wines, which would not apply to any other commodity, can be made out it is for the Attorney-General to claim, but it goes without saying that if any one article purchased from without the Province by the Government can come in here duty free, then any and every article, where the Government is the purchaser, would be equally exempt. The Government is buying, and has been buying, scores and hundreds of dutiable articles ever since it was a Government, and never until now has the claim been advanced that British Columbia should be free from tariff duties.

While we believe there is no doubt that the Province will be held legally responsible for the payment of duties on the spirits and wines it imports, the new and excessive duties imposed on liquors under the Federal Budget just brought down will weigh especially heavily on this Province. The taxation proposed is discriminatory, and, indeed, it comes under the head of class legislation. On the eve of British Columbia engaging in the experiment of Government Control of the sale of liquor the prices of whiskies are advanced by something like 33 per cent, and the only parts of Canada where this additional levy is going to be effective to any appreciable extent are in Quebec and British Columbia. The added duties are especially directed against these two Provinces, and the discrimination is all the more remarkable as Quebec and British Columbia are known as staunch supporters of the Federal Government's general tariff policy. The Attorney-General should make strong representations to Ottawa against the impost, and should secure the co-operation of Quebec in an effort to protect the people, under Government Control of the sale of liquor. That course would be far more likely to please the people than an attempt to read a new interpretation into the British North America Act. The imposition of the tariff should be as equalizing as possible in its incidence whereas the new duties on spirits constitute a direct blow at British Columbia and Quebec.

EDUCATIONAL WEEK

Are the citizens to understand that Educational Week, which has been arranged for by members of the School Board and endorsed by the Board as a body, is to be devoted to the discussion of educational matters as a whole? There is an impression abroad that it is simply designed to defend the existing school system and to forward the cause of the school money by-laws, as well as to justify the School Board in the increasing expenditures in which it is indulging. The interest in such a week would be greatly increased if a programme were devised whereby the basic essentials of true education could be discussed in relation to methods now in practice in this Province. The School Trustees, however, if they start from the premises that the present system cannot be improved without large additional expenditures, and without the adoption of fads and frills and fancies of cliques and individuals, are not likely to secure a very sympathetic audience.

Educational Week will fail in its purpose unless it devotes time to the discussion of reforms which touch the root of our whole educational system. In the first place, views should be secured of what ought to be done to raise the status of the teachers by rendering the majority of them better equipped than they are now for imparting instruction to the children. The Normal School course should be extended to at least two years, and after the first year of that term there should be a process of elimination so that only those who give promise of being fully equipped, both in knowledge and in the faculty of controlling children and developing their characters, will be permitted to complete their time at the Normal Schools. Then there is the desirability of revising the present school curriculum. It is overburdened, and yet we find the advocates of new courses multiplying in our midst. In the existing curriculum insufficient stress is being laid on those essential subjects which form a groundwork of knowledge in history, geography, literature and mathematics, and the students are not being taught, as they should, both to write and speak the English language with a more enriched vocabulary than that now employed.

Apart from the mere routine of school work there is the question of what should be done towards the character development of the child. That phase of educational work is almost neglected in our public school system. For its development it is necessary, first, to raise the standard of the teaching profession and to put in force a more rigid process of selection. The teachers, too, should keep in touch with the parents and cooperate with the latter in the task of improving the mental progress of the children, but, beyond questions of mental and character development, the state educational system should not interfere in the home, and when it does at all, only in the matter of co-operation. Yet another feature of our educational system that is worthy of discussion is the present school age and its sufficiency or the reverse. Teachers complain now that, because the school age is only fourteen years, many pupils take the first year in the High School and then leave school, and that for this reason there is an element of uncertainty because of the need each term of reforming classes. There is substantial cause for this complaint, and some remedy should be found.

The chief aspect of the problem nowadays is the definition of the scope and limits of State educhtion. Those among the teaching profession who benefit through the limits being extended are chiefly instrumental in the propaganda for further technical education, and they have enlisted on their side theorists in specialization who often become obsessed with the idea that the kind of educational reform that is needed can be brought about by the transfer to the State of more and more of the parental duties. There is even talk of introducing psychologists into the schools, on the assumption, entertained in some quarters, that the human soul is a subject for fixed terminology and classified arrangement. It is in this and other matters that the parental voice should be heard so that the theories of faddists are not imposed on our educational system, and, in the process, the army of State educational officialdom multiplied, and the people taxed in proportion. The matters we have mentioned, among others, should be the subjects of discussion during Educational Week, which, we have been informed, is not designed to carry on School Board propaganda for the passage of money by-laws.

QUEEN VICTORIA STATUE

Shortly after the Provincial Government decided to order a statue of Queen Victoria for erection in the Parliament Buildings square a site was picked out for it by the late Sir Richard McBride. That site was the one now occupied by the fountain in the centre of the grounds fronting the buildings. Sir Richard at the time announced his decision to this newspaper and pointed out that the fountain was a miserable affair, and that when replaced by the Queen Victoria statue an ornamental feature of high value and of great historical and patriotic significance would have been added to the Parliament Buildings grounds. The then Premier never hesitated for a moment in the choice of a site, and we recall the pleasure it gave him to make the announcement.

Time went on, a new Government came into power, and soon thereafter the statue was ready for shipment here from the Old Country. Eventually, after many delays through the war and the possibility it might be lost in transit because of enemy submarine activities, the statue arrived. This newspaper then again pointed out that Sir Richard McBride—to whose credit lies the fact that British Columbia has such a statue at all—had chosen as its location the site of the present fountain. Almost immediately the present Government reversed this decision and said that the statue would be located where it is now placed. No reason can have governed this action save a desire to upset the patriotic wish of the late Sir Richard McBride, who believed that the best position in the Parliament Buildings grounds was alone worthy of the statue of Queen Victoria.

It is small wonder that the sculptor of that statue should have made caustic remarks about the present location. If it is the Government's intention to leave it where it is, then the trees on the Belleville Street side of the grounds should be cut down. This step would be deprecated, and the better way would be to move the statue to the location chosen by Sir Richard McBride. The Province owes it to the memory of the Great Queen after whom this city was named, and owes it also to the memory of the Prime Minister who conceived the idea of such a memorial, to give the statue pride of place in the grounds of the Parliament Buildings.

PRESS COMMENT

A New Degree

Bachelor of Commerce—this brand new degree is an accomplished fact, it has been instituted by the University of London. Business is the oldest activity of human society. Barter and trade date back to the earliest beginnings of the race, and yet this fundamental science, the very corner stone of civilization, is the last one to be systematized. And, though it may sound puerile, the greatest service science can render to business today is to establish more firmly the axiom that business is business and that no amount of theory or argument can alter the fact that the sum of two and two is never any more or less than four.—Minneapolis Daily News.

Monarchy vs. Democracy

We do not suppose the general citizenship of Japan wants war any more than the general citizenship of the United States, but the leadership of Japan can and will make war by design when it serves national purpose, and the general citizenship will follow the leadership with enthusiasm. A highly organized monarchy, which executes policy without emotion and with wisdom, is opposed to a democracy which does not think or act in military terms, which will always be found disorganized by war, and which certainly needs its first line of defence, its fleet, in fighting condition, which means, first, united.—Chicago Tribune.

Ill-Advised Action of the Miners

The Government have set their faces against a State subsidy. In this they are strongly supported by the public, and it renders out of the question any systematized "national pool." But a measure of temporary and local assistance towards smoothing the wage-change is not excluded. It is believed that the Government were not unwilling to do something of the kind before, if the miners' leaders had been ready to promise a firm settlement within a reasonable period; it was their virtual certainty that they would once more resort to the big stick, which made it useless to pursue the offer at that time.—London Daily Chronical.

Indian Budget Gamble

Every Indian Budget is, as Sir Guy Fleetwood Wilson called it, a gamble in rain. Every Indian Budget is based on the expectation of a normal monsoon; if the monsoon is especially good, there should be a surplus; if it is especially poor, then thair will be either a deficit or a tight fit. The estimates for the revenue in the coming year are distinctly on the liberal side. No matter how good the monsoon may be they are not likely to be exceeded, owing to the disturbed condition of the world. Even if we have a bumper surplus of produce to sell, the demand will be poor and prices low. Moreover, we gather from speeches in the Council on the official side that a wholly erroneous impression prevails. The cotton mills have made big profits; they will not make big profits this year. The quotations on the Stock Exchange tell their own tale. It is safe to say that in the most favorable conditions the revenues are not likely to exceed the figures in the Budget; if the rains are not good, or if the buying power of the world does not revive, they are likely to be below the official estimate.—Times of India.

The Seats of the Mighty

The Shah of Persia has an armchair made of solid gold. But the fisherman sitting squat and cramped on a projecting rock or overhanging bough, these April days, would not exchange seats with him. Nor would the motorist, making his pleasant way along the springtime roads. Nor the father of any comfortably circumstanced family, at ease at his breakfast table with a cheerful group of healthy youngsters about him. Nor the clerk in the office, perched on a high stool with long columns of figures at his elbow and the hope of a modest week-end outing and a pleasant Sunday in his heart.—Providence Journal.

A Slow Process

In practice the process of "reconstruction," which excited such glowing hopes at the end of the war, is found to be a painful picking of the way between shoals and quicksands with no finality in sight. It must be so for a long time to come, for the world is greatly disturbed and impoverished, and no one can say yet what its "normal" conditions may be or what degree of prosperity or the reverse may be in store for any class. Not to promise the impossible, but to seek always to save the standard of life for the poorest, is the way of safety.—Westminster Gazette.

The Opium Traffic

If the Central Government in China meets opium cultivation with "unswerving opposition," and the people generally are opposed to it, as is so freely stated, the fact that opium is now being cultivated in five provinces of China as well as in Manchuria shows that the Central Government's "unswerving opposition" does not count for much. When the Association says that "unification of the country would undoubtedly lead to complete suppression," we fear this is more a pious hope than a sound conviction. If China herself effectively suppressed the cultivation of the poppy and the manufacture of opium within her own territory she could make her appeal to foreign nations for identical action with far greater force.—Hongkong Press.

Good Grounds for Suspicions

Our government stands with the Allies in holding Germany responsible for the war, and as bound to make reparation to the utmost of her ability. There is a very natural suspicion—natural in view of our past experiences with Germany—that this proposal may be a scheme to divide the allied and associated powers, and even to divide the people in each country against themselves by stirring up discussion amongst them. While the plan will be fairly considered, it cannot be considered wholly apart from that suspicion. Never was it more necessary than it is now to maintain the old unity.—Indianapolis News.

It is a Beauteous Evening

It is a beauteous evening, calm and free;
The holy time is quiet as a Nun
Breathless with adoration; the broad sun
In sinking down in his tranquility;
The gentleness of Heaven broods o'er the Sea;
Listen! the mighty Being is awake,
And doth with his eternal motion make
A sound like thunder—everlastingly.
Dear Child! Dear Girl that walketh with me here,
If thou appear untouched with solemn thought,
Thy nature is not therefore less divine:
Thou liest in Abraham's bosom all the year,
And worship'st at the Temple's inner shrine,
God being with thee when we know it not.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The British Colonist of May 13, 1871)

First Lieut.-Governor (a rumor)—Quite a flutter was occasioned in this community yesterday morning by the circulation of a rumor that Hon. Dr. Helmcken was to be appointed Lieut.-Governor of this Province under confederation. Without attaching much importance to the report, we take occasion to say that if British Columbia is to have a local man for Governor, we do not believe a selection could be made that would give more satisfaction.

Confederation Postponed—Letters received from Ottawa yesterday stated that it would be impossible to proclaim confederation before the 20th of July, in consequence of the anticipated delay of Hon. Mr. Trutch in making the passage to and from England.

LOGANBERRY CULTURE WILL BE DISCUSSED

Meeting of Growers and Those Interested in Industry Will Be Held at Royal Oak on Friday Next

Arrangements have been completed for the proposed meeting of loganberry growers from all parts of Vancouver Island on Friday, May 20. Reeve Watson, of Saanich municipality, a prominent fruitgrower, has very kindly offered the Council chamber for the meeting and has consented to preside.

It is expected that great developments will result from this meeting, and it is possible that a loganberry association will be formed for the sole purpose of gathering data from time to time on the uses, markets and mode of advertising loganberries.

Brief addresses will be given by the Horticultural Branch on market questions, and growers will have an opportunity of making any suggestions, either at the meeting or by letter.

As the loganberry has only been commercialized during the last fifteen years, it is felt that there are hundreds of thousands of people who do not even know the berry or its merits, and that a great market is before the loganberry in its many preserved forms.

Tender Gums
—A Warning

Beware of gum tenderness that warns of Pyorrhea. Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea—many under forty, also. Loosening teeth indicate Pyorrhea. Bleeding gums, too. Remember—these inflamed, bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Forhan's positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. As it hardens the gums the teeth become firmer.

Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes in Canada and U. S. If your druggist cannot supply you, send price to us direct and we will mail tube postpaid.

BOOM-TIME VALUES AFFECT ESTATE DUTY

Judgment of Supreme Court Declares Crown Entitled to Succession Tax on Basis of Inflated Valuation

By a decision handed down in the Supreme Court yesterday, in which judgment for the Crown is given in the case of the King against the United States Fidelity Company and Lorenzo J. Quagliotti, Mr. Justice Gregory affirms that succession duties must be paid on the amount of estate valuations sworn to for probate purposes, even though the estate has been over-valued, and it has been found impossible to realize upon it.

The Crown sued for payment of succession duty on the Victoria estate of the late Mrs. Patronilla Quagliotti, the action being tried here about two months ago. The estate, which included several old buildings in the city, as well as the Variety and Romano Theatres, was valued for probate in the sum of $856,000, the duty on which came to $44,287.50. The company gave a bond, in twice the amount of the duty, as surety for the executor, Mr. Lorenzo J. Quagliotti.

The defendants pleaded that the estate had been much overvalued, and that it had never been possible to realize upon it. It was given in evidence that the estate had never realized enough to pay for its upkeep; and that it had largely been sold for taxes. Evidence was submitted to show that a fair valuation would have been about half of that accepted for probate; and it was argued that duty should be reckoned on the amended valuation.

Estate Overvalued

Mr. Justice Gregory agrees that the estate was overvalued, and thinks that it was not worth more than $500,000 in 1915, when the valuation was made. But he holds that when the bond was executed both the defendants and the Crown believed it was to secure payment of the amount of duty on the actual valuation made for probate, which was accepted by all the parties; and he finds that the company is responsible under the bond.

Judgment for the plaintiff is given in the sum of $44,287.50, with interest at 6 per cent since May, 1915, the defendant company, upon paying the amount due, to stand in the place of the Crown as far as the amount of the duty is concerned.

The learned judge adds as a suggestion that this is a fitting case for the Crown to reduce the amount of the duty, as an act of grace and bounty, the property today being practically valueless and having largely been sold for taxes.

Reminder of Boom

Speaking of the aftermath of the boom in Victoria, and of the period when the valuation was made, the judgment says: "There had been a most unprecedented boom in real estate, during which absolutely unheard-of values were put upon real estate in every part of the city of Victoria. The values in the inventory were based upon those inflated prices, probably through the natural unwillingness of owners to admit that the boom was over and the values gone. The whole country has suffered and is still suffering from the effects of the 'wild cat' speculation of those days."

The learned judge also suggests that a change be made in the form of bond given in cases of this kind; and some provision inserted in the statute for the repayment of duties paid upon property which it is afterwards discerned has no value, or where the former value has disappeared, such provisions already existing in the statutes of other Provinces.

It is probable that the defendant company will appeal the decision to the Privy Council. At the trial of the action both sides intimated that the principle at issue was so important that an appeal would be taken in any event.

On the trial of the action, Mr. S. S. Taylor, K.C., appeared for the Crown; Mr. H. B. Robertson for the defendant company, and Mr. F. C. Elliott for Mr. Quagliotti.

MR. LESTER PATRICK HEADS ROTARIANS

Victoria Businessman and Famous Athlete Elected President, Succeeding Mr. Clifford Denham

Mr. Lester Patrick is the new president of the Victoria Rotary Club. He was elected to this position during yesterday's meeting of the club, and he will succeed Mr. Clifford Denham, whose retirement takes place in two weeks.

Mr. Patrick was the winner in a field of three candidates, the choice of the whole membership as determined by nominations carried on during the past week. Only five votes separated his total from Mr. Percy B. Scurrah, the runner-up, at whose suggestion, seconded by Mr. H. P. Johnson, the other contender, the election was made unanimous.

During the past year Mr. Patrick has served as one of the directors of the club. The vice-president was Mr. James H. Beatty, who declined candidature on account of the necessity of his giving so much time to the Chamber of Commerce, of which he is president. The directors and other officers of the club will be elected next week.

One of the most popular members of the club, Lester Patrick has been active in Rotary for several years, being particularly prominent in the boys' work programme and all athletics in which the club has taken part. He is one of the Rotary gang bosses responsible for the building of the Y.M.C.A. pavilion at Elk Lake. At the recent Northwest Convention in Seattle Lester was one of the yell and song leaders. During the past year, whenever the Rotary Club has been engaged in putting over something big, Lester has usually been in the thick of the action.

Born in Eastern Canada less than forty years ago, the son of ex-Ald. Joseph Patrick, Lester was brought up in Montreal and first gained prominence as an ice hockey star and for years he ranked as one of the wonders of the Winter sport. He lived for a while at Brandon and at Nelson, B.C., where he engaged with his father in the lumber business. When Mr. Patrick, Sr., retired, he and his two sons, Lester and Frank, came to the Coast and introduced ice hockey in Victoria, Vancouver, Portland and other cities by organizing the Pacific Coast Hockey Association and building ice rinks in the principal cities of the Northwest. Mr. Lester Patrick has been president of the Victoria Arena Company, manager of the Victoria ice hockey team, world's champions in 1917, and a partner in the real estate and financial firm of Strickland, Swain & Patrick.

Mr. Ernest J. Down, a member of the Victoria Club, has been named as chairman of the song book committee for the big international convention of Rotary Clubs to be held this Summer in Edinburgh, Scotland. Mr. Down's fame as a writer of parodies and verse has travelled to wherever Rotary flourishes, and many of his own compositions will be sung during the convention, although he is not yet certain whether he will be able to attend the gathering. Jack Bain, of Portland, and Frank Weedon, of Syracuse, N.Y., have been named as other members of the committee. The songs will be distributed in New York the night before the delegation of Rotarians sail on the Mauretania, specially chartered for the trip, and will be used at a big banquet which the New York club is preparing for the delegates on that evening.

NECHACO LANDS CASE COMES INTO COURT

Six Lawyers Appear in Complicated Trial Over Townsite Planned on G.T.P. in Boom Times of 1912

What promises to be a lengthy and complicated trial was commenced in the Supreme Court yesterday, when the action of Greenizen vs. Twigg et al. came on before Mr. Justice Clement. The action is for the recovery of sums alleged to be due on the balance of purchase price of about six hundred acres of land, lying at the mouth of the Nechaco River.

The plaintiff is Isaac Greenizen, a lawyer, of Petrolia, Ontario. He is represented in court by Messrs. W. J. Taylor, K. C., and John R. Green. The defendants are: H. Despard Twigg, barrister and solicitor, of Victoria, for whom Mr. E. C. Mayers, of Vancouver, appears; Wilfred A. Landry, represented by Mr. H. B. Robertson; and Mrs. E. F. McGregor, as executrix of the estate of the late Captain J. Herrick McGregor, represented by Messrs. H. A. Maclean, K. C., and J. B. Clearihue.

The plaintiff's claim, as set out on the endorsement of the writ, is to recover the sum of $24,800.95, with interest since November, 1919, alleged to be due upon a mortgage executed by Mr. Twigg, and payment of which was guaranteed by the other defendants.

The evidence given yesterday was chiefly of a documentary character, more than one hundred exhibits, in the form of correspondence between the parties, agreements, etc., being put in. The plaintiff took the witness stand to authenticate these exhibits. His case is that the defendants formed a syndicate to purchase the lands at the rate of $75 an acre; that $25 an acre was paid; and that the balance of purchase price, in the sum of $50 an acre, has never been paid.

Orgy of Speculation

The plaintiff testified that the sale was made in the boom days of 1912, and that at that time there was an orgy of land speculation in the Nechaco Valley on account of the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. He said that the defendants planned a townsite on the purchased lands, and that the railway company had agreed to build a station there, the line running through the lands. He said it looked at the time like an excellent speculation, as the townsite was at the mouth of the river, at the natural outlet and port of entry for all that part of the country. In the event, however, Mr. Greenizen testified, the station was actually built four miles away from the projected townsite, on the site of the present town of Grandview.

The defence sets up in its pleadings that the plaintiff entered into an arrangement with the late J. H. McGregor, who was afterwards killed at the front, whereby the price of the land was increased from $50 to $75 an acre; that McGregor controlled a half interest in the syndicate that was to buy the land at the price alleged to be enhanced; that he was to have the difference between the two prices for himself; and that neither of the parties to the alleged arrangement ever disclosed it to the syndicate. The defendants plead that this is a fraud upon them by the plaintiff, and ask for a recission of the contract to purchase.

The trial will be resumed today.

Moundsville, W.Va.—"I had taken doctor's medicine for nearly two years because my periods were irregular, came every two weeks, and I would suffer with bearing-down pains. A lady told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how much good it had done her daughter, so I took it and now I am regular every month and have no pain at all. I recommend your medicine to everyone and you may publish my testimonial, hoping that the Vegetable Compound does some other girl the good it has done me."—Mrs. GEORGE TEGARDEN, 915 Third Street, Moundsville, W. Va.

How many young girls suffer as Mrs. Tegarden did and do not know where to turn for advice or help. They often are obliged to earn their living by toiling day in and day out no matter how hard the pain they have to bear. Every girl who suffers in this way should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and if she does not get prompt relief write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about their health.

Handsomely Designed Coats and Wraps

The popularity of the embroidered wrap-effect coat is because it is one of the most useful garments designed in many years. It is adaptable to the changing seasons and will be even more in vogue in the Fall than now. These wrap coats—beautifully silk lined—are shown in ramona, tricotine, velour and other soft fabrics. Shades and embroideries are unusually attractive and prices reasonable.

GERMAN DEVASTATION

Speaking at a recent meeting of the Societe des Ingenieurs Civils de France, Mr. P. Marringe, President of the Federation of Master Spinners of the Fourmies district, dealt with the German devastation of the textile industries of Northern France. The importance of those industries can be gathered from the following figures. Immediately the Germans occupied the northern departments of France, not a single woolcombing machine was left throughout the country, there remained in activity throughout the land only 160,000 combed wool spindles out of 2,400,000; only half, the total of 760,000 carded wool spindles; only about 11,080 weaving looms out of 56,000. The installations at Rheims were destroyed by gunfire. Those at Roubaix-Tourcoing were damaged in the German hunt for copper, and in various other ways. The Fourmies district remained practically the whole time away from actual fighting range and did not suffer from gunfire, but this notwithstanding, the destruction by hammer, pick, dynamite and fire was complete, the Fourmies woolen plants having always proved most serious competitors of those of Germany. The enemy reached the district on August 26, 1914, and left it on November 9, 1918. When they arrived there were 75 textile works in full activity; they destroyed all except five combed wool spinning plants, one carded wool spinning plant and one combing plant. The steam engines were broken or otherwise damaged; the boilers removed and rendered unserviceable, the safes were broken into and all records of manufacture, samples, reference data, representing thirty years of activity, removed to Germany. Eighty-eight per cent of the spindles and the whole of the weaving machinery were destroyed. This applies only to the Fourmies district, and the German action in that district meant the destruction of over one-third of the spinning capacity and over one-fourth of the weaving capacity of all France. It is satisfactory to note that the engineers in charge are working actively at the reconstruction of their plant, but the machinery and spindles remain as yet very much below the pre-war figure, owing to numerous difficulties caused by lack of material of all kinds and lack of coal. No less satisfactory is the fact that the spinners and weavers are working heart and soul as navvies and builders until they are able to resume their pre-war trades.—London Engineering.

City and District in Brief

Annual Meeting—The annual meeting of the Ladies' Musical Club will be held on Wednesday, May 18, at the Y.W.C.A., commencing at 2:30.

Bank Clearings — The total clearings of the Victoria clearing house for the week ending May 12, were $2,446,114, and for the same week in 1920, $3,960,319.

Conservative Luncheon — At the regular weekly luncheon of the Conservative Club today at 1 o'clock, Canon Hinchliffe, Conservative member for Victoria, will be the guest and will deliver an address.

Flower Tea Saturday—The Robert Valentine Harvey Chapter, I.O.D.E., is holding a flower-guessing tea at the residence of Mrs. Bradshawe, Palo Alto, Mount Tolmie, on Saturday afternoon, from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock.

Dance Tonight — The combined Scottish societies are holding an informal dance in the Caledonia Hall, View Street, this evening, commencing at 8:30 o'clock. A programme of attractive dance music will be given by Mrs. Rigard's orchestra, while refreshments will be served during the evening.

Regatta Committee—A meeting of the Regatta Committee for the Victoria Day and Broom Festival was held last evening. A good programme of events was arranged and a special committee will wait upon H.M.C. ships now at Esquimalt to see what events they will be able to fill, when the full programme will be published.

"Intimate Glimpses of the Orient" —A lecture entitled "Intimate Glimpses of the Orient" will be given this evening in the Wilkinson Road Methodist Church by Rev. B. M. Perley, under the auspices of the Men's Brotherhood. The talk will be illustrated by slides from photographs made by the lecturer himself.

Cemetery Scheme Approved—The Saanich Council last night approved the inter-municipal cemetery scheme and went on record as willing to enter into it on condition that the agreement between the municipalities be satisfactory. The resolution followed the reading of the recommendations made on the cemetery question by the Inter-Municipal Committee.

Daughters of England—A very enjoyable evening was spent at a whist drive under the auspices of Primrose Lodge, Daughters of England, in Drake's Hall on Wednesday. The winners were: First ladies, Mrs. Berryman; second, Mrs. Earl. Consolation, Mrs. Watson. First gentlemen's, Mr. Taylor; second, Mr. Sinclair. Consolation, Mr. Sewell.

Windows Stolen — Complaint was made yesterday to the police by the B. A. Bond & Trust Company that windows have been stolen from the vacant premises at 66 Dallas Road on Wednesday, and that a motor truck was seen to have been at the place, the driver of which carted away the window. The police are investigating the matter.

Gordon Head School Library—A letter from the principal of the Gordon Head School, asking if the Council had rejected the request for library privileges because of the way the cards were made out was received by the Saanich Council last night. A reply was authorized, stating that the matter was settled at a former meeting.

Victoria West P.-T.—The next meeting of the Victoria West Parent-Teachers' Association will take the form of a social and will be held in the assembly room of the school on Tuesday next, at 7:30 p.m. The programme, consisting of music and games, has been arranged, and all parents and others interested in education are invited to attend.

Community Sing—There is to be a "Community" sing outside the Parliament Buildings on May 24, and at the final recital of the Ladies' Musical Club for the season Mrs. Hicks, the president, announced that there would be a rehearsal on May 19, to which any and all members of the club who wished to take part in the "sing" were cordially invited.

W.A. of G.W.V.A. Concert—The Women's Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. entertained on Monday night for the members, a very nice programme of songs and recitations being given by "home" talent. During the evening Mrs. Ricketts, president of the Auxiliary, was presented with a nice fern in appreciation of her work, and the pleasant proceedings came to a close with the serving of refreshments.

Made Presentation—Mrs. Jacklin, a popular member of Victoria Review, No. 1, Ladies of the Maccabees, was the recipient on Tuesday night of a handsome silver fern dish presented to her by her sister Maccabees in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of her wedding day. Mrs. Hodgson, provincial commander, made the presentation on behalf of the Order, which was in session on that evening at the K. of C. Hall.

Railway Board Sitting—A letter from the Railway Board stating that it would sit in Ottawa on May 18, to consider the increases asked by the B. C. Telephone Company, was received by the Saanich Council last night. "That is Government service," remarked Reeve Watson. We receive a letter on the 12th, telling of a sitting on the 18th." The Council decided to take no action in regard to the sitting of the Board.

Withhold Payment—In answer to a request that a light put up at the corner of Cowper and Dysart Roads be raised in order that it should be more efficient, a letter was received by the Saanich Council last night stating that the B. C. Electric would make the change if Saanich would foot the bill. On motion of Councillor Ormond, the Council decided to withhold payment for the light until the alteration was made.

Officers Elected—The annual meeting of the central committee of the Saanich Women's Institutes took place yesterday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. quarters. The following officers were elected for the year: President, Mrs. Nimmo, of the South Saanich Women's Institute; vice-president, Mrs. Walter Foster, of the Strawberry Vale Institute; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. George Watson, of the Gordon Head Women's Institute. The annual reports were made.

Action Dismissed—In the County Court yesterday His Honor Judge Lampman dismissed the action of Leon King against James A. Wilby. The plaintiff sought to recover damages in the sum of $200, alleging that the marine engine he bought from the defendant for $100 was never any good, and that he had been obliged to spend more than $100 on it in repairs. The learned judge held that the plaintiff had not established his case. Mr. J. Percival Walls appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. A. W. Staples for the defendant.

Three K's at Metchosin—Tonight a big time is promised to all lovers of a good evening's enjoyment at the hall, Metchosin, the proceeds to be given to the church. The first part of the programme will be provided by Victoria's popular concert party, "The Three K's" (Kruesader Komedy Kompany), who will produce their well-known local success, "A Real Night of Fun." Refreshments will be served after this performance, and then the floor will be given over to dancing till one o'clock the music being provided by Featherpe's orchestra.

Entertained Orphans—The children of the Protestant Orphanage and of the Children's Aid were entertained on Wednesday afternoon by the "Children of Shoal Bay" at a dress-rehearsal of the entertainment which is being given this evening at St. Mary's Hall, Oak Bay, for the benefit of the new organ fund of St. Mary's Church. Ice cream was served to the little guests during the afternoon, and a very enjoyable time was spent. The girls who are giving the entertainment tonight have worked hard, and well merit a full house at this, their first appearance as entertainers.

Interurban Service—It is out of the question to increase the service on the Saanich Interurban line between Wilkinson Road Station and the city, at noon time, the manager of the B. C. Electric Railway Company told the Saanich Council last night, by letter. He declared that the Saanich division was giving very poor returns. The Council passed a resolution stating that the reply was unsatisfactory. Councillor Kingwell will gather data concerning overcrowding on the cars.

Holding "Story Hour"—Miss Smith, who is here directing the preparations for the first of the Dominion Chautauqua series, yesterday visited a number of the city schools to tell the teachers and students of what is being offered for the entertainment and instruction of the boys and girls at the big Chautauqua tent next week. She succeeded in rallying about one hundred children for the first "story hour," which was held yesterday afternoon after school hours at the Chautauqua tent, and so great was the interest that it has been decided to hold these gatherings every day for the remainder of the week. To-day Miss Smith intends visiting several more schools in the city to tell the classes about the event which opens here next week.

Thanks to Helpers—The ladies' committee of the Protestant Orphanage are grateful to the following for help given at the tag day held last Saturday: Mr. Fernie for a handsome donation of $50; Mr. A. B. Fraser for a cheque of $25; the public for donations in the collection boxes; the Ministering, Shining Cross, Bluebird, and Golden Glow Circles of the King's Daughters for tagging; Mrs. J. H. Macfarlane for assistance at the headquarters during the busy hours of the day; the Bishop Cridge Ministering Chapter; Messrs. Reginald Hayward and Starrett for assistance in counting the collections; Mrs. Cassidy, Mr. John Day, Spencer's for tags and sashes for the taggers; the daily press for editorials and items of interest. The tag netted $1,775.16, clearing $1,763.66 after the payment of expenses.

Elks Entertain—Over two hundred people attended the grand entertainment given last night by the Ladies of the Royal Purple, Women's Auxiliary of the Elks, in conjunction with the Victoria B. P. O. E., No. 2, of D. C. The gathering was a distinct social success in every manner, and the feast of good things provided during the evening were of a most enjoyable nature. Mr. Darrell W. Spence acted as chairman. The first part of the programme was devoted to a musical treat. Dancing took up the greater part of the evening, and Heaton's orchestra supplied the music. A delicious buffet supper was served during the evening. Special credit is due the committee, which was composed of Mrs. Champion, Mrs. Chas. Brooks, Mrs. D. W. Spence, Mrs. M. C. Sands, and the social committee of the men's order.

Accept Lower Wages

SPOKANE, May 13.—Voluntary wage reductions of $1 a day for city work and $2 for outside work have been voted by the local plasterers' union, T. C. Wilson, business agent, said today. He said the new scale would call for $9 a day for city work and $10 for outside work.

Investigates Liquor Organization

SEATTLE, May 12. — John G. Montgomery, chief of Federal prohibition enforcements agents for Washington, here today from Tacoma, declared he has under investigation a heavily financed nation-wide "liquor organization" operating with Seattle as its headquarters.

How You Can Make Hairs Quickly Disappear

(Helps to Beauty)

Even a stubborn growth of hair will quickly vanish from the face, neck or arms after a single treatment with delatone. To remove hair from arms, neck or face make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after about two minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left free from hair or blemish. To avoid disappointment, be quite certain you get real delatone and mix fresh. (Advt.)

TO KEEP NEW FACTORY BUSY, FIRM ADVERTISES

There are hundreds of instances of new factories required to take care of the demand which newspaper advertising had created, but perhaps the greatest compliment paid to the efficacy of newspaper publicity is the large new factory just now completed on St. Valier Street in Quebec City, by the Parisien Corset Co., Ltd., of that city, which is built upon the faith of the power of newspaper advertising to keep it operating to capacity.

While this is the second addition to the plant of the Parisian Corset Co. in recent years, not a line of newspaper space had ever been used to advertise their product, but is planning the latest extension the management, after observing the power of publicity as demonstrated during the war years, were of the opinion that newspapers provided a sure short cut to rapid growth, and instead of depending upon the normal growth of their business to keep the plant operating to the full, they are today advertising their product in newspapers from Atlantic to Pacific to speed up demand.

The new factory faces St. Valier Street, extending back to Colomb Street. The floor space is 50,000 square feet and the capacity 4,000 corsets a day. Nearly 500 hands will be employed. The business is one of Quebec's most important industries. Ernest E. Ross is vice-president, and Gordon A. Ross is secretary-treasurer. Branch offices and stockrooms are maintained at Montreal and Toronto.

AERIAL PROTECTION

Forest Branch Plans for Protecting Timber Through Use of Seaplanes and Pumps

Following experiments which have been carried on by the officials of the Forest Branch of the Provincial Department of Mines covering a period of over a year, it is proposed this year to employ seaplanes in the work of forest protection from fire. Tests of various types of power pumps have been under way for some time, and the Department has decided to adopt one, gasoline driven, which can readily be operated by two men. About eighty of these pumps will be secured and held in readiness in various portions of the Province where forest protection is required.

The seaplanes will be used for locating the exact position of a forest fire and for conveying firefighters and equipment to the spot. In this way many an incipient blaze will be attacked early, before it has had opportunity to spread and involve large areas of valuable timber.

The death rate of infants within their first year in France is between fifteen and twenty per cent.

SEAMEN'S INSTITUTES HOLD ANNUAL SESSION

Rev. Mr. Spence Elected President for the Ensuing Year—Reports Show Progress in Good Work for Sailors

Encouraging reports of the work carried on by the Victoria Seamen's Institutes during the past year were presented at the annual meeting of that organization held last evening in Belmont House, when a large attendance of members gathered to deal with the reports and elect officers for the ensuing year. The election of officers created some keen discussion as to the constitutional manner of choice, and the differences of opinion expressed indicated the force of the recommendation in the report of the committee of management that the constitution and by-laws should be revised and printed. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Rev. W. D. Spence.

Vice-president—Reeve Lockley, of Esquimalt.

Treasurer—Mr. A. Lee.

Committee of Management—Miss A. Pooley, Rev. Father Silver, Captain W. J. Troup, Messrs. A. J. Dallain, W. J. Spencer, Arthur Coles, D. Leeming and J. Kingham.

Representatives of the British and Foreign Sailors' Society—Mr. R. H. Pooley, M.P.P., and Mr. Ravenhill.

Reports on Work

The report of the retiring president, Rev. H. T. Archibald, on behalf of the officers and committee of management of the past year, set forth the steps taken consequent upon the visit to Victoria last May of Mr. Justice Craig, representative of the National Council of the British and Foreign Sailors' Society, whereby the Victoria Seamen's Institutes severed their connection with the Navy League of Canada, a separation taking effect as from July 1, 1920. The work of organization to meet the new conditions was touched upon, the work having been carried steadily on. The report points to the fact that local support does not maintain the work of the institutes, a fact which, it states, will call for serious consideration of the new committee in framing a future policy. Suggestions contained in the report were the revision of the constitution and bylaws, provision for an advisory committee to meet at least once quarterly; future policy and scale of expenditures having regard to the existing conditions of shipping and possible future developments, both naval and mercantile. By a new arrangement this year, the report set forth, the headquarters in London have placed all Canadian branches under the Canadian National Council, and direct communication with London has ceased, all business being transacted through Toronto, headquarters for Canada. The hope was expressed that this arrangement will make for increased efficiency in the work.

The financial report presented by the treasurer, Mr. Lee, gave the following details:

Receipts

Donations—
Ladies' Guild	$ 713.00
Mrs. Audain	50.00

Total	$3,196.86
Balance in hand	$26.83

The financial report, duly audited, was approved.

The report of the Port Missionary, Mr. T. Wright Hill, which emphasized the spiritual phase of the work of the institutes and the work done in visiting the sick sailor boys, pointed to the fact that twelve sailors have joined the Sailors' Christian Brotherhood, seven of them belonging to the Boys' Naval Brigade. Regret at the deaths of four sailors was expressed. During the year there were distributed five Bibles, six Testaments, 134 Bible portions, 234 tracts, as well as nine parcels of magazines. One ocean library was loaned to the oil tanker Tarolight. Meetings ashore numbered fifty, with an attendance of 627; ships visited, 52; shipping offices, docks and wharves, 55; hospitals, 92; sick sailors, 238; families, 128; attendance at reading room, 514; letters received and posted, 154; R.C.B. new members, 12; seamen clothed, 6; free beds, 97; number staying at institute, 203; free meals, 172; situations obtained, 4.

The financial statement of the Women's Guild presented by Mrs. Gordon Smith, showed receipts of $2,598.67, and expenditures of $2,164.36. The many activities of that organization in behalf of the sailors were referred to, as well as the work done in entertaining the members of the Canadian squadron on its arrival here and during the stay of the men. The report of Miss Pooley, chairmen of the committee named to entertain the men of the squadron, was also a satisfactory one, and many eulogistic references to Miss Pooley's work in this connection were voiced, a hearty vote of thanks being extended to her.

Votes of thanks to the retiring officers were also heartily approved. The meeting, which was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Spence, closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

OBITUARY NOTICES

ATKINSON—The death of Mrs. Annie Atkinson, widow of Andrew Atkinson, took place yesterday morning at the Victoria Private Hospital. The deceased lady was born at Newcastle, England, and came to Victoria about 14 years ago, having, however, come to Canada when a child about 70 years ago. She was residing with her nephew, Mr. Robert W. Gibson, of 1590 York Place, Oak Bay. The remains are reposing at the B. C. Funeral Chapel, and will be forwarded on Sunday to Birtle, Manitoba, for interment. Mr. Gibson will accompany the remains.

SUE—Chong Sue, a prominent Chinese Freemason, died yesterday at his home in this city. He was 65 years of age, and born in China. The funeral will take place on Sunday from the B. C. Funeral Chapel, interment being made in the Chinese cemetery.

COOMBS—Service was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Thomson Funeral Home for the late Robert MacLaren Coombs, whose death occurred on May 6 at Bay View, Cordova Bay. Rev. W. Leslie Clay gave a very impressive service. The hymns sung were "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee." There was a large attendance of friends, and the many beautiful floral tributes showed the high esteem in which Mr. Coombs was held by all. The following were pallbearers: A. McIlvride, Dr. L. M. More, J. G. Fenwick, R. Sword, F. Calvert, F. C. Patterson. Interment was at Ross Bay cemetery.

THORLEY—The death occurred on May 10, at the family residence on Carey Road, Saanich, of James Gordon, the 3-year and 11-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thorley. The funeral will be held May 14, the cortege leaving the residence at 1:30, proceeding to St. Mary's Church of England, at Royal Oak, where the Rev. Mr. Littler will conduct the services at 2 p.m. Interment in St. Mary's churchyard.

SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL OF DIOCESAN W.A.

Reports Read at Yesterday's Sessions at the Cathedral Schoolroom Show General Increase—200 Delegates

Growth in the number of branches and membership of the organization was disclosed by the reports read yesterday at the first day's sessions of the seventeenth annual meeting of the Columbia Diocesan W. A.

The day's programme commenced with a celebration of communion at Christ Church Cathedral at 9:45, the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Columbia being the celebrant. Rev. Mr. Rowe gave a very fine address at this service, choosing as his text the W. A. Motto, "The Love of Christ Constraineth Us." There were about 150 communicants.

The business sessions took place at the Cathedral schoolroom, Mrs. Beleon, the president, in the chair. One of the outstanding features of the morning session was the creation of Mrs. Chas. Bishop as a life-member of the society.

Other business during the morning included the reading of Diocesan officers' reports, Mrs. Cook giving a very interesting resume of her work for the past eight years. Rev. Principal Vance, of the Anglican Theological College, Vancouver, gave a striking address about the work of that institution. The vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Mrs. Quainton, seconded by Mrs. Luxton.

Address of Welcome

Mrs. Quainton delivered the address of welcome to the visiting delegates, on behalf of whom Mrs. Christmas, of Duncan, responded.

The afternoon session opened at 2:15, Mrs. Schofield conducting the prayers. Immediately afterwards was given the annual address of the president, Mrs. Belson, who urged the members to do what they could in disseminating the knowledge of missions in their respective parishes.

The secretary, Mrs. Bishop, gave some interesting statistics in her annual report, among some of the facts cited being that there are 26 senior branches of the W. A. in the Diocese; 14 girls', and 16 junior, with a total membership of 1,253. There are 87 Diocesan life members, seven of these having been presented during the past year.

Among the visitors to whom special welcome was extended were Mrs. Bunn, social service worker from Vancouver; Mrs. Cook, of the Indian School, Alert Bay; Miss Sanders, of Japan, and the representative from Somenos, and Mrs. Colin Cummins, who has come over from Seattle to attend the sessions.

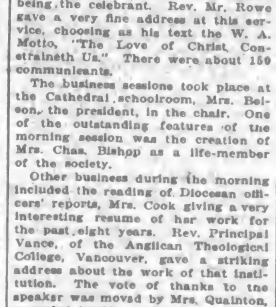

Other reports which came in during the day were from the church embroidery secretary, the treasurer's report, given by Miss Cowley, showing total receipts for the year amounting to $4,659.56, with disbursements amounting to $3,969.56. The corresponding secretary also reported. The little helpers' secretary and the extra-cent-a-day secretary also reported.

Columbia Coast Mission

Mrs. Miles, reporting for the Columbia Coast Mission, told of the distribution of books to West Coast missions every month; the Dorcas secretary reported a big increase during the year in the number of bales sent and amounts contributed to the work; the organizing secretary, Mrs. Dixon, gave a most instructive address on the work of the Women's Auxiliary, urging them to follow the constitution as closely as possible.

At 3:30 Rev. Neville L. Ward, of Vancouver, gave a very interesting address, in which he reviewed at some length the condition of the Oriental problem in Canada today. It was, he stated, a national rather than a local or even Provincial problem.

Miss Belson read the list of nominations, and elections will take place today. Further business which has to come before the meeting today will include general reports of city branches and out-of-town branches. Miss Baynes, social service worker, head of the Girls' Industrial Home, will give an address; also Mrs. Bunn, social service worker for the W. A., Vancouver; Miss Sanders, C.M.S., of Japan, will give an address in the afternoon. The question box will be opened, and the Bishop of Columbia will give the concluding address of the meeting.

PREPARE PLANS FOR "EDUCATION WEEK"

Public Meeting Will Be Held at High School Thursday — Luncheons Arranged for Monday and Friday

The big public meeting intended to be the feature of the "Education Week," starting on Monday under the auspices of the School Board, will be held on Thursday next, and not on Wednesday, the date previously selected, according to the decision of last night's meeting of the committee. The gathering will be held at the Victoria High School, and the speakers, who will deal in the main with technical education, will be Principal Lister, of the Vancouver Technical School, and Mr. R. R. Neild, of the Victoria Machinery Depot. Dean Coleman, of the University of British Columbia, will be a third speaker, if plans under consideration last night are perfected.

The first function in connection with "Education Week" will occur on Monday, when a luncheon will be held under the auspices of the Gyro Club in the Chautauqua tent on Pandora Street. Mr. George Jay will speak on "School Accommodation," and Mrs. W. S. Graves and Mr. C. T. Cross on "Playgrounds."

On Friday a second luncheon will be held in the Chautauqua tent, with the co-operation of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and the Chamber of Commerce. "Education as a Civic Asset" will be the subject of the address of Harry Charlesworth, the main speaker, and if arrangements can be made, the views on the same subject as entertained by Dean Coleman will follow. Delegates from the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs assured the committee last night that all possible support and assistance would be extended by their organizations.

Friday will also be School Visiting Day, and the public will be invited to throng the scholastic institutions of the city and view the handicraft and activities of the pupils. A conference will be held with the school principals in furtherance of this plan.

An extensive scheme of advertising in connection with "Education Week" has been planned, and will be carried out through the theatres and other mediums.

A. AND N. VETERANS CHOOSE OFFICIALS

Annual Election of Officers Took Place Last Night—Comrade Rolinson Is President of Organization

The monthly meeting of the Army and Navy Veterans was held last night in their headquarters, Hamley Building, with Comrade Rolinson in the chair.

An election of officers for the forthcoming year took place as follows: President, Comrade S. Rolinson; Comrade S. Petch, first vice-president; Comrade G. N. Morris, second vice-president; Comrade C. F. L. Money, secretary; Comrade Ernest Down, treasurer; executive council composed of Comrades Hardisty, Jones and Brown.

It was decided to send delegates to the Veterans of France, where a meeting will be held on May 17, to consider a scheme to amalgamate all ex-service organizations under the British League, although each organization will definitely maintain its own identity. Comrades Fullerton, Rolinson, Dark and King were appointed as representatives of the organization.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the Memorial Avenue proposal of planting trees in commemoration of the sacrifices of those from this city who fell in the recent war.

A communication from the G.W.V.A. referring to the fact that several aliens had been employed in the Choiberg shipyard and requesting the organization to take a determined stand in the matter, was read and endorsed with the rider of Comrade Fullerton, to the effect that the Dominion Government be advised that the unemployment situation is very acute and that shipbuilding work be continued.

The organization placed itself on record as deprecating the intent of the Civil Service bill at present before the Dominion House, and urging that in the interest of the returned men and the people in general that political patronage be not approved of in the appointments to the civil service of the country.

London Wool Sales

LONDON, May 13.—The wool auction sales closed today with offering of 8,872 bales. Prices were firm and of the highest. During the series merinos gained 10 to 20, fine crossbreds 5, other crossbreds 15, and Cape of Good Hope and Natal 5 to 10 per cent., During the sales the home trade bought 25,000 bales, the continent 43,000, and America 2,000, while 5,000 were held over.

The peak of Mount Everest has rarely been photographed.

CHAPTERS GRANTED DATE RESERVATIONS

Municipal Chapter I.O.D.E. in Session Yesterday at Headquarters—Gift From Gonzales Chapter

The following dates were reserved by various Chapters yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., the Regent, Mrs. Sampson, presiding, namely: May 23, Robert Burns McMicking Chapter; June 10, Daisy Chain Chapter; July 7, Gonzales Chapter; July 20, Gonzales Chapter, and July 16, Camosun Chapter.

The correspondence included a letter from Mrs. Moffat, of Fernie, who expressed her thanks to members of the local branch of the I.O.D.E. for the pleasure she had found in her recent visit to the city as a delegate to the convention. Mrs. Sampson and Mrs. Thomson were elected as the Order's representatives to the meeting to be held in connection with educational matters, upon receipt of an invitation to attend the meeting from Miss Crease. The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Mayhew. An appeal was made by Mrs. Sampson for further contributions of magazines for distribution in the hospitals.

Mrs. L. B. Kent reported on the Boy Scouts Association, and suggested that a hall might be arranged for the Association. This led to some discussion, and a picnic was proposed in place of the dance. Both these propositions are to be taken back to the committee.

Mrs. Sampson and Mrs. Miller reported on the recently held meeting of the Veterans of France, in connection with the removal of the soldier patients from the Island. It was announced that should any of the Primary Chapters have pictures which they intended presenting to the school of their adoption, that a fitting day would be Empire Day.

Mrs. Curtis Sampson, on behalf of Mrs. L. B. Kent, Regent of the Gonzales Chapter, presented a picture of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales to the headquarters rooms, and a letter of sincere appreciation will be forwarded by the Municipal Chapter to the Gonzales Chapter for the gift. An invitation was sent from the Agnes Deans Cameron Chapter to the members to attend the affair which they will hold at the home of Mrs. Russell, Fernwood Road. The remainder of the meeting was devoted to the amendments and resolutions brought back to the Chapter from the Provincial meeting.

"HIS HOUSE IN ORDER"

Esquimalt Women's Institute Will Convene Stall for Fete on May 21

The monthly meeting of the Esquimalt Women's Institute was held in the Sailors' Club on Wednesday, when a goodly number of the members were present and several new members joined.

The Institute is to hold a stall, "His House in Order," at the fete to be held at Mrs. Godman's on May 21. Needless to say, the home cooking will be excellent, and the household accessories both useful and attractive. The business was mainly discussion of the flower show to be held in the Fall, and the reading of a paper on Child Welfare by Mrs. Read, who was the delegate at the formation of the Child Welfare Council.

Tea was then served, and a very delightful meeting came to a close. Mrs. Ricketts, the president, presided with her usual charm.

The hostesses were Mrs. Bowden, Mrs. Merrill and Mrs. Read.

101ST ANNIVERSARY WAS COMMEMORATED

Florence Nightingale Chapter Honored Their Namesake Yesterday at Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital

In commemorating the 101st anniversary of Florence Nightingale's birthday, which occurred yesterday, members of the Florence Nightingale Chapter, I. O. D. E., gave, through the kindness of Miss J. F. Mackenzie, lady superintendent of the Jubilee Hospital, over three hundred citizens of this city a thoroughly enjoyable, and also instructive afternoon, in that the Chapter served tea in the long corridor of the Jubilee Hospital, and guests were allowed the privilege of viewing the entire hospital, many of the visitors doing so for the first time, and expressing their pleasure.

Upon arriving the visitors were received by Miss Jessie Mackenzie, Mrs. H. F. Crowe, regent of the Florence Nightingale Chapter; Mrs. A. B. Hudson, Miss Lovell, Mrs. Hasell and members of the Daughters of Pity, who assisted the Chapter throughout the afternoon. Mrs. McAdam proved an excellent convenor for the tea arrangements, which were managed with the greatest satisfaction to all, and the large attendance of guests were served with every comfort. Mrs. McCaw had charge of the musical programme which was carried out during the afternoon, solos being rendered by Mrs. Dennis, Miss Dorrell and Miss Winifred Bell, while a violin solo was given by Mr. Vernon Smith, and Miss Ruth Curtis played a pianoforte selection. An added musical attraction was the Pathe phonograph which was brought to the hospital by Mr. P. J. Balagno, and which had been offered for the afternoon by the Pathe manager, Mr. A. L. Jenkins. Many and varied were the delightful selections which were played by the phonograph, all of which enhanced the enjoyment of the tea hour.

Beautiful Decorations

The decorations which adorned the hospital corridors and wards lent a charmingly Springlike appearance to the institution, while the tea table was exquisitely decorated with a color scheme of purple and white, which was daintily carried out with masses of lilac, bridal wreath, purple flags, the centrepiece being surrounded by moss. Lilies of the valley, which are known to have been Florence Nightingale's favorite bloom, also lent a delightful fragrance to the decorations, which had been arranged by Mrs. McAdam, Mrs. Wright, Miss Wright, Mrs. Mellor, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Humber and Mrs. Seabrook Young.

The enjoyment of the little folk had not been overlooked in the arrangements for the afternoon, and a large consignment of guinea pigs delighted the hearts of the lucky winners, who held the fortunate cards in their hands, and at the close of the day only three small animals were left in their former home.

Tea was served to every patient in the hospital in commemorating the birthday of Florence Nightingale, and the thanks of the patients of the tubercular ward go to Mrs. H. K. Prior and Mrs. James Baker for the ice cream which they received at tea time.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

A tea was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. A. Meharey, Howe Street, in aid of the St. Andrew's Ladies Aid. Over thirty guests were present during the afternoon, and a delightful musical programme was carried out by Mrs. Archie Wills, Mrs. C. H. Dennis, solos, and Miss M. Judd, pianoforte selections. The house was artistically decorated with primroses, and the guests were received by Mrs. Meharey, who was assisted by Mrs. R. M. Phillips. Tea was served by Miss Archibald, Miss G. Scott and Miss Mary Clay.

Mrs. B. T. Rogers was hostess on Wednesday afternoon at an "at home" at her residence on Davie Street, in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Mischel Cherniavsky. Masses of lovely Spring flowers were artistically arranged throughout the spacious rooms. In the dining-room the table was presided over by Mrs. F. C. Saunders, Mrs. C. G. Henshaw, Mrs. Harold King and Mrs. H. B. Sherwood. The ices were cut by Mrs. Blythe Rogers. Mrs. Cherniavsky will be in Victoria for a week or more when her husband, the well-known 'cellist, comes here to give his recital, about the end of the month.

Mrs. Richard Nash entertained at her home, Pemberton Road, on Wednesday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. Wilson-Jones. The tea table was very attractively arranged with a centre bowl of iris and doronicum, Mrs. Hodgins and Mrs. S. Maclure presiding at the urns. After tea the guests repaired to the drawing-room, where an informal musicale was much enjoyed, the principal contributors to the programme being Mrs. Wilson-Jones, Mrs. J. R. Green and Mrs. Baird. Other guests present were Mrs. Fitzherbert Bullen, Mrs. Heimcken, Miss Bruce, Mrs. MacPhillips, Mrs. Laundy, Mrs. Bannerman-Campbell, Mrs. Nixon and Mrs. Roberts.

Craze for Education

What is needed by the nation
Is a scheme of education
Which will rouse the admiration
Of the universe at large,
For a knowledge that surpasses
Is far sweeter to the masses
Than a barrel of molasses
If they get it free of charge.

Take the plumber, for example
(His remuneration's ample)
He might tell us in a sample
Of his literary style
Why the water in your hose is
Frozen solid when your noses
Run as freely as did Moses
By the rushes of the Nile.

Or the grocer when he pleases
Might indite a learned thesis
On the various kinds of cheeses
With the most aesthetic taste,
So that followers of Zola
Could enjoy on a Victrola
A romance of gongonsola
Unexceptionaly chaste.

And the butcher with a fancy
To excel the famous Chauncey
Through the use of necromancy
Make our sides with laughter shake,
For the entertaining prattle
Of his disembodied cattle
Would be better than a rattle—
Or perhaps a pound of steak.

From the noble politician
By the means of erudition,
We'd expect a new edition
Of the usual song he sings
With the same old brand of butter
Foreadventure he might utter
With his customary stutter
Many wise and truthful things.

FIVE HUNDRED AT ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL

Every Department of Big Establishment Thrown Open to Visitors Yesterday Afternoon—Tea at Nurses' Home

About five hundred people visited St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday afternoon in response to the invitation extended by them for "Hospital Day," and under the direction of the various sections of the reception committee which were posted about the different floors of the big institution everyone was given a thorough insight into the operation of the departments of the vast establishment.

The reception committee was composed of Mesdames McDermott, Goward, Curry, O'Halloran, W. T. Barrett, J. D. Hunter, James Hunter, T. McLaughlin, Hallam, Angus Campbell and Hon. John Hart. Two or three of the committee were stationed on each floor, and after greeting visitors passed them on to the Sisters and the hospital nurses to be conducted round the institution. Everything was open for inspection, from the pantries, with their neatly-arranged trays ready to carry to the patients' rooms, to the X-ray department, where Dr. Poynts favored the visitors with a demonstration of the "plant." The laboratory, the surgeries, the nursery (occupied by the very small infants), the linen presses, the main kitchen, which is in direct charge of three of the Sisters, the laundry, which is also under the direct personal supervision of one of the Sisters, the cellars, storerooms, children's ward, which has six cots occupied at the present time, the soldiers' ward, where about fifteen men are being cared for, and all other parts of the hospital were included in the "tour," which was the first of its kind that many of the visitors had ever experienced.

Everywhere the hospital was beautifully decorated with dogwood and bluebells, and the final touch in aesthetic comfort was found in the nurses' home, beautifully decorated with apple blossom, and where afternoon tea was served to about three hundred people. Sister Mary Anna was in general charge, although the Nurses' Alumnae of St. Joseph's looked after the details, Mrs. Sinclair, Mrs. Fowler and Mrs. Sylvester pouring tea, and the following acting as helpers: Miss Steele, Miss Johnson, Miss Madigan, Mrs. Osborne, Miss Macdonald and Miss Sanders. In the busiest part of the afternoon a staff of extra nurses, under the direction of Miss Whitelaw, gave yeomah service. Among the final visitors were about twenty-five of the senior boarders from St. Ann's Academy.

During the afternoon a number of friends subscribed generously to a "silver fund" which has been established with a view to buying the nucleus of a library of text books for the nurses' use. A register was also opened for St. Joseph's "first hospital day," and many visitors inscribed their names in this. One of the most unpremeditated features of the day, however, was the founding of a St. Joseph's Hospital Auxiliary, in which many members were enrolled.

GIRLS' CORNER CLUB

Many Members Celebrate Mothers' Day at Enjoyable Supper and Social Reunion

There was a happy gathering at the Girls' Corner Club last evening, when more than a hundred members and their friends met to celebrate Mothers' Day. A general invitation was given to the mothers of the girls, many of whom took this opportunity of visiting the Corner Club.

A dainty supper was served, the tables looking especially pretty with their decorations of bluebells and golden wallflowers, the colors of the club.

Supper being over, a merry throng trooped into the music-room, which was filled to capacity. Mrs. Woodward, the president, in a few words warmly welcomed the visitors and spoke of the motto of the club, which is "The Other Girl." A musical programme, in which many of the girls took part, was greatly enjoyed, after which Miss Campbell, of the Kenana Indian Mission, gave a very interesting talk, telling a little about the lives of the women and girls of India.

MARRIAGE LAWS TO BE EXPLAINED HERE

Mrs. Ralph Smith, M.P.P., Will Speak on "Legislation, as It Affects Women," at Canadian Club

Mrs. Ralph Smith, M.P.P., will be the speaker at the special meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, which is to be held next Tuesday afternoon at the Empress Hotel, commencing at 3:15. Her subject will be "Legislation as It Affects Women, or Marriage and Divorce." There will be a musical programme in connection with this meeting of the club, and members, it is hoped, will turn out in capacity numbers.

Linoleum

for Kitchen Floors Saves Time and Labor.

Made in Canada

"My experience has taught me the value of using linoleum on my kitchen. It always is so clean, so bright, and so quickly made to look like new. By simply passing a mop over its smooth surface it looks as fresh and dainty as the day it was laid."

When you decide to lift those heavy carpets or worn rugs, plan to replace them with linoleum or linoleum Rugs; they are most desirable floor coverings for every room in the house. You will bless the day this decision was reached, and the moderate outlay required will, in these days of thrift-practising, prove an agreeable surprise.

Floor Oilcloth and Feltol may be purchased by those desiring a good floor covering at small cost. They are attractive, sanitary, easily laid. Each of these products "finds itself" by gripping the floor without tacking.

Call on your floor-covering merchant to-day and select our Made-in-Canada floor-coverings. They are made to meet Canadian needs, and cost less than imported goods. SELECT EARLY.

ORDER START ON MEMORIAL ROAD

Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee Authorizes Preparation of Half Mile on Shelbourne Street

The first concrete progress made towards the establishment of Memorial Avenue in honor of the Province's soldier sons who fell in the Great War, was made yesterday afternoon when the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee voted to have half a mile of boulevard along Shelbourne Street at the Cedar Hill end plowed and prepared for the planting of memorial trees.

This section of the highway will be the first unit in the general plan of creating an avenue lined with boulevards and trees to perpetuate the glory won by British Columbians on foreign battlefields.

The committee took action after it had heard the case of the Chamber of Commerce, presented by a delegation composed of Messrs. James H. Beatty, president; Dr. F. T. Stanier, chairman of the Memorial Avenue Committee; J. W. Spencer, General R. P. Clark, and A. Gordon Scott, general secretary. The deputation outlined the plans as approved by the Chamber, and asked that a definite start be made.

The committee ordered the work to proceed at once, at a cost not to exceed $500 for the first section.

SAYS TOURISTS WILL END CITY'S PROBLEMS

Population, Attracted Here by Exploitation of Natural Scenery, Will Bring Wealth, Mr. Cuthbert Declares

"Population is what Victoria needs more than anything else, and the natural beauty of the Island will bring it. If the task is approached in the proper way," declared Mr. Herbert Cuthbert, executive secretary of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association, addressing the forum of the Chamber of Commerce last night.

Mr. Cuthbert said that if the charm of Vancouver Island's scenery was capitalised effectively, Victoria need not worry about its taxation problems and its lack of industries. The difficulties now facing the community would soon be overcome with the development of an adequate population. Mr. Cuthbert contended, and he argued that sane, wisely-directed publicity such as created by the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association would bring the population.

"But before you can sell Victoria to the outsider, you have got to sell Victoria to yourselves," said Mr. Cuthbert. "You can't expect to get anywhere so long as you lack confidence in your own city.

Vanguard of Industries

"Everybody here believes with good reason that industries will bring you wealth and everything that goes with it. Come down out of the clouds and realise that you can get nothing by sending people out looking for them and advertising for them. You have got to possess right here in Victoria convincing reasons for the location of industries; otherwise, they will quite naturally go somewhere else. After all, nearly every industry is started in the kitchen. Industries establish where there is a market, and to create a market you have got to have population. To get capital interested, you have got to have something to attract tourists, because in nine cases out of ten the tourist has something to invest and is looking for opportunities.

"There is one big and important industry that can be developed here that has plenty of raw material as a basis. I refer to the tourist industry, and I have facts and definite illustrations to present to those who smile and scoff at that. Just as a single instance, look at Los Angeles, built entirely by publicity and today the biggest city in the West.

Commends Council

Mr. Cuthbert commended the action of the City Council in increasing its grant to the Victoria and Island Development Association and assisting in the amusement centre project. If you had an amusement centre here twenty-five years ago, the population of Victoria would be greater than Vancouver's today. But the time for establishing such an institution was never more opportune than it is now. Some people say you don't need these things. They say that the Moderation Act will do it all. But don't you believe it. The Moderation Act will help some and it will bring in some good people, but the attractions that God gave you will always be of incomparably more value to you than anything else."

Mr. Cuthbert's address was illustrated by a series of stereopticon views showing scenery in British Columbia, Washington and Oregon, the territory served by the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association.

Mr. J. T. Scott, chairman of the forum, presided. A vote of thanks to Mr. Cuthbert was moved by Mr. C. T. Crowe and seconded by Alderman A. J. Sargent. The auditorium was filled.

WILL REDUCE LEVY ON GERMAN EXPORTS

LONDON, May 12.—A Berlin dispatch to Reuter's says that while the British Government will retain the act empowering a levy of 50 per cent on German exports, the levy will virtually be suspended in favor of the collection of the 5 per cent tax prescribed in the ultimatum to Germany.

It is pointed out in London that the above mentioned act does not stipulate the precise percentage to be collected, which is left to the discretion of the Government; hence, this act can easily be accommodated to the new circumstances.

ICE IS MOVING IN YUKON RIVER

Break-Up at Dawson Gives Occasion for Usual Celebration—Steamers to Start in Few Days

DAWSON, Y.T., May 13. — Tolling bells and shrieking whistles at noon today hailed the breaking up of the Yukon River at this point, the first break coming at 12:45 p.m. Almost at once the Yukon began to throw off Winter shackles at several points, and this afternoon little knots of people are assembled to watch the first slow movement of the floes. No damage has been done to the waterfront by ice jams so far.

From Lake Labarge to Carmack's the main river south of Dawson is practically clear. Several steamers which wintered at the foot of Labarge will leave there within a few days for Dawson with the first supplies of the year. Some will go direct to the new silver camp at Mayo.

Lake Labarge is expected to open about the 1st of June.

A large influx of people, both workers and tourists, is expected in the Yukon this Summer. The new silver district at Mayo especially will attract many prospective miners.

American shipping will be allowed to carry silver-lead ore from Mayo Landing this year, owing to the shortage of Canadian bottome to handle the increased output of the silver workings at Keno Hill. In response to representations to the Federal Government by local authorities, Ottawa has extended the privilege of trading in Canadian waters to United States bottoms which have been wintering in Alaskan and Yukon ports. The American ships are barred from doing any local business in Canadian waters. They will carry ore to St. Michael's. There are about 2,500 tons of ore ready at Mayo Landing, and no Canadian ships are ready to handle it during the period of navigation on the Stewart River.

SAANICH'S GRANT TO FESTIVAL WITHDRAWN

When Council Rejects Y.M.C.A.'s Request for Money, Reeve Gets Celebration Donation Which Is Cancelled

Because the Saanich Council last night turned down a request from the Y. M. C. A. for financial aid to the Elk Lake Boys' camp, Reeve Watson brought up for reconsideration the resolution recently passed authorizing a grant of $250 to the city's Broom Festival. The resolution was again put and killed by a tie vote, with the result that the grant to the festival is withdrawn. The matter cannot be reconsidered.

When the request of the Y. M. C. A. came before the Council Reeve Watson pointed out that the camp was available for Saanich boys. He thought the councillors would feel much better in voting money for this than for the Broom Festival. Having received a motion from Councillor Kingwell that the request be not granted, the Reeve stated that if this passed he would have the Broom Festival grant reconsidered.

Councillor McWilliam moved an amendment granting the Y. M. C. A. $50, but withdrew it in favor of an amendment by Councillor Simpson granting $100.

The amendment failed and the resolution carried. Councillor Ormond, who wished to grant $50 but not $100, refused to vote at all.

Reeve Watson promptly brought the Broom Festival grant up for reconsideration, and the resolution authorizing the grant was promptly put. The Reeve and Councillors Vantreight, Horner and Ormond, voted against it. Councillors Brooks, Kingwell, Simpson and McWilliam voting for. The resolution was therefore killed. Reeve Watson did not know this and went for the remainder of the evening under the belief that the festival would get the $250. He was enlightened following the adjournment.

COUNTRY RUN BY ELECTRICITY

Nowhere else in the world is electric power so generally used as in Switzerland.

In a small town like Lucerne, with only 40,000 inhabitants, to take one example, only twenty small houses are without electric light. There are seven electric bakehouses, 1,000 electric motors, 3,500 electric stoves for heating, 2,000 electric cooking stoves and over 5,000 electric irons in use among the inhabitants.

But in consequence of her highly organised electrical power, Switzerland has been passing through a crisis which promised to develop into a catastrophe unless a prolonged spell of rain brought early relief.

Not since September last had rain fallen in any quantity until Saturday's downpour, and the 300 electric power stations dotted over Switzerland were reduced almost to impotence. To cite an example, the huge power station at Muhleberg, near Berne, which normally produces about 64,000 h.p., has lately been capable of producing only 5,000 h.p.

Switzerland's greatest water reserve is the Klontalersee, in the canton of Glaris. Normally capable of furnishing 50,000 h.p. daily, this lake in a few day would be almost dry.

The loss of such a huge amount of power would be keenly felt, were it not that Swiss industry is now suffering great depression. The shortage of electrical power has particularly affected the newly constructed electric railways, many of which have been obliged considerably to reduce their train service. In this respect the important Loetschberg line has probably suffered least, but even here steam power has been occasionally resorted to.

Strange to say, in the Gothard region, the water supply has been practically normal; and the Ritomsee, which produces much of the power for this district, was recently in a state of overflow.

While the drought lasted, Swiss public opinion was much opposed to the exportation of electric power to Germany from Lauffenberg station on the Rhine. From this source, by international agreement, German industries receive something like 200 million kilowatts per hour.

In an endeavor to remedy their power shortage the Swiss are busy constructing powerful electrical stations in different parts of the country. When completed, the Northeast station in the Waggital Valley expects to produce in Winter 110 million kilowatts per hour. This undertaking will cost something like 54 million francs (about £2,250,000) to complete.

Another station, which will draw its water force from the Grimsel Lake (6,000 feet) in the Bernese Oberland, is expected to furnish 230,000 h.p. From the lake to the power station will be a direct drop of 4,000 feet.

The electrification of the Swiss State railways being now in progress, another station is to be constructed at Ameteg, on the St. Gothard line, which will produce another 50,000 horse power.

In French Switzerland a very powerful station on the Barberine is now in construction.

Today Switzerland pays £10 a ton for its coal, and although a big fall in prices is shortly expected (and notwithstanding the heavy cost of electrification), it is considered that electric railway traction will prove a great economy.—Special Correspondent Daily Mail.

THE SQUARED CIRCLE

NEW YORK, May 12.—Bobby Michaels, New York featherweight, had Bud Ridley, of Seattle, Pacific Coast featherweight champion, in such wobbly condition that the bout was stopped in the fourth round here last night by the referee.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Kid Williams, of Baltimore, former bantamweight champion, defeated Packy O'Gatty, of New York, in the ninth round of a 12-round bout last night, when the referee stopped the contest to save the local boy from further punishment. O'Gatty was knocked down ten times. Each weighed 130¾ pounds.

VANCOUVER, May 12.—Len Holliday and Roughhouse Charlie Burns, both of Vancouver, went ten furious rounds to a draw last night. Holliday had a decided margin in the last five rounds and on the whole deserved the verdict, but the judges were evidently afraid to take a chance on a decision. Both are lightweights.

Johnny Colclough and Billy Young, Vancouver, staged a lively semi-windup with the honors even. They entered the ring at 124.

TICKETS FOR OPENER BEING RAPIDLY TAKEN

Several Clubs Are Boosting Sale of Tickets for Ball Game on Monday—Willets May Do Pitching

Tickets for the opening ball game on Monday next went on sale yesterday and there was a steady demand for them. President Jack Hilthet has had the pasteboards left in all the cigar stands in town and has handed bundles of them to supporters of the game here who are anxious to boost for a bumper crowd.

The G. W. V. A., Kiwanis Club and the life insurance writers are now behind the opening day ceremonies, and all appear confident that the attendance mark of 5,000 set by the officials of the club will almost be reached, if not actually eclipsed.

Preparations for the opener are being proceeded with by officials of the club, and the ceremonies in connection with it will be more elaborate than anything seen here before.

Rumors are about town that the star battery for the opener is spending much time in getting into shape for the big stunt. Hon. "Billie" Sloan is reported to be grooming his left arm for the great effort of locating the plate with the first ball he heaves. William was a good ball player in his younger days, and still can twist the pill. Hon. "Jack" Hart is looking over the catching mitts to find one thick enough to neutralise the terrific impact from one of his battery mate's curves. No one doubts the Finance Minister's ability to hold the Minister of Mines, provided the ball comes anywhere within jumping distance of the plate.

Cliff Blankenship, manager of the locals, is driving his players this week and will see that they keep on winning games. He wants to have the team in fairly good shape for the opening game here.

It is not known who will do the hurling for the Capitals on the opening day, but it would not be surprising if Manager Blankenship picked on Ed. Willets, the big noise of the team. Willets is the biggest man on the team and looks as though he will be about the best bet in the Pacific International League this year. Willets has a wonderful record for consistent mound duty behind him. For years he was one of the premier boxmen of the Detroit Tigers. Last week he pitched a splendid game against Vancouver and stood most of the Beavers on their heads.

Blankenship has a fairly good pitching staff to pick from. Hansen, who won Wednesday's game in Tacoma, is in fine shape, and Bob Wallace, who lost a tough game in Vancouver, is also ready to step into the fray. John Washington is going nicely, and if the team will start hitting behind these pitchers there will be nothing in this league that will stop the Capitals from winning their share of games.

It is expected that Lee Dempsey will arrive from the East in time to play in the opening game here. He is in top form, having been playing with the Des Moines club for several weeks. Dempsey's hard slugging is badly needed by the club at the present time.

The local fans are all keen to see the Capitals in action, as they present a new line-up to the team which left here. Jake Messner, who was secured from Vancouver, is playing third and Handley has shifted from third to short, Hildebrand having been dropped. Jimmy Church has replaced Sam Lilly at second, and Murphy and Werts will be out of luck for first base, but will probably be used in the outfield.

Toots Bankhead and Light are still in the outfield, but H. Jones has disappeared and Shoots is playing in his place. Light will not last much longer unless he starts to hit.

OFFICIALS CONFAB ON SOCCER PROBLEM

D. F. A. Wants to Protect Players From Professional Taint—Halifax Team Will Play Anyhow

WINNIPEG, May 11.—Dan McNelli, president of the Dominion Football Association, commenting on the situation which has arisen in football circles as a result of the ruling given by Secretary Crowe, of the A. A. U. of C., said last night that the football association is as anxious as the athletic association to protect players whose standing as amateurs may be in danger by playing against the Scottish League team.

Mr. McNelli leaves for the east today to meet the Scottish team on its arrival, and will fully discuss the matter with Dr. Brnce Macdonald, president of the A. A. U. of C., at Toronto. Correspondence which passed between the football association and Judge Jackson, of Lethbridge, vice-president of the athletic body, has been forwarded to Dr. Macdonald.

The report from Toronto, published in The Star to the effect that Halifax is not affiliated with the D. F. A., is wrong, according to the football president, who says that when Halifax was granted a game with the Scottish team, the question of affiliation was taken up and an association was formed there. It was received into the D. F. A.

Will Play Anyhow

HALIFAX, May 11.—"We intend to play the Scottish professional football team at Halifax on May 18 irrespective of whether it affects the amateur standing of the locals or not," George W. Cressman, president of the Nova Scotia Association, said today, commenting on the recent ruling of the secretary of the A. A. U. of C. that amateurs playing against professionals would lose their status.

RINGSIDE SEAT FOR FRENCH GOVERNMENT

PARIS, May 12.—France will be represented officially at the boxing contest between Georges Carpentier and Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight title, in Jersey City on July 2, the first time in the history of the prize ring that the government of a country has sent a representative to an international boxing match. Gaston Vidal, French under-secretary for physical education, probably will be the government's representative.

CALGARY ALL-STARS WILL PLAY SCOTS, PROS OR NO PROS

CALGARY, May 12.—Officials of the Alberta Football Association believe that the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada will give way to the Dominion Football Association's request to allow amateurs to play against the touring Scottish team. Whether or not this is done, Calgary will field a team of all-stars against the Scots here on June 11, so they declare.

JURY DISAGREES IN SUIT AGAINST DEMPSEY

BATAVIA, N.Y., May 12.—A disagreement was reported today by the jury in an action brought by Frank P. Spellman against Jack Dempsey, champion heavyweight boxer, and Kearns, his manager, for $100,000. Spellman sought to recover a share in profits on motion pictures alleged to be due him under the terms of a verbal contract with Dempsey.

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT FIGHT ASSURED

Nearly Four Thousand Fifty Dollar Seats Already Reserved—Arena Will Seat Some 50,000

NEW YORK, May 12.—Although the opening of the public sale of seats for the Dempsey-Carpentier championship contest in Jersey City on July 2 will not begin for several days, the advance reservations already assure a record booking attendance both in gate and receipts. The actual number of spectators which established records at the Johnson-Jeffries, Johnson-Willard and Dempsey-Willard bouts, are certain to be surpassed.

Official diagrams of the arena distributed today indicate that the boxing arena to be built by the promoter will seat 50,000 or more spectators. In the $50 seats section close to four thousand seats already have been reserved.

Carpentier and his party are expected to arrive here Sunday, and Rickard is arranging for a special reception committee to meet them.

SKI TOURNAMENT IS SET FOR MIDSUMMER

Jumpers From All Parts Expected on Mount Rainier This July—Larsen Will Defend Trophy

SEATTLE, May 11.—Winter sports in midsummer is the novelty to be offered visitors to Rainier National Park this season. The big feature of the sports entertainment is the fifth annual ski tournament scheduled for July 3 at Paradise Valley, 5,557 feet above sea level on the slopes of Mount Rainier, where the "flowers and glaciers meet."

Ski jumpers from the Pacific Northwest, Middle West, Canada, Norway and Sweden, it is assured, will compete for honors in this tourney. Men and women who carried off high honors in past years are expected to compete again this season. These ski jumping contests are held under the direction of the Northwest Ski Club.

Last year hundreds of persons went to Paradise Inn and from there viewed the ski jumping. Other crowds lined one side of the course which was marked off on Alta Vista knoll near the Inn. The tourney this season will be held over the same course.

The warm weather last year made the course sticky and the going rather heavy so that no new records were set up. However, L. Larsen, a sturdy son of Norway, who now lives at Aberdeen, Wash., walked away with high honors with a leap of 95 feet. He also won the honorary prize for style and length of leaping and an extra prize of a silver trophy which must be won two years in succession to become the property of the winner. This is one reason for the intense interest in the tournament this season. Larsen must win the cup again and will make every effort to take the trophy home with him for permanent keeping. This trophy is given for the best all-around man in the tournament.

Leaps do not count unless the contestants retain their footing and many of the jumpers have difficulty maintaining an upright position after the leap. Icy smooth snow is ideal for good jumping, but wet snow causes so much friction when the jumper lands that it is liable to throw him off his balance.

Preparations have been made to handle even larger crowds at Paradise Valley this Summer than ever before, and it is assured that a large entry list of jumpers will be on hand.

NEWMARKET RACING

JACK M'MILLAN IS STILL THE CHAMPION

Won Final Game From Pettley in Tournament for Provincial Title Held in Vancouver Yesterday

VANCOUVER, May 12.—Jack McMillan, Provincial billiard champion, retained the title in the titular series concluded last night when he defeated Frank Pettley by a score of 600 points to 307. Percy Worrall was scheduled to play Johnny Park, but, in view of the dissension stirred up in cue circles over the use of certain balls for tournament play, he declined to play. McMillan and Pettley went on instead, using the former's set of balls. The champion turned in his best game of the series, making high break for the tournament, 135. While McMillan has won the honors in the tournament, it is argued that the affair was not in accordance with championship rules, and that neutral balls should have been used throughout the competition.

Final standing of the players:

	W.	L.	Pct.
McMillan	4	1	.800
Park	3	2	.600
Lush	3	2	.600
Worral	3	2	.600
Pettley	1	4	.200
Boys	1	4	.200

CANADIAN SCOTTISH WELL REPRESENTED

Colonel Peck, V.C., Who Will Command Bisley Team, Will Revisit French Battlefields After the Meet

OTTAWA, May 12.—Col. C. W. Peck, V.C., M.P., who will command the Canadian Bisley team this year, will have Major C. W. Butler, Western Ontario Regiment, London, as adjutant.

Col. Peck is still colonel of the 16th Canadian Scottish Battalion, with which he won the most coveted of all military honors, and it is interesting to note that one of the shots in the Bisley team is Major F. Richardson, also a veteran of the 16th Battalion, who has made a record at previous Bisley meets.

The team will leave Montreal June 16. After ten days' practice in England the competitions will cover some two weeks.

Col. Peck then hopes to visit France and again review the old battle areas. He will make a special point of inspecting the burial grounds over the entire Canadian corps line, in which lie so many men of the 16th.

EIGHT FOR KELLY AND TEN FOR RUTH

NEW YORK, May 12.—George Kelly, of the Giants, made his eighth home run today in the first inning of the game with the St. Louis Nationals with the bases full.

DETROIT, May 12.—Babe Ruth hit his tenth home run of the season in the first inning with one on base.

They're On the Way

WINNIPEG, May 12.—The Scottish professional football team which will tour Canada and the United States next Summer, sailed Wednesday on the Cameronia from Liverpool for Halifax, according to cable advices received by Secretary Roy, of the Dominion Football Association. The party included the officials and players as already announced.

DAVIS CUP TENNIS

CLEVELAND, May 12.—Tennis stars of France and Japan will meet here in one of the Davis Cup preliminaries in August, according to an announcement of officers of the Cleveland Associated Tennis Clubs. Ichaya Kumagae will represent Japan. The name of the French representative was not announced.

Earthquakes are most frequent at new full moon.

PRIMROSE DAY

Montreal Gazette

Mr. Zangwill wrote of Lord Beaconsfield under the title "The Primrose Sphinx." O'Connell suggested that "this renegade Jew is descended from the impenitent thief, whose name was doubtless Disraeli; Gladstone did not call him Satan, but he clearly regarded him as the prototype of the ancient adversary who troubled Job. In a milder moment he writes to his wife: "Disraeli showed the marvelous talent that he has, for summing up with brilliancy, buoyancy, and comprehensiveness at the close of the debate. You have heard me speak of that talent before when I have been wholly against him: but never, last night or any other time, would I go to him for conviction, but for the delight of the ear and the fancy. What a long story!"

The anniversary of his death is still celebrated in an unprecedented manner. There is a tradition that the Primrose was his favorite flower. It may be due to the Queen, who wrote on a card attached to a wreath of primroses she sent to be placed upon his tomb: "His favorite flowers: from Osborne; a tribute of affectionate regard from Queen Victoria." Canadians have a sentimental interest in the man who was a dominating figure in Derby's Cabinet at the time of Confederation.

Disraeli First

Of the names connected with the Primrose League that of Disraeli is the first in fame. It was not founded until some time after his death, but the idea really dates from the Reform Bill of 1867. "We must educate our masters" was the truth that dawned upon the Conservatives with the extension of the franchise. The avowed object of the League was to spread Conservative principals among the working classes of Great Britain. The most untoward results were feared from the franchise reform. It was prophesied that the Parliament would lose its command over the executive, that it would meet with less consideration and possess less influence. "Look," said Disraeli, "for declining statesmanship, inferior aptitude, genius dying off. Instead of these you will have a horde of selfish and obscure mediocrities, incapable of anything but mischief, and that mischief devised and regulated by the raging demagogue of the hour." The present situation is at least a tribute to his insight.

To the poet, the primrose may be nothing more than a flower by the river's brim, but to the Primrose Leaguers it is a symbol of Empire. In the Imperialist's language of flowers, its five petals, five stamens, five-vaived capsule, and its five-toothed calyx, represent the five great divisions of the British heritage in Europe, Asia, Africa, America and Oceania. The Order of the British Empire has taken away from the attractiveness of the earlier League, but whether it will be more successful in educating the British workman is another question.

Origin of League

The League was originated by Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, and the present Grand Master is Earl Curson of Kedleston. It has grown so that at present it counts nearly three thousand habitations. Every member of the League is asked to sign: "I declare on my honor and faith that I will devote my best ability to the maintenance of religion, of the estates of the realm, and of the imperial ascendancy of the British Empire; and that, consistently with my allegiance to the sovereign of these realms, I will promote with discretion and fidelity the above objects, being those of the Primrose League." Dr. Johnson, not Disraeli, is responsible for the famous motto: "All sensible men are of one religion." "And whet is that?" he was asked. "Sensible men never tell," was the answer.

He was deeply religious; an ardent lover of Britain, and was gifted with a marvelous power of prophetic and perceptive criticism. He had no faith in the transient and trafficking expedients of the professional politicians. He had a profound contempt for the shoddy aristocracy, blind to its duties, and deaf to the needs of a new age. He had the wisdom that looks to the long future, and in real grasp of European questions Gladstone was a child compared with him. Mystery-man he remained to the end—the Sphinx, that Mr. Zangwill calls him. It was impossible to penetrate him, and his closest friends confessed that they stood from first to last—outside. He was a transplantation in England, living in the past of a mighty race and looking to the future. He has grown in stature since his death, and one of his sentences should be written in the forefront of every schoolbook. It is this: "We live in an age when to be young and to be indifferent can be no longer synonymous. We must prepare for the coming hour. The claims of the future are represented by suffering millions, and the Youth of a Nation are the Trustees of Posterity."

FAMOUS DOGS WILL BE BENCHED HERE

Blue-Blooded Canines Coming From All Parts to Victoria Kennel Club's Forthcoming Annual Show

A feature of the Victoria City Kennel Club's annual Spring Show, to be held at the Willows on May 27 and 28, will be the large exhibit coming from the Anoakia kennels of Sierra Madre, owned by Anita M. Baldwin. These dogs are making the round of the shows, and will be seen at Victoria for exhibition only, as the manager of the kennels is the man who has been engaged as judge of the Victoria show. The string comprises Airedales, bulldogs, wolfhounds and Old English sheepdogs, several very fine specimens of canine aristocracy being included.

These dogs travel with their own special benching and a regular retinue to see to their health and welfare while on show.

A large number of entries are expected from all Coast cities and the interior, and all the Victoria-owned specimens of doggy blue blood will undoubtedly be benched. Among the entries will be a field spaniel shown by Mrs. Ed. Morgan, of Seattle, which has been cleaning up everything on the other side, and is said to be something very special in this breed.

The arrangements for benching, etc., in the very capable hands of Mr. Tom Withers and his fellow-committeemen, will be seen to be absolutely perfect for the object in hand. Most of the work has already been done, and the visitor or exhibitor will find that nothing has been overlooked to make things easy and comfortable for both four-footed and two-footed visitors to the dog show building.

PROGRAMMES OUT FOR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Every Golfer in Victoria Is Expected to Enter in the Big Tournament to Be Staged at Colwood

Programmes for the big golf Provincial championship meet on the links of the Colwood Golf and Country Club from May 31 to 24 have been published, and intending entrants can get programmes and entry forms from their club secretaries.

It is expected that there will be at least two hundred entries, and it is hoped that every member of the three golf clubs of Victoria and district will make it a point of entering, irrespective of ability or handicap. Many outside entries are expected, and the managing committee of the tournament is anxious to see every local golfer entered so as to make the event an outstanding success for the honor and glory of Victoria.

No matter what the class of a golfer's play in this tournament, everyone will be able to get four days' steady golf whatever the showing made in the qualifying round for the championship, as, apart from the championship flights, there will be two strong competition matches against bogey, also sweepstake and putting competitions.

A large amount of interest is being shown in the coming championships at Colwood by all devotees of the royal and ancient game, and there seems little fear that the hopes of the management for a thoroughly representative turnout will not be realized.

The Pheasant in His Native Lair

By RICHARD L. POCOCK

Speaking of pheasant shooting, it was once my fortune to be for three years in the original home of pheasants—China. There were four different kinds of pheasants to be bagged within easy walking distance of the compound in which we lived; there were no game laws and no restrictions on my shooting when and where I pleased. I, therefore, had a rather unusual opportunity to learn something of the habits of these birds in the country of their origin.

The commonest were the ringnecks — phasianus torquatus — the same birds as we have in British Columbia, although in different localities in China they show some slight differences in plumage, the white ring being very distinct and pronounced in most localities, although in my district the birds were distinguished by the local variation, the ring being very indistinct, in some cases only represented by a few white feathers, and occasionally absent altogether.

These birds seemed in their general behavior and habits to be very little different from their descendants which have been imported into many other lands. The Winters there were more severe than in the districts around Victoria, but the pheasants found abundance of food in the red berries of a certain shrub, which was common on all the uncultivated hill land. In the Autumn they fed principally on the rice, after the fields had been drained of the water (in which rice grows) and the threshing carried out by primitive hand methods. In the Spring they could be seen picking up grubs on the farmers' land.

Survive Many Dangers

In a country where the population is as thick as it is there it is a marvel that the pheasants have survived in such plenty, especially when it is considered that every coolie was a potential poacher, not that he had time to make a business of poaching, but, should he find a nest of eggs, you might be certain that those eggs would not be left to be hatched. The natives of the district I was in had nothing in the way of firearms, except here and there a matchlock gun, and those few of them who did hunt pheasants did it in this fashion.

Having procured a tame hen pheasant, they attached a soft cord to one of its legs and made a neat little basket in which they carried it about. Arrived at a likely place, the hen would be pegged out and the gunner would hide behind a handy bush until Mr. Cock Pheasant came to pay his respects to the fair lady. Then at short range and sitting he would be saluted with as much of the contents of the matchlock as he happened to get in the way of, and it was usually loaded with about five fingers of Chinese black powder, similar to that with which they load their firecrackers, and a small handful of little scraps of iron. These operations were, of course, carried on in the breeding season only. And yet the pheasants are still common in China.

There the pheasants appeared to roost on the ground, whether invariably or not I was never able to make quite sure, though certainly as a rule they do so, maybe because suitable trees are mighty scarce in most of the places where the pheasants are otherwise. I have found places in this country where they have the same habit, notably the island at the head of Cowichan Bay, near Corfield's.

Wing Shooting Unknown

We were located in hill county and the pheasants were, as a matter of fact, not nearly so common as they are in the valleys, the wild pheasant shooting of the Yang-Tsze Valley, for instance, being something quite extraordinary, and the methods of shooting by the natives in country nearer to the foreign settlements are, I believe, very different, some of the native hunters, I am told, being quite skilful wing shots. I was in an out-of-the-way district in the heart of this huge country, and I believe I was the first man the natives had ever seen shoot a bird on the wing.

From my own point of view, I found the common pheasant rather easier to bag there than he is here, owing, I think, in the first place, to the nature of the cover, and in the second, to the aforesaid big population, making the birds less shy of man; also, of course, to the fact that gunners were very few and far between.

With the abundance of good feed that the birds enjoyed they were invariably in excellent condition for the table.

I had lots of fun with the Chinese ringnecks, but when I discovered that a little further afield there were birds which I considered far more worthy of powder and shot and which were considerably more difficult to bring to bag, they began to take second place in my estimation.

The birds I refer to were the Reeves' pheasants. Perhaps you know them by having seen a few specimens in a taxidermist's shop, in an aviary, or possibly in some private preserve. I was fortunate to see them in their natural surroundings, and to bag a number of these magnificent birds with their wonderful plumage and their extraordinarily long tails, which commonly attain a length of nearly six feet, and sometimes over.

Unsuitable Country

These birds have been tried, I know, in English preserves and some other places, and have been more than once condemned as unsuitable. So they were—to the country in which they were liberated, in many cases. The Reeves' is a mountain bird and a timber bird. I never found him in China in country where there was no fairly big timber, and no more or less mountainous characteristics to the landscape. Even there, like all pheasants, he would run if he got the chance, but when you flushed him, what a glorious sight, and what a cool and steady nerve you had to have not to get flustered and shoot a foot or two behind, your eye taken off its proper aim in front of his beak by that wonderful streaming tail. And when you held straight and he came down, what a sight to gladden any sportsman's heart!

When I first saw these magnificent birds I immediately thought what fine game they would make for the sportsmen of good old B.C., where they would, I believe, be quite at home in the timber and the hills, although coming to feed near the haunts of man, just as their humbler cousins, the ringnecks, do. They tell me that they would kill off the common pheasants here. I do not know about that, but I do know that I have shot them and the common ringnecks on the same hill in China on the same day, and that if I had to have my choice of all Reeves' or all ringnecks the former would get my immediate vote without a moment's hesitation.

Speaking about one species of pheasant killing off those of another, a thing about which I am somewhat skeptical after seeing pheasants of four species able to live together in the country of their origin, reminds me of an experience with local game wardens, and brings me to another kind of pheasant which also afforded me some sport in the "Shiny East"—the golden pheasant.

Getting In Wrong

Some years ago I received a setting of golden pheasants' eggs, which were given to me on the understanding that I would do my best to get them hatched out, rear the young ones and then liberate them somewhere on Vancouver Island. I carried out my part of the agreement to the very best of my ability. I procured a small broody hen, and I built a special pen, at some cost, for her and her small charges. About two-thirds of the brood was successfully reared, although I was a novice at the game. Hard-boiled egg and custard, ant's eggs and chick food were provided, and being, as I say, a novice at the game, it was with no small pride that I took the young birds, when I judged they were big enough to be liberated, down to the railway station in a crate and paid for their fare to Cowichan to a former friend, who let them loose on his farm. What their ultimate fate was I know not, but I was to hear some more about them. Some days afterwards I received a call, in the course of business, from the chief game warden, and, being rather proud of my first attempt at pheasant rearing, albeit on a very small scale, I recounted what I had done. Judge of my astonishment when a very wrathy official burst into invective and informed me that if he heard of my doing such a thing again as liberating golden pheasants on Vancouver Island he would have me arrested.

It was a distinct setback, but I withstood the shock, and when he calmed down a little I gently informed him that in committing my crime I had done so at the request of the Victoria game warden who had procured me the eggs on the distinct understanding that the chicks were to be liberated when old enough. His chief told me that the golden pheasants would kill off all the ringnecks, so possibly that accounts for any scarcity which may have been noticed in that district.

On the other hand, my observation of golden pheasants in China would lead me to suppose that there is room for both kinds, though, certainly, the golden pheasant, in my experience, is a comperitively poor bird for sport. Being so exceptionally brilliant of plumage is probably the reason for his skulking habits. He displays his finery where it will do him most good, but he knows that it will be a dangerous attraction in other quarters. I have heard golden pheasants calling all round me on the scrubby sides of a narrow Chinese valley, and been unable to get a shot at one many a time, and found, at last, the only thing to do was to organise a drive on a small scale, with three or four natives on one side of the valley, while I remained on the other on the chance of one of the gorgeous beauties coming over my head.

So much for three of the four kinds that I bagged in the district surrounding my temporary home. The fourth was a very different bird in every way—the bamboo pheasant. It was more like a partridge than a pheasant in appearance, in size and in habits. It was very fond of the bamboo thickets, but when you did come across either single birds or a covey in more open ground, you had to be prepared for a bird which got up with a whirr and started at full speed with a dodging flight, which made it mighty hard to hit sometimes. The bamboo partridge gave excellent sport, but with the Hungerian partridges and valley quail we have here we are, I think, quite equally well provided.

There are several other varieties of pheasant in China, but they have their own peculiarities as to choice of locality. Silver pheasants are found in the mountain ranges, tragopan pheasants keep to the oaks and rhododendrons of high altitudes. I had no opportunity to go to the localities where they were to be found, but for sport I could ask nothing better in the way of pheasants than those magnificent Reeves, and the more homely ringnecks.

WELL PLEASED WITH GOVERNMENT MARINE

Ships Are Developing Freight Routes, Says Manager—Have Meant Much to B.C. Lumber Operators

OTTAWA, May 12.—The question of the correctness of the financial statement of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine was raised before the parliamentary committee on nationally-owned railways and shipping this morning by William Duff (Lunenburg), who secured consent to have A. J. Mitchell, financial director, called for cross-examination on this point.

R. B. Teakle, operating manager, said the ships were getting a fair share of business, and that he was endeavoring to build up a freight liner business as against tramp business, which was "not worthy of the ships or officers of Canada." He said that the ships would do better if the valuation was lower and if the shipping management was left to pursue a peaceful course. The Government had 54 ships in operation, with a deadweight tonnage of 302,597 tons. Of these vessels 51 had been built by the Government, with a deadweight tonnage of 292,117.

Mean Much to B. C.

The fleet was doing excellent work. The lumber operators of British Columbia testified to this. If it was not for the Government fleet, this industry would have to depend on American vessels. Profits from the fleet went into the public treasury, and costs of outfitting to Canadian firms.

The advertising value of the fleet to Canada was very great. Canadian ships were sailing to all parts of the world. It was also of great value to the Canadian National Railways. With the return of commercial prosperity this would become more emphasized. Last year the total import and export trade earnings amounted to $1,473,390.51.

CHANCE IS REMOTE OF ALASKA STARVING

Small Craft Rushing Supplies North — Engineers Offer Services on Food Ships, but Doubt Situation Is Serious

SEATTLE, May 12.—The Seattle fishing fleet has come to the rescue of Southeastern Alaska towns, short of food supplies as a result of the marine tie-up, it became known today with the announcement that the power schooner Republic is en route to Ketchikan with a cargo of apples, potatoes and fresh vegetables. The cannery tender Frederick C. of the Alaska Fish Company's fleet, today began loading a sixty-ton cargo of fresh vegetables, butter, eggs and potatoes for Ketchikan, it was announced.

Butter, eggs, cheese and other food supplies destined for Alaska are accumulating here heavily, and gas boats may be used to move them to ports in the territory, according to shipping men here.

Offer Services Free

WASHINGTON, May 12. — The Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association of the Pacific Coast has offered to man ships to carry food to Alaska without charge for services if the ship owners and the Shipping Board will furnish the ships and, if, in addition, the situation growing out of the cutting off of supplies to Alaska, on account of the marine controversy, is as serious as has been represented, Ernest F. Pegg, Pacific Coast member of the Joint Council of Marine Engineers, said today.

DIVERT OIL TANKER TO LOAD GRAIN CARGO

PORTLAND, Ore., May 12. — The Northern Grain and Warehouse Co. today announced the charter of the oil tanker Swiftscout to carry a full cargo of Portland wheat to Europe. The tanker will start loading Monday. The Swiftscout has been tied up here since being completed with four of its sister ships, building and completed. She was tied up on account of the slump in the oil business, according to announcement by the owners, the Swiftsure Oil Company. The vessel is the first tanker diverted to the grain trade from this port. Other vessels of the company may be diverted to the grain trade, it was said.

Lining of the tanker is under way now. The wheat will be sacked.

AMERICAN COMPANIES CONFER ON CHARTERS

PORTLAND, May 12.—With the view of determining on a uniform "charter party," representatives of steamship lines operating out of Seattle, San Francisco and Portland conferred here yesterday with representatives of the Shipping Board offices on the Pacific Coast. The operators and charterers of steamers worked on a definite "charter party" that will be satisfactory to the Shipping Board. The conference is continuing.

Five Master Mariners and One Private Secretary Fill Places of Deserting Seamen

VANCOUVER, May 12.—It took five captains to bring the S.S. Admiral Schley to port from Seattle yesterday. The Schley had Captain Jensen on the bridge, Captain Hanson, of the motorship Admiral Mayo, at the wheel, Captain Halveson, of the Admiral Dewey, issuing orders from the fo'c'sle, Captain Smith seeing how far he could throw his cigar stub from the deck, and Captain Anderson, of the Admiral Rodman, as lookout. The quartermaster was E. B. Horsman, in everyday capacity private secretary to A. F. Haines, vice-president of the Admiral Line. The reason for the array of captains was that the Schley's crew deserted at Seattle, and the idle masters were given officers' positions on the boat.

The crew signed on at Seattle to go to San Francisco, then return to Seattle, come up here and return again to Seattle as one trip. The sailors allowed a union delegate to pull them from the ship at Seattle before coming here, and their status is now that of deserters. The engineers, however, stayed with the boat, and returned to Seattle yesterday.

Captain Jensen stated that if he had any more trips with skippers as crew he would hail a windjammer and borrow a belaying pin.

SCORES LIVERPOOL AS EMIGRANT PORT

Quebec Medical Officer Finds Mersey Facilities Worst in Europe—Make Proper Inspection Impossible

LIVERPOOL, May 12.—Dr. Emile Nadeau, chief medical officer of the port of Quebec, left recently after having made a tour of the leading European ports. Thousands of immigrants into Canada pass through Dr. Nadeau's hands, and it was because of the number he had to reject that he was sent by the Government to examine the system of medical inspections on this side.

In an interview, the doctor referred to Liverpool as the most obsolete port for emigrant traffic he has yet seen. "The Mersey dock and harbor board must know of the strict medical tests that emigrants have to undergo, yet no decent facilities are provided in the port for the steamship companies' doctors to examine passengers on this side. An open air examination at the gangway is not by any means satisfactory; there must be proper accommodation for this work if it is to be carried out with the requisite care.

As a direct consequence of the absence of proper facilities at Liverpool, the steamship companies are frequently put to the expense of bringing back to England people whom the Dominion Government will not permit to land on account of some physical defect. This is a hardship to both the passenger and the shipowner who is put to unnecessary expense.

The present day emigrant is far in advance of his prototype of some years ago, and it is necessary that some consideration should be given to his altered status. It is scandalous that there is no suitable place and privacy for the medical examination. "In fact," the doctor went on to say, "there appears to be no attempt at improvement since I was last here in 1907."

Dr. Nadeau puts Liverpool last in his lists of ports where there are facilities for emigrants. His list is headed by Le Havre, where conditions approach the ideal; then follow in order Naples, Genoa, Southampton, Antwerp and Liverpool.

The doctor expressed the opinion that if Liverpool is to maintain its eminence as an emigration port, those responsible for the embarkation facilities will have to make early drastic improvements in its equipment.

SHIPPING NEWS

Latest advices from the Arabia Maru indicate that the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner will reach port Saturday morning.

The N. Y. K. Katori Maru is scheduled to sail from Seattle and Victoria today. The late afternoon will probably see the vessel docking at the local wharf.

The Makura sailed from Auckland, New Zealand, May 10, and is due at this port May 23, running promptly on schedule. Outbound she clears from here June 4.

The Canadian Highlander is expected at quarantine today, bound for Vancouver from Australia. The full cargo of wool that the vessel was thought to be carrying, has dwindled to a small lot in recent advices. The wool tariff in the United States is curtailing shipments.

The Canadian Inventor will load three million feet of lumber for South Africa before clearing again from the coast. She goes on berth Monday on the mainland and will probably complete at Chemainus and Genoa Bay.

Another outgoing lumber shipment is that of 150,000 feet of Douglas fir, that is going aboard the Canadian-Australian freighter Waitopu as soon as she reaches port on the mainland. The shipment will go to the Antipodes.

STEAMSHIP MEN URGE GOVERNMENT ACTION

NEW YORK, May 12.—Winthrop L. Marvin, secretary of the American Steamship Owners' Association, announced today that Pacific Coast operators had telegraphed Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Admiral Benson, of the Shipping Board, urging them to request President Harding to declare that a national emergency existed in the nation-wide shipping strike.

The telegram recommended that the Government take over the manning of the vessels if the strikers refused to return to work within forty-eight hours.

SCOTTISH LAUNCHED AT PRINCE RUPERT

Martial Strains of Pipes Accompany Slipping of Vessel Into Water—Is Fourteenth C.G.M.M. Ship on Pacific

PRINCE RUPERT, May 12.—In perfect weather, to the strains of the pibroch, played by Gordon Ross on the prow of the vessel, the steamship Canadian Scottish was launched here today in the presence of all the citizens and many visitors.

Launching of the steamer Canadian Thresher is not looked for till after the trial test of the Canadian Scottish late in the Summer.

The launching of the C.G.M.M. steamer Canadian Scottish at Prince Rupert makes fourteen ships on the Pacific. The Highlander is inbound from Australia and due May 13; Canadian Skirmisher will go on berth next week to load for Australia; Canadian Carrier is coming over from Honolulu to load for Montreal; Canadian Exporter is at Melbourne but will go on the Oriental run when she reaches Vancouver; Canadian Prospector is bound for Egypt, as is the Canadian Traveller; Canadian Winner is at Chemainus; Canadian Voyager is bound in to load for Montreal; Canadian Inventor will load for India and South Africa; Canadian Beaver has sailed from Montreal and will stop at Tampico, coming thence to San Francisco to inaugurate the Vancouver-San Francisco service of the C.G.M.M. in June.

MARINE ENGINES PAST AND FUTURE

London Engineering

In view of the limited supply of oil, it is perhaps questionable whether the use of this type of fuel at sea will remain permanently practicable on any large scale, though there is no doubt of the possibility that in the end we may grow rather than mine our oils, a procedure of which the possibility has been discussed by Dr. Diesel himself. Failing this, or at any rate until such supplies are forthcoming and satisfactory means of utilising them are devised, it may be necessary to introduce generally at sea mechanical methods of handling coal similar to those so extensively used in other services. As matters stand, however, oil has many advantages, but apparently there is little immediate prospect of it being used for other than steam raising purposes in any very large installations of power either afloat or ashore. As Mr. Ferranti pointed out some years since, the reciprocator is essentially a small unit machine, whilst the turbine is seen to best advantage in large units. This consideration emphasizes the magnitude of the feat accomplished by Sir Charles Parsons in making practical the steam turbine. He had of necessity to commence with small units, and it is quite conceivable that had reciprocating engines, at the date of his earlier ventures, been brought to the pitch of perfection that they subsequently attained, the coming of the turbine might have been delayed for several years. Even as matters stood, reciprocating engines continued to be installed in power stations, and on shipboard, for years after the turbine had proved its success.

Limits of Combustibles

In marine practice, engineers, both here and abroad, were slow to realize that the day of the large steam reciprocator had passed, at the very moment of its culmination. The giant steam reciprocator was, in fact, stifled in its infancy, and it seems probable that the giant Diesel engine will never be born. The demand for large units is, however, an insistent one, and has played no small part in alluring enterprising individuals to attempt to make a practical success of the internal-combustion turbine. Many costly experiments in this direction were made before the war, both here and in France, and at a somewhat later date the matter was taken up in Germany and financed with the characteristic liberality of German firms in matters of this kind. These experiments have been continued, but apparently along lines embodying no ideas not already fairly tested here or in France. Of course, it would be going too far to say that the poor results hitherto attained precluded the possibility of success, but the prospect is not bright, as it would seem that the difficulty is not merely a question of getting details right—such as led to the final success of the ammonia soda process after many costly failures—or to the commercial success of catalysers in the production of certain acids. The prime fact remains that the internal combustion engine is, to quote Mr. Ferranti again, a prime mover in which the negative work must be large, if a high thermodynamic efficiency is aimed at. In the reciprocating engine this negative work is accomplished under very favorable conditions, the efficiency being 93 per cent, according to a statement made by Dr. Dugald Clerk at the Dundee meeting of the British Association. This figure receives support from indicator diagrams taken from the air cushion of the old Willans high-speed engines which showed an efficiency indistinguishable from unity. With the large internal-combustion turbines it will be impracticable to attain anything like so good a figure as this, and the consequent additional expenditure in negative work will go far to effect the gain made in the utilisation of the "toe of the diagram." This, in the ordinary internal-combustion engines, is rejected; as, though it is, as was first shown by Atkinson, mechanically possible to utilise a considerable fraction of it in a reciprocator, the gain did not prove sufficient to offset the additional weight and cost per unit of output.—Engineering.

DOCK WORKERS LOSE JOBS THROUGH STRIKE

SAN DIEGO, May 12.—The dock force of the Pacific Steamship Company at this port will be laid off temporarily on May 24 because of the strike of the marine workers, it is announced. The sailing of the line's steamer Admiral Farragut from here on May 18 has been cancelled, but the Admiral Evans is scheduled to leave San Diego for northern ports Friday.

CUNARD OFFICE MEN MAY MAN AQUITANIA

LONDON, May 12.—Doubt as to whether the Cunard steamship Aquitania would be able to sail Saturday for New York has been removed, says The Daily Mail, through the office staff of the Cunard Line at Liverpool having volunteered to replace the striking stewards, cooks and butchers who refused to sign for the trip because of a cut in wages.

FEAR NAVAL TUG LOST WITH ALL ON BOARD

Search Abandoned for Conestoga, Missing for More Than Month—Warships and Aircraft Found Efforts Fruitless

SAN DIEGO, May 12.—Rear Admiral Welles, in command here, today received radio advices from Honolulu that the search for the United States fleet tug Conestoga, which has been missing for more than a month, had been given up.

The Conestoga steamed from Mare Island on March 27 for Samoa, via Pearl Harbor, having a heavy barge in tow. Several days after that it was reported that the tug had lost its tow in a gale and was trying to recover it. That was the last word received from either craft by the Navy Department.

The search for the missing tug, on which were thirty officers and men, was carried on for several days by fifteen warships, acting with aircraft, over an area approximately 600 miles wide and embracing all the steamer lanes as far to the Northwest as Midway Islands.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian West. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish High Water from Low Water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The Height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of lower Low Water.

News in London Times of 1798

By Sir Henry Lucy

"Who dares to talk of ninety-eight?"

It is an old number of The Times newspaper bearing date "Wednesday, October 3, 1798," which has by good luck floated down the tide of time these 123 years. It is a frail little thing, yellow with age, crumpled and creased, a pigmy by the side of its sturdy great-grandchild of today. Nevertheless it is priced at the same rate—threepence. The news it contains justifies a far higher price, for, in addition to dispatches from the battlefield in Ireland, where open rebellion was being grappled with, it contains the text of Nelson's simple announcement of the glorious victory of the Nile. It is actually a single sheet, which, folded in two, measures 20 ins. by 15 ins. It bears the imprint "London: Printed at the Printing Office in Printing House Square, Blackfriars, by C. Bell (Brunswick Street) and published by J. Bonsor (Salisbury Square)."

Of the sixteen columns that constitute the issue, nearly seven are devoted to advertisements, a fair proportion of necessary backbone. From these we get side glances at social and political life in England in the last decade of the 18th century which are not without interest. Theatres do not largely advertise, though that one, at least, was open appears from the news column, where Mr. Kemble is announced as playing the part of Zange in "The Revenge."

Among the business announcements is put forth a notable scheme of what is called "progressive annuities." Not less than £30,000 are wanted. Each subscriber of £100 was to be granted for life an annuity according to age. From 45 to 50 the annuity was 8 guineas; from 65 to 70, £14, increasing 5s. every year for the first 20 years of subscription.

On the Wednesday following the day of publication, the anniversary of Mr. Charles James Fox's first election for Westminster was to be held at the Shakespeare Tavern, Covent Garden, oddly enough with Mr. Fox in the chair. They dined early in those days (at four o'clock), and cheaply, tickets being only eight shillings. Other things cheap at this epoch were handsome bay mares. Here is one, "five years old, 14½ hands high, warranted sound, and parted with for no fault whatever; the only reason the gentleman is gone abroad and left her in the hands of a friend to dispose of, at the moderate price of ten guineas." Not less cheap—if the season was of moderate length, and Mr. Kemble acted every night—are "two or three tickets for free admission to Drury Lane Theatre for the whole duration of the present season, price six guineas each."

We get a view of Old London in the advertisement of "a house to let, situated in the central part of Oxford Street, immediately opposite Great Portland Place, commanding a view of the country between Hampstead and Highgate, remarkably airy and pleasant." These are not attributes of Oxford Street at the present day, when the view from the central part is limited to houses over the way and the densely populated streets lying behind them up to Hampstead and Highgate.

Perils of the Road

Farther afield the King's highway was by no means safe. Under date July, 1798, the Postmaster-General, in an advertisement which apparently unavailingly dangled a reward of two hundred pounds before the public eye for three months, wants "a young man, middle size, had on a drab-colored gray coat, and rode a horse with a white face." It appears that the postboy carrying the mail from Bromley to Sevenoaks was stopped about two miles from Farnborough, between the hours of ten and eleven o'clock, by a single highwayman, who presented a horse-pistol, and demanded the mail, which the boy gave him. "The boy offered the robber half-a-guinea," whether in lieu of the mail or in supplement does not appear. At any rate, "the robber declined taking it." A reference in the text of the advertisement shows that there was a standing offer embodied in an Act of Parliament for forty pounds for apprehending a highwayman. The Postmaster-General's two hundred pounds is in supplement to this statutory reward. In addition to the particulars given above, the highwayman "had a pair of small saddle-bags, and the appearance of a London Rider, in the opinion of the turnpike men." However that may be, he seems to have been free three months after committing the felony.

That is not an isolated example of the state of the roads. "On Monday evening last, between 6 and 7 o'clock, as Mr. Vernon, of the Treasury, and another gentleman were returning to town in a postchaise, they were stopped near Merton Turnpike by two footpads, who robbed them of their watches, money, and a trunk containing wearing apparel, etc." The same evening Lieutenant Millar, of the Royal Horse Guards, was stopped in a postchaise near Stevenage by two highwaymen, who robbed him of a gold watch and some money.

This Monday evening was a busy day for the fraternity, for in another column it is reported that "at six o'clock Mr. Courvoisier, one of His Majesty's Messengers, was stopped by two highwaymen, who robbed him of near £3 in cash." That the highwaymen did not always have it their own way appears from the current report of Bow Street Police Office, where "Brown, Russell and Shirley were yesterday finally examined and fully committed to take their trial for assaulting and robbing Mary Glinnery on the highway in St. Giles." Highway robbery was a hanging matter in those days. Russell and Shirley were in a bad way, being detained for trial on a further charge of robbing the house of Mr. Rose in Charlotte Street, Bedford Square, of a quantity of wearing apparel.

The press-gang was in full working order, His Majesty's Fleet, busy at the Nile, off Brest and elsewhere, requiring constant recruits. John Hanning, a seaman, surrounded by the press-gang at Newhaven, turned upon them and slew one. "The Keeper of the Lewes House of Correction entering his cell, with intent to remove the prisoner to Horsham jail by the warrant of the coroner, found him hanging by the neck," a circumstance which provided unexpected work for the coroner. The jury bringing in a verdict of felo de se, the unfortunate seaman was in the dead of the night buried in the cross-roads near St. John's Church. "But," it is added, "the stake commonly used on such occasions was dispensed with."

Ireland Then

There is one resemblance between The Times of 1798 and The Times of 1921, inasmuch as with both Ireland occupied a large share of the space devoted to news or editorial comment. This was the year famous in Irish history when Lord Edward Fitzgerald was still alive, and Napper Tandy was hovering around the coast in command of French troops that never landed. There had, however, at the date of our paper, been a descent of the French, who on August 22 landed at Killala a force 900 strong, and, reinforced by Irish rebels, routed the Royalist army at Castlebar. Our issue of The Times contains dispatches from General Trench, in command of the Royalist troops, dated "Camp, near Killala, September 24 and 25." By this time the Royalist troops had rallied, beaten and captured the French invaders, and General Trench was occupied in disposing of the dauntless peasantry who still remained under arms. The rebels had taken refuge in Killala, which General Trench stormed, rescuing the Bishop and his family, beleaguered in their palace. In the dispatch here published, General Trench gives a graphic description of "the Bishop and his family, and servants, armed with carbines, barricaded in their room, preparing to resist the threatened violence of the rebels." The Times "has pleasure to add that by the success of General Trench's operations a decisive blow has been given to every root and fibre of rebellion in Ireland."

Satisfactory news from Ireland was eclipsed by the greater glory of the dispatch that had just reached the Government from the mystic Nile. Captain Capel, son of Lord Essex, brought to London news of the battle of the Nile. The engagement began at sunset on August 1. On August 3 Nelson—he was only Sir Horatio then—sat down to write the dispatch reporting the affair. This he addressed to Admiral of the Fleet the Earl of St. Vincent, then understood to be somewhere "off Cadiz." Four days later, on August 7, it occurred to Nelson that perhaps the people at home in England might like to hear of the little affair. Accordingly, he determined to send Captain Capel overland with a copy of the dispatch. He was evidently not sure that he was not herein overstepping his duty, for, in addressing the enclosure to the Secretary of the Admiralty, he writes: "In an event of this importance I have thought it right to send Captain Capel with a copy of my letter overland, which I hope their lordships will approve." Having the precious document in his charge, Captain Capel set forth, and traveling, it may be presumed, with the utmost speed then available, reached London in the incredibly short space of 56 days!

WOMEN WHOM CHILDREN LOVE

Once upon a time a young man complained to his mother that he didn't know what type of women to ask to be his wife.

"There's always the test of children," the mother remarked.

"Oh, I know. Naturally I should want a woman who loved children."

"I don't mean that," was the swift reply. "Leave that to take care of itself. Choose a woman whom children love. That's even more important than choosing a women who loves children."

Why is it that so many women charming, competent, kindly though they be, fail singularly to attract children? Is it lack of understanding, or patience, or simplicity?

I am inclined to think that it is chiefly lack of simplicity. Hundreds of women who know all there is to know of the physical side of mothercraft, who are up-to-date and scientific in their methods of caring for the health of children, know little of the child mind.

It is this type of woman who, meeting a small boy for the first time, invariably addresses him with a "Well, my little man." I have not yet met the small boy who did not hate to be spoken to in such terms of well-meaning condescension.

It is this type of woman, also, who, meeting small girls, makes heroic but obvious efforts to be very pleasant. Children very quickly see through these little affectations; they are conscious of strain; they know very well that they have nothing at all in common with the adult who is trying so hard to please.

The women whom children love, and therefore the women whom men love, are those who are sincere and natural and who treat children quite seriously, without any wish to make an impression.

Children love to be taken seriously. They appreciate a good listener. They dislike the woman who always "butts in" with some patronizing remark. They can be perfectly at their ease and make all kinds of delicious little revelations to the women who is content to listen and who does not get impatient or bored.

Perhaps these are qualities which a man appreciates no less than a child, and the old lady who advised her son to marry a woman whom children loved knew something of human nature.

To the woman who would win the heart of a child three words of advice might be given. Be a listener. What a child can tell you is far more interesting and of far greater importance than any thing you can tell a child. —B. D. in Daily Mail.

STEAMER BAKERSFIELD MEETS WITH MISHAP

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—A wireless message received at the United States naval radio station at Los Angeles harbor today from the Shipping Board freighter Bakersfield stated the ship's steering gear was broken and engine trouble had developed, but that she was proceeding slowly under her own steam and was not in need of assistance.

CANADIAN SQUADRON RETURNED YESTERDAY

The Canadian Naval Squadron returned from Comox yesterday, and is again at anchor in Esquimalt harbor. The destroyers, which have been at Nanaimo during the past three days, came here direct, the Patriot reaching port yesterday morning and the Patrician in the late afternoon. The Aurora, coming from Comox, arrived at midday. Officers and crews of the three ships reported that the stay at Comox and vicinity had been most enjoyable, and that the up-Island towns had been lavish in their hospitality.

Two weeks from today the squadron weighs anchor for Halifax.

MILLIONS KILLED IN ACTION
Wonderful news! Millions and millions of germs killed in action and thousands and thousands of victims relieved of bronchitis, asthma, coughs, and colds. There is great rejoicing in the fact that science has at last invented the world's surest death trap for germs—Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture. With the first dose this remedy gets right down to business, and never ceases in its destructive work until every trace of the disease is completely removed and the victim restored to normal health. Letters from all parts of Canada praising this wonderful mixture are literally pouring into headquarters. Read this letter:—"Years of suffering from that terrible affliction, bronchial asthma, ordered by all medical men to close my business in Montreal and go south to a warmer climate, but I noticed your ad. in the "Montreal Standard" for the above mixture and I said I would give one more trial to health before I leave my native town, and thank the good maker I did. My bronchial tubes are clear, the hacking cough has disappeared, the wheezing cough has ceased as if by magic, and all discomforts have gone since taking your wonderful mixture."—Herbert Corri, 417 McKay Street, Montreal. There is no reason whatever why you cannot be completely and speedily restored to health if you take this remedy. You are satisfied or the money is refunded, according to our guarantee. Don't delay. What's at the Playhouses?

VARIETY THEATRE Few stars of the screen have had a more interesting career than Louise Glaum, hailed by critics everywhere as one of the few truly great emotional artistes of the silver sheet. The star of J. Parker Read, Jr.'s "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," by Louis Joseph Vance, a W. W. Hodkinson release, which is at the Variety Theatre, made her first public appearance when but twelve years old at a church entertainment in a small Maryland town. The praise of the townspeople had its effect, and four years later she was a prominent member of a Baltimore stock company.

ROYAL VICTORIA Israel Hart, a wealthy banker, and prominent in Jewish circles, was found dead in the library of his handsome home early today. He was killed by a blow on the head with some blunt instrument. Surgeons fixed the time of his death at about midnight. Hugh Colman, a young lawyer of prominent family, who has been attentive to the only daughter of the slain man, has been charged with the murder. The reason why Hugh Colman would not explain his whereabouts, and the results of his attitude furnish the strong dramatic story of "The Oath," produced by R. A. Walsh, one of the big five productions of Associated First National Pictures, Inc., which will be the attraction at the Royal Victoria Theatre again today.

DOMINION THEATRE To drive some sort of machine, be it automobile or a locomotive, is all in the day's work for Wallace Reid, the athletic Paramount star. In "The Love Special," his latest starring vehicle which is now at Dominion Theatre, Wally drives a railroad engine over a mountain in a driving snowstorm with the same ease and poise he displays when at the wheel of a roadster in a gruelling auto race. "It was great sport to feel the big engine pull up as I pulled the throttle," said the star, "but I felt lost without a steering wheel. tAt times, when we went around a sharp curve, I would instinctively grab for the wheel, only to remember that I was in a locomotive and didn't have to do any steering. I think a fellow feels better, though, when he knows that he is doing the guiding. It makes one feel dependent and a bit useless to know that he must stick right to the steel rails and that they will guide the engine for him."

PANTAGES THEATRE Nat (Chick) Haines, the inimitable comedian of Arbuckle proportions, heads the cast in "Yes, My Dear," the fast-moving whirly girlie show that tops the Pantages Theatre bill this week. It is a Brooks & Scotbilia production, which means that it is about the best offering of its kind travelling the vaudeville circuits, and no consideration has been overlooked in strengthening its appeal to theatregoers. Full of fascinating songs, with picturesque settings and effects and a chorus of Broadway broilers, it is a live-wire show in every detail. This week's bill is exceptional in many ways, and every number is effectively presented. Fern, Biglow & King appear in an original acrobatic act that introduces a lot of comedy, a little music and some clever acting, although hardly a word is spoken.

PRINCESS THEATRE "The End of the Trail," now playing at the Princess, is a comedy-drama full of the big melodramatic moments with which real life abounds. The comedy is extreme and is well handled by Arthur Elton, Lee Jaxon and William Campbell, also the singing scattered through the play adds much to the success of the splendid production which is simply delighting the crowds attending. James Coots sings "Little Gray Home in the West" in a way that is well worth hearing. Miss Page is wearing some stunning gowns and her small sister graces the part of Pequita with the air of a real western girl, and her riding costume is most becoming. Byron Aldenn, as a halfbreed Indian, has a good part which suits him and which he plays to perfection. All the players are well cast and are doing excellent work in their respective roles. The scenic production is all it should be and from start to finish there isn't anything lacking and "The End of the Trail" is a real treat for young and old. Tonight "The End of the Trail," thrilling, exciting, heart touching and human. Do not miss it.

Cheap Camping

Tourists know a good thing when they see it. Woodland, Calif., some time ago established an auto camping ground, with free lights, water, sewer, and cheap fuel. It proved so attractive that many tourists settled down there to make it their regular home. The town trustees finally stepped in and ruled that no camper could stay longer than one week.

Holds Tourist Record

Records kept by gate attendants at Yellowstone National Park as to the number of motor vehicles visiting the park this season show Montana furnished more auto tourists than any other state. The total number of cars which entered from all states for 1920, was 13,503.

OUT-OF-DOORS PLAY HAS POTENTIALITIES

Production of Greek Classic May Prove an Event of Importance as Well as of Interest to Victorians

It is said that twenty years from now information regarding the Great War will have penetrated to the remote parts of China.

Similarly, some two months from now the remote parts of Victoria will be hearing that an alfresco play has been performed without their knowing it. It is extraordinary how remote some minds can be from the usual sources of information. It is true British Columbia has not facilities for distributing news which some other countries possess. In India, for example, the bazaars keep everyone informed of the latest news. The Zulus spread reports of their chief happenings from hill to hill. Here gossip appears in the daily press and hope is entertained, perhaps vainly, that some keen-eyed citizen may, perchance, notice it and repeat the tale.

Those who read would scarcely credit how many drag through their dull lives with the blindness of the mole, the deafness of the adder. There are those who say, "Victoria is dull, there is nothing going on." It would be far truer to say that most people take too little interest in all the splendid things that do go on. Twenty-three articles have appeared in the local press about the Greek play "Danae," or "The Birth of Perseus," and yet there are people who say they have not heard of it.

This alfresco production is something entirely new for British Columbia. Victoria is the first city to attempt to stage an out-of-doors play. It is probably the only city north of the line that could attempt a classical production of this magnitude, and certainly is the only city that has such a perfect setting in which to present a play.

The early attempts at any big innovation are apt to meet with derision. Was this not true of Marconi's first wireless and of pioneer flying men? The writer of this article found a ready sale years ago for comic verses which heaped ridicule on Wilbur Wright and his brother when attempting their early flights. The memory of such mercenary impertinence brings a blush to the cheek.

Now, may it not be possible that "Danae" is the humble but ambitious forerunner of a series of out-of-doors plays, which, if really well done, could, through the agency of the movies, make the beauties of Victoria familiar to the people in every corner of the British Empire?

CUTICURA HEALED PIMPLES ON FACE

Also Itchy Scalp. Hair Fell Out. Face Disfigured.

"My head began to itch and then were scales on my scalp. My hair came out badly when combed and it became very dry and thin. I also had pimples and blackheads all over my face. The pimples were hard, large, and red, and caused me to scratch and irritate them, and my face was disfigured.

"This trouble lasted about two months and I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After I had used two cakes of Soap and two boxes of Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Zenn Jackson, R. 5, Goldendale, Wash.

JOHN E. KELLERD IN SOCK AND BUSKIN

John E. Kellerd, the eminent actor who is to play an engagement at the Pantages Theatre of two days, Monday and Tuesday, May 16 and 17, in "The Merchant of Venice" and "Hamlet," has had a remarkable career. Before becoming a star he had played no less than eighty-three leading parts, including every kind of role in the spoken drama from Oedipus of Sophocles—of which he stands as the only impersonator in the American theatre—to the lightest modern comedy. In point of service, though not in age, he is the oldest living "Hamlet," having impersonated that character as a child at the King's Cross Theatre, London, in 1879, being then less than ten years of age. A man of broad cultivation, a scholar of the highest type, he has been endorsed by the press of the country as the finest reader in the profession. The sale of seats opens this morning at 10 o'clock.

FAIRBANKS IN A NEW PLAY AT THE VARIETY NEXT WEEK

It is Douglas Fairbanks's faith that at times persons when reading a book, attending a stage performance, or viewing a motion picture, should not always be kept in entire suspense throughout the whole period. It is obvious that a strong element of suspense is vitally necessary for us to focus our attention. But on the other hand, are we not able to maintain our interest in the characters of a story if we cannot, at least, surmise the solution of the plot? Must we inject in all of our stories the greatest suspense and have that as the primary factor? Of course, it behooves us to infuse some suspense or perchance the interest in our play, story or motion picture would lag.

A case in point is Fairbanks's latest United Artists Production, "The Mark of Zorro," showing at the Variety Theatre all next week. In it Fairbanks impersonates two roles. One is that of the mysterious Senor Zorro, a crusader in the interests of Don Diego Vega, a wealthy, supine, inactive individual. Amongst the protagonists the greatest secrecy as to Zorro's identity is enshrouded. No one appears able to fathom the mystery. As a result of which the whole countryside had become apprised of his activities.

"BLACK BEAUTY" AT THE DOMINION ALL NEXT WEEK

David Smith, who has won an enviable reputation for directing big films in which animals play an important part, has achieved another triumph in "Black Beauty," which will be shown at Dominion Theatre all next week. It is a visualization of Anna Sewell's famous novel which has been translated into every language and after forty years still maintains a place among the world's best sellers.

Many magnificent and spectacular scenes have been made for this production, including a stirring fox hunt, a spectacular fire in the stable, a terrific storm in which a bridge is swept away, a gorgeous ballroom scene and a thrilling race between horse and locomotive.

BURNT SACRIFICE

The East is very conservative, and it is not surprising that many customs described in the Bible survive there to this day.

There you may see the ox treading out the corn, the seamless garment, and water drawn from the wells in the village by the women.

Many years ago I came for the first time upon the ceremony of burnt sacrifice, when I was encamped in the jungle.

Each year after that I used to pitch my camp on the same spot on the bank of the Pein Gunga River when on my annual expedition in pursuit of tigers.

On the heights a few miles from the river, overlooking a tiger-haunted valley, the shrine, or tomb, of Shaikh Farid, a Mahommedan saint, gleamed upon the cliff.

Here on this occasion and each year afterwards, at the request of my followers, who were Hindus, a goat was sacrificed to propitiate the jungle deity who presided over those sylvan solitudes. Without this sacrifice, my men assured me, we would have no luck with the tigers.

The goat was slaughtered and its flesh cooked and eaten on the spot, together with unleavened bread, which was made there also.

Next day I killed a tigress in the valley below the shrine, and the effect of the sacrifice had been so propitious, and no doubt the flesh of the goat so good, that my men said another goat must be slain.

There was in the vicinity another valley, presided over by a Hindu deity, up which a narrow path wound its way into the forest.

Along this I wended my way one morning at the head of my little band of faithful followers, who have all, alas! long since gone to the Happy Hunting Grounds.

Here in the dust were impressed the footmarks of many creatures.

There was the great sign manual of a mighty tiger. A bear had ambled along, and after him a panther. Deer, antelope, pigs, porcupines, pearfowl, partridges and little quail—all these had passed by in the silent watches of the night, or in early morning.

By the roadside stood the shrine of the jungle god, represented by a red-painted stone in a little hut from the summit of which a few red and white rags fluttered in the breeze.

The goat was taken to the shrine, its head was anointed with country spirit, and when it bowed down before the graven image, as it certainly did, it was immediately slaughtered, its blood spilt, and its severed foot hung up as an offering within the sacred tenement.

INSTRUMENTAL TRIOS RECITAL FAVORITES

Final Programme of Ladies' Musical Club 1920-'21 Season Was Unusually Attractive—Big Audience Present

The instrumental trios which opened and closed the programme, were the outstanding features of the very charming recital given on Wednesday afternoon at the Empress Hotel by the Ladies' Musical Club. The unusual attractiveness of the programme and the fact that it was the last by the club for the 1920-21 season, drew a bigger audience than has been seen at any of these gatherings for some time, and Mrs. R. Baird, the convener, and Mrs. Gideon Hicks, president of the club, were the recipients of many cordial congratulations following the recital.

The fact that the trios were arranged at the eleventh hour might have led the audience to come prepared to make allowances. But the character of the performance gave nothing but enjoyment, the three instruments playing in very fine accord throughout both the Mendelssohn and the Arensky numbers. The spirited and rhythmic character of the latter made it a particular favorite. The trio was composed of Mrs. Green, violin; Mrs. Jamie Cameron, piano, and Mr. Balagno, 'cello.

Two solo vocalists, Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. Gertrude Hollinrake Brick, and Miss Broley, pianist, furnished the remaining numbers on the programme. All gave much pleasure, Mrs. Stevens displaying a naturally fine and expressive contralto voice of much power in "The Ring" and Campbell-Tipton's "Spirit Flower," and Mrs. Brick, a smooth well-modulated and well-trained voice in "My Sweetheart Now So Long Away," "Summer Night," and "I Came With a Song." Miss Broley has a fine technique which is constantly developing, and her playing of the Liszt Etude and two other numbers exhibited unique talent.

The accompanists for the afternoon were Mrs. A. J. Gibson and Miss Springer.

Leaking Piston Rings

A good test on the condition of the piston rings may be had by feeling the crank case. If it is hotter than usual, there is a leak past the piston rings. They are either worn or stuck in their grooves because of carbon deposits.

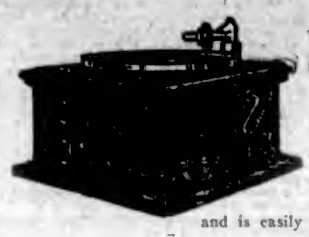

All tourists entering California by automobiles are required by law to register twenty-four hours after their arrival. There is no charge for this registration, which is good for three months.

The horse that played the leading role in Anna Sewell's famous classic, "Black Beauty," was insured for $50,000. The animal shows a high state of intelligence and in many instances displayed almost human intelligence in playing the role assigned. During the big fire scene and also on the stormy day in which the bridge was swept away the horse seemed to know just what was expected of him and went through the scenes without a hitch

Sir,—The statue recently erected in the grounds of the Parliament Buildings, is occupying, as it should do, a great deal of public attention.

It was intended, and is commonly reputed to be a statue of Queen Victoria, after whom the town is named. But it is no more a statue of the great queen than it is of Queen Elizabeth or Boadicea, except for the raiment. It is a statue of a magnificent woman, splendid in figure and in physique and of a commanding presence. If it had been discovered among the ruins of Athens it would have been described as a statue of Pallas Athenoe. It might also be taken as an allegorical conception of our national goddess, Britannica. But it does not convey the least memory of what our beloved Queen was like. She won her way into the hearts of all her people and of many other peoples by what she was, not by what she looked like.

This statue will serve very well to commemorate the extreme ineptitude of our Government, for it has made as many mistakes in erecting this statue as could well be made, and it will be a warning to us to take all matters of art and aestheticism out of their hands. Their minds are too busy devising methods of robbing the taxpayers to attend to anything else. The erection of a statue to commemorate the reign of the greatest sovereign that ever ruled does not stir in their minds any ideas of appropriateness or interest.

CHARLES ST. BARBE.

941 Johnson St., Victoria, B.C., May 11, 1921.

The Skylark

Sir,—You asked in the paper, would anyone who had heard the skylark let you know when and where. I heard them (at times two rose singing close to me at once) where I have heard them for the last five years, in the field below Mount Tolmie, yesterday morning.

Incidentally, it may interest you to know that last week, in bushes built below them, I saw a meadow-lark's nest containing five eggs. Unluckily, I disturbed the bird. She got up from almost under my foot.

MARY A. MACEY.

Salary Increase

Sir, — I have read with interest Canon Hinchliffe's apology for his action in supporting what is popularly known as "the salary grab." Canon Hinchliffe has made out an excellent case for himself and the Government of the day in British Columbia.

May I be permitted to point out that few people in the Province could be brought to think that $1,600 was adequate indemnity for the deeds and needs of any politician; the more politicians get the more they want.

What roused hostile criticism to the "salary grab" was the fact that the Government of the day in British Columbia had for months prior to the end of the session, refused hospitals, schools, roads and other public utilities the money necessary to carry on, on the ground that the Province had not the money to spare.

But when it became a matter of lining the private pockets of members of the Provincial Legislature money could be readily found. Canon Hinchliffe, with the astuteness of a much more experienced politician, has altogether avoided this phase of "the salary grab."

I enclose a copy of a letter from Premier Oliver which emphasises that the Province had, in January last, no money to spare.

CHARLES FLICK

President, Pacific Coast Officers' Association.

52 Wallington Avenue, Victoria, B.C., May 11, 1921.

Lieut.-Col. Charles Flick, New Drill Hall, Victoria, B.C., January 21, 1921.

Dear Sir,—Referring to your application for a grant in aid of B.C. Regiments, I beg to advise you that after giving this matter very careful consideration, I think the duty of providing for the military is entirely cast upon the Federal Government.

It is quite true that for a number of years the Provincial Government made a grant in aid of the Militia of British Columbia. At the present time, however, the Government finds it very difficult to obtain sufficient finances to meet the obligations which under our constitution are cast upon the Province. In fact, many items of public service which it is the duty of the Province to supply are not given on account of insufficiency of funds.

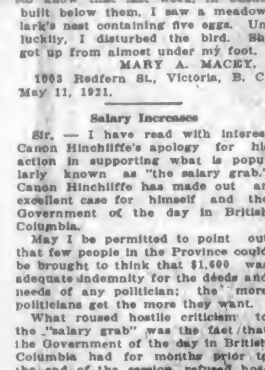

To divert money from legitimate purposes in order to make good deficiency which should be supplied by the Federal Government, appears to be unjustifiable, and I very much regret the necessity of advising you that this Government is unable to furnish the assistance you have requested.

I am, Yours very truly,

JOHN OLIVER.

Anonymity

Sir:—I have received an anonymous letter accusing me of reflecting on the young ladies employed in the Government Buildings in a recent communication to The Colonist.

I didn't do anything of the kind; I wouldn't do anything of the kind; I couldn't do anything of the kind. Only an extremely warped mentality could so construe anything I stated. It is some thirty years since I came to Victoria, and I can safely challenge any friend or acquaintance to call to mind any occasion on which I made an improper reflection on a woman or girl.

My unqualified respect goes out to the girl or woman compelled by circumstances to battle with the world for a living. My unqualified respect goes out equally to the girl or woman who, although not compelled by circumstances, has the enterprise, the courage, the pride and the independence to make her own way. Not to boast, I may say that I have assisted scores of girls and women here to respectable and profitable employment. Also I have advised numbers against entering employment where I felt or believed they would not receive the respect and protection to which a girl or woman is entitled from any man employing her.

Now as to the anonymous letter writer, which may be classified under the insignificant pronoun "it."

It is generally of the species of animal to meddle with which leaves one saturated with an offensive odor. It is also of the social sewer rat type, groping, crawling and gambolling in social filth and garbage. It is also generally an animal with a bar sinister itself. It is also a cowardly animal, of the type now in Ireland, disgracing the great Irish people by shooting and stabbing in the back, and lastly it is ashamed of its name, or it would publish it.

Finally, no matter how it endeavors to conceal its identity, it blunders, and the writer of the scurrilous effusion to me can recover it in an envelope addressed in her proper name, by calling on me at any time.

I was dealing with a state of public affairs; not in personalities or with individuals. I have no quarrel with the members of the Legislature or the Government, among whom I have valued and respected friends. The same remark applies to the City Council. I quarrel with the system, not with the men, and I sign my name to it.

The Lord's Day

Sir:—In examining the texts in the letters on "The Sabbath," which have recently appeared in The Colonist, I find that they do not prove what they are said to prove.

It is asserted that the Lord's day in Rev. 1: 10 is the first day of the week. How then does it happen that the Apostle John in his gospel which was written two years later, calls the first day simply "the first day of the week," without any title whatever? —John 20: 1, 19. So far from its being true that Sunday was then called the Lord's Day, history conclusively shows that no authoritative instance of the application of that term to the first day can be found till the time of Tertullian, A.D. 200, and this was 104 years after John wrote the book of Revelation and 169 years after the resurrection of Christ. What day, then, does the apostle mean by the term "Lord's Day?" That he means some day of the week is evident and inasmuch as the day of the week is not specified in the text, we must look to other texts to determine which day is meant. That day must be the Lord's day which He has claimed as His. He has never so claimed the first day in any manner, either by word or act. He never rested upon that day, never blessed it, never set it apart, never attached any title of sacredness to it, and never gave any command for its observance. But all these things He has done in reference to the seventh day. In Isaiah He emphatically calls it "My holy day."—Isa. 58: 13. And finally, Christ Himself declares "The Son of Man is Lord also of the Sabbath."—Mark 2: 27.

If anywhere in the New Testament a record could be found stating that the Son of Man is Lord of the first day of the week, that fact would be held as conclusive in favor of that day, and anyone who should question it would be reviled for his obstinacy. Why, then, not give the same weight to the fact that such a record is found for the seventh day, the Sabbath of the Lord? It is also asserted that on the first day the disciples were wont to meet together. Now, if it could be shown that the disciples often assembled in the day time of the first day of the week, this would fall short of proving a change of the Sabbath. Many texts might be given to show that apostolic example is on the side of the Sabbath.

Paul at Corinth "reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath day and persuaded the Jews and the Greeks." How long did he remain at Corinth? "And he continued there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them." Here is apostolic example for seventy-eight successive Sabbaths.—Acts 18: 1-11.

We shall now take the text cited in Acts 20: 7. "And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them ready to depart on the morrow, and continued his speech until midnight." If sacredness is attached to the first day because the disciples assembled to break bread, then every day would be sacred, for in Acts 2: 46, they met daily in the temple and broke bread from house to house.

The meeting at Troas seems to have been an occasional meeting as Paul was to depart on the morrow. From the circumstance of there being many lights in the upper chamber where the disciples were assembled we conclude that it was an evening meeting. As each day commences at sunset, according to God's division of time (Gen. 1.), that meeting at Troas was held on what is called Saturday night, leaving at daybreak Sunday morning for the eighteen or twenty mile journey afoot, across country to Assos. And while he spent that day traveling on foot, his companions were journeying by boat. Here is apostolic example for labor on the first day.

Another text quoted for first day sacredness is I. Cor. 16: 2. It is inferred from this text that Paul enjoined a public collection. But it is an important fact that the apostle enjoined exactly the reverse of a public collection. He says, "Let every one of you lay by him in store." This is an individual work for each one to attend to at home.

Greenfield, in his lexicon, translates the Greek term, "by one's self, i.e., at home." Two Latin versions, the Vulgate and that of Castello, render it "apud se," with one's self, at home. Other authorities give the same thought. The reference in Rom. 14: 5 has nothing to do with the weekly Sabbath. When the Jewish converts began to flock into the Christian church, some of them became perplexed because the Christian method of worship did not also embrace the requirements of the Mosaic ritual of ceremonies. Reference is made here to the various annual Sabbaths and feasts. Whether they should be observed or not was a question in the minds of some of the new converts.

Dr. Adam Clarke says: "Reference is made here to the Jewish institutions and especially their festivals such as the Passover, Feast of Tabernacles, new moons, etc. The converted Jew still thought these of moral obligation; the Gentile Christians not having been bred up in this way, had no such prejudices."

Mr. Lambert in his letter says that Christians are not under law, but under grace, and quotes from Rom. 6: 14 to prove his statement. But what does the apostle say in verse 15? "What then? Shall we sin because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid." Sin is the transgression of the law.—John 3: 4. He speaks of God breaking His covenant with His people. Surely he does not mean the covenant recorded in Deut. 4: 13, for the Lord says, "My covenant will I not break, nor alter the thing that is gone out of my lips."—Psa. 89: 34. God is not a man that he should lie.—Num. 23: 19. According to scripture He is very much mixed up in the covenants, the two laws, the millenium, and other events recorded in Matthew 24.

FUTURE OF ARAB LANDS

Correspondent London Times

The formation of a Middle East Department marks a definite turning-point in our Near Eastern policy, and the conference which Mr. Church-ill summoned to meet at Cairo has had to discuss the future of Palestine, Mesopotamia, and questions connected with Arabia.

The geographical position of Persia, as well as its intimate connection with Irak (Mesopotamia) must bring that country very prominently into discussion, while the opinions of the Indian Moslems have to be taken into consideration, for the Caliphate controversy is very near the root of some of the questions that are being deliberated.

The last few years have seen a marked diminution of our once great prestige in the East. It is idle to pretend that Orientals will readily forget the disaster of Kut, and it is useless to suggest that our wavering policy and blank repudiation of certain of our promises have created anything but a feeling of surprise and distrust.

Idea of Arab State

Since our future relations with many Arab States are under discussion, it may be convenient to set forth some few facts concerning those of Arabia, and to observe that there are today still many advocates of the entirely Utopian idea of a united Arab kingdom. Before the war the Porte was considering the question of granting some kind of modified self-government to Syria and possibly to Irak. The idea of giving these states an autonomous government is, then, not new; that of forming one vast Arab State was revived during and after the war.

In the days of the first four Caliphs, when Khalid, the Sword of God, led the Arabs in triumphant victory to the banks of the Euphrates and through Syria, when Amr seized Egypt, and Northern Africa was overrun, there was for a short period a loosely formed Arab kingdom, but the subsequent history of the Arabs is one long record of inter-tribal and internecine warfare.

Contradictory as it may seem, the Arab is at once the most aristocratic and yet the most democratic of men. "The perpetual independence of the Arabs has been the theme of praise among strangers and natives," says Gibbon, and this independence is so far developed that one tribe will not submit itself willingly to be ruled by another. Segments of tribes are continually leaving the main body and forming themselves into independent units. The impossibility of welding a confederation of several Arab tribes for the simplification of administration has been one of the greatest difficulties experienced by officials in the Sudan. Yet there are many today who talk glibly of a kingdom of the Arabs.

Conflicting Claims

There can be no Arabian kingdom except it be founded and maintained by the British sword. The whole Arab question has become so interwoven with that of the Ashraf (or descendants in the male line of the Caliph Ali by his marriage with Fatima, the daughter of the Prophet) that a reference to the Sherifian authorities is unavoidable, for the advocates of the Arab kingdom saw in the person of the Grand Sherif of Mecca an acceptable suzerain to the Arabs, and a potential Caliph.

The fundamental truth expressed by a distinguished writer on Arabia was ignored or forgotten; it was to the effect that history showed the supreme folly of trying to raise one Oriental ruler over another, for it only provided a fruitful source of discord and continual strife. An entirely erroneous impression prevails as to the sanctity or importance of the Grand Sherif. It was apparently considered that his birth constituted him ipso facto the lawful leader of Islam, and that as such he would command the obedience and hold the respect and affection of the Arabs, if not of all Moslems. The views of the Indian Mahomedans are an interesting comment in this connection.

The revolt against the Turks was not made by a general rising of Arabs; it was made by the Grand Sherif of Mecca, who exchanged his position for the kingship of the weakest of the five important Arab States of Arabia. Subsequently the Emir of Nejd assisted us, but the original movement began at Mecca.

At the same time as the Sherif proposed himself, with our tacit consent, as the suzerain of the Arabs, his sons were suggested as candidates for various emirates, on the assumption that a Sherifian candidate would be acceptable.

As regards the personal claims of King Hussein and his family, it need only be stated that there are numerous Ashraf equal in birth and equally eligible for the post of Grand Sherif. The special claims of the sons of the Grand Sherif are presumably on account of their services during the late war.

The primary causes which led to the candidature of certain Emirs of the Prophet's tribe for Arab thrones having been briefly set out, two questions immediately suggest themselves: Was a Sherifian candidate likely to be acceptable to the people that he was to govern, and would an Arab Caliph or suzerain over the Arab people be acknowledged by his neighbors and co-religionists?

Religious Differences

As regards Irak, on the face of it it seems incredible that a Sunni Emir would be an acceptable prince to the Shia sect. It has been stated that the proclamation at Damascus naming Abdullah as King of Irak was received in Mesopotamia with amusement and contempt, and it is at least certain that a request for a Sherifian Emir to occupy the throne of Irak would have to be of a very unanimous and spontaneous nature from the scattered and numerous Arab tribes to ensure even a moderate success.

As regards Syria, now under the French mandate, it may be observed that if a Sherif ruled in Syria today it is not conceivable that he would accept any overlordship from Mecca, and an intrigue would probably be set on foot to the place the Caliphate, whatever its value might be, in his hands.

A glance at the map of Arabia will show the vastness of the area under the sway of the Emir of Nejd, the home of Wahabism. He is bitterly hostile to the Hedjaz on two counts—first, he is jealous and apprehensive of the aims of King Hussein; and, secondly, he regards him and his people as degenerate Moslems.

To enter into an explanation of the Wahabi movement would take too much space; it is sufficient to remark that it is named after its founder, Abd-el-Wahab, and that in the days of Mehemet Ali of Egypt it had reached such dimensions that that great prince was obliged to conduct an expedition against its followers in order to recover Mecca and Medina from its rule. The movement declined, but has lately recovered prominence. It is a revivalist movement, enforcing the most rigid and fanatical ascetism. The Emir Ibn Saud may not be a deep sympathiser with the movement of which he is the nominal head, but he is an able statesman and fully recognises its value as a lever in his political aims. The likelihood of a union between Nejd and the Hedjaz is indeed slight.

The Imam Yehia of Sanaa, in the Yemen, wrapped in his esoteric knowledge, greeted by the Zeidi sectaries as the lawful descendant of Hussein, the younger son of the Caliph Ali, and as Commander of the Faithful, is at present at war with the Idrisi Emir of Asir, while his relations with Mecca are very strained.

The Idrisi occupies that portion of the Red Sea littoral between the boundaries of the Yemen and the Hedjaz, and is unlikely to consent to an agreement which strikes in any way at his absolute independence. The same remarks apply to the youthful Emir Abdullah at Hail.

These few remarks may draw attention to the impossibility of an Arab union, at least as far as Arabia is concerned, for many years to come, and also to the rise of the movement for establishing a theocracy among the Ashraf of Mecca.

No mention has been made of those Arabs who adhere to the Senussi sect. Those who have had the privilege of hearing the views of the present Sheikh el Senussi on the Caliphate and Mahomedan questions in general have found them instructive and interesting; unless he has changed his mind, they were not favorable to the Ashraf of Mecca.

It will be clear, therefore, that we shall be committed to heavy expenditure if we adopt any policy with the Arabs other than that of leaving them alone. This does not mean the abandonment of the Arabs, but it should mean that heavy expenditure should not be a necessary concomitant of our relations with them.

A change of twenty-nine votes from Wilson to Hughes in 1916 would have given Hughes the electoral vote of New Hampshire.

WAS SUFFERING FROM INDIGESTION

NO FEAR OF PAINS NOW

Indigestion is one of the worst forms of stomach trouble, and many people suffer terribly after every meal they eat. The rising and souring of the food, pains in the stomach, heartburn, water brash, belching of wind, vomiting shortly after eating, etc., are some of the symptoms.

There is no need for any person to be troubled with indigestion, dyspepsia or any other stomach trouble if they would only take Burdock Blood Bitters, which contains a combination of nature's roots, herbs, barks and berries; a combination that cannot help but put the stomach right.

Mr. H. H. Collins, Norton, N.B., writes:—"I was with the overseas forces for four years and two months, and in October, 1916, I was unfortunate enough to be wounded and taken prisoner. I was a prisoner for 2½ years, and the food they gave us was not good, at times, and after a few months I found I was suffering from indigestion. When I came home in July, 1919, I was nearly a wreck. I was told to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I did so and found great relief, and can now eat without fear of pains and sickness. I would recommend B.B.B. to all who suffer from indigestion."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for over forty years, and during that time has made a reputation second to none for relieving all stomach troubles. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. (Advt.)

CABARET AT DUNCAN OUTSTANDING SUCCESS

Given by Cowichan Chapter, I.O.D.E., and Attended by Residents of District and Visitors From Victoria

DUNCAN, May 11.—With gay balloons suspended over the main dancing floor, serpentines swirling forth amid the throng of dancers, Cowichan District realized the inauguration of a cabaret in its midst, the memory of which will ever stand out as one of the most brilliant and successful social functions staged in this district, when under the auspices of the Cowichan Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire a cabaret was held in the Agricultural Hall here last evening.

Some 64 tables, with seating accommodation for parties from two to eight persons, bordered the main hall and were placed on the stage, and the centre of the hall was given over to the dancing and the "turns" of the various artists taking part on the programme.

From the gallery was presented a wonderful scene of revelry. The very atmosphere thrilled with that frivolous, gay and happy spirit that goes to make such an affair a success. Flags festooned and bordered the main hall, and soft greenery, combined with dogwood and other Spring flowers, added much to the attractiveness of the hall. The tables were each centred with beautiful blooms, and it was a wonderful spectacle.

Society turned out en masse to do honor to the cabaret. It was a brilliant assembly. Many notable society people came from a distance to take in the affair, including parties from Victoria, with Mrs. Harold Eberts, Miss Peggy McBride, Capt. Woods, Capt. Williams, Mr. Hobday, Miss Scott, Mrs. Hanson, Miss Langton, Miss D. Stuart-Robertson and Mr. Kenneth Angus.

A bevy of waiters looked winsome in white dresses with white mob caps encircled with a touch of red. The little Misses Daisy Bevan and Toto Price frisked among the throng selling gay-colored balloons.

The Programme

The cabaret opened with the singing of the National Anthem, when the curtain went up on a magnificent staging of a tableau portraying the many countries which participated in the Great War. This was under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Willett, and made a gorgeous effect. Britannia (Miss Primrose Wells), as central figure, with Scotland (Mr. R. McBean), Ireland (Mrs. J. I. Mutter), Wales (Mrs. Saxon White), Canada (Miss Phylis Lomas), France (Miss Primrose Wells), Italy (Mrs. Allan Mutter), Belgium (Mrs. Boyd Wallis), America (Mrs. H.W. Bevan), China (Mrs. Coyne), Indian (Mrs. Parker), Australia (Mrs. Stuart), Servia (Miss K. Powel), Roumania (Miss K. Robertson), Egypt (Mrs. George Mutter), South Africa (Mrs. E. O. Williams), New Zealand (Miss N. Price), Fiji (Cecil Greaves), North American Indians (Gen. Gartside-Spraight), Portugal (Miss Bonser), with Peace (Miss Winnie Calvert), coming in clothed in robes of white with the dove and shield.

The numbers throughout the programme were each accorded a tremendous reception, and included Mr. A. Eastman in "I Am On My Way to Peru," with "Archibald" as an encore. Miss Edie Bevan again won laurels in her dainty interpretation of "Kiss a Miss," which was given again in part as the encore, and Mr. Pelley acting as her partner in the dancing. Miss Hilda Langton won hearty applause with her "Glow Worm Dance," dancing to the Humoresque as an encore. Very effective was the song and dance given by Mr. Kenneth Angus, of Victoria, with his chorus composed of Miss Edie Bevan, Miss Muriel Price, Mrs. W. Barton, Misses Peggy Steine, Violet Stilwell and Sylvia Kennington in "If You Could Care For Me," giving it in part for the encore. "'Tis Only a Tiny Garden," by Mrs. W. Barton, won applause and was responded to with "I Come From Holland, Where the Tulips Grow." Mr. Petch, of Victoria in splendid voice was heard in "Invictus," with "Two Marionettes" as the encore. Miss Dorothy Stuart-Robertson, of Victoria, dainty and gay, gave "Some Day Some Little Bug Will Get You," repeating part in response to the hearty applause. Mr. Hobday, Victoria, was greatly appreciated in his interpretation of "Crime," given in costume, and responding with "The Miner's Story," and Mr. Kenneth Angus, in costume, gave the "Jester Song and Dance," repeating the dance in response to the vigorous applause.

Special mention should be made of the gracious act of the Victoria artists for coming up and participating in the programme and accepting no remuneration for expenses.

Miss Clark acted as accompanist for the various items on the programme, and the music for the dancing was supplied by Mrs. Martin's orchestra.

Those in charge of the various committees were: entertainment, Mrs. Rushton and Mrs. H. N. Watson; plan and arrangement of tables and direction of waitresses, Mrs. A. J. Marlow and Mrs. Popert; refreshments, Mrs. Innes Noad and Mrs. Spurrier; ice cream and soft drinks, Mrs. Moon and Mrs. Tisdall; decorations, Mrs. Garrard and Mrs. Swan; home-made candies, Mrs. Ted Bazett; poster, Mrs. Garrard and Mrs. H. N. Watson.

The posters and menu cards won much admiration, being novel and original in design, the work of several local artists.

Between three and four hundred people were in attendance, and the proceeds of the undertaking will go towards the Memorial Fund.

MERCHANT HAS NO MORE USE FOR CANE

McDonald Says He Can Walk as Well as Ever Before and Feels Just Fine

"I just simply think there's nothing like Tanlac, for the way it has restored my health is simply wonderful," said Kenneth McDonald, well known hardware dealer, residing at Oak River, Man., while at the Liggett Drug Store in Winnipeg recently.

"Three years ago I commenced suffering with lumbago, and then a year later rheumatism struck me in my legs. My knees were so stiff in the mornings I could not bend them, and I certainly did have a time getting my clothes on. In a few months my legs and arms got to hurting terribly, and I was so crippled up I couldn't get around without the aid of a cane. I was hardly able to eat anything, and suffered from gas bloating and pains that were simply terrible. The pains kept me awake most of the night.

"About two months ago I started taking Tanlac, and three bottles of this medicine made me feel like a different man. I've finished my sixth bottle now, and haven't a trace of lumbago, rheumatism or stomach trouble left with me, and have gained twelve pounds in weight. The cane I used to walk with stands in the corner of my room now, for I can get about so well I never need it any more. Tanlac is beyond doubt the best medicine in the world."

Tanlac is sold in Victoria by Duncan B. Campbell and leading druggists. —(Advt.)

PLANNING WATER WORKS FOR COURTENAY

Scheme for Installation of System Submitted to Council, With Prospects of Satisfactory Results

COURTENAY, May 12.—A special meeting of the Courtenay City Council was held last night when a consultation was held with Col. E. J. Ryan, of Vancouver, who has submitted a proposal for the installation of the waterworks system here and accept in payment bonds of the city. The Colonel and his company's engineer went over the source of supply and route on Wednesday and are satisfied that if given the opportunity to get busy at once city water will be in household use within the next six months.

The city has its own electric plant, paying a handsome dividend each year, and it is expected that when the water is laid on not only will it in a year or two prove a source of revenue, but will be a great factor in the beautification of the city and the lowering of insurance rates.

COMOX BOARD OF TRADE

Adjourned Annual Meeting Discusses Need of Liquor Store at Courtenay

COURTENAY, May 12.—The adjourned annual meeting of the Courtenay-Comox Board of Trade was held in the City Hall, on Tuesday night, a large number of members being present, notwithstanding the counter attractions in the form of dances at Royston and Comox for the navy. Many subjects of great importance to the district were discussed, the one receiving a good deal of attention being the establishment of a liquor store at Courtenay. It is generally felt that the permit system will not work out satisfactorily if revenue is looked for, especially if the Province is not allowed the sole right of importation. Comox is a large district, scattered; being in this respect like other industrial centres where men are housed in camps and come to town perhaps once a week, or only on the bimonthly pay day. When a man comes into town to get a thirst quencher he does not want to be satisfied with having to send to the nearest Government store; he may as well send to Alberta, he will not get his package anyway until he comes to town again. By having a store in Courtenay, many sales would be saved to the Province.

The appointment of committees was also made by President McLeod, and he has so arranged them that every member of the Board is represented on one or more committees. The outlook for the coming year for the Board of Trade at Courtenay is indeed bright, and much good is expected to be accomplished.

CONCERT AND DANCE AT FULFORD HARBOR

Opening of New Institute Hall, on May 16, Will Be Marked by Social Reunion

FULFORD HARBOR, May 12.—On Monday next it is proposed to open the new Institute Hall here with all due ceremony. The actual dedication of the building will be performed by Mr. M. B. Jackson, M.P.P., who will act as chairman. There will be a concert during the early part of the evening at which "Bob" Sloan, the clever comedian, will be the topliner —and "Bob" is a whole troupe in himself.

In addition to Mr. Sloan there will be an array of talent from Sidney, Saltspring and Victoria, among which will be included Mrs. Fred Wright, contralto; Miss Rosie Mathews, soprano; Miss Aveline Crossley, juvenile vocalist and elocutionist, and Messrs. Cowell, J. Haig and Chas. Maynard. Mr. P. N. Foster, in "habitant" specialties, will be a feature. Mrs. W. T. Patchall will be accompanist for the evening.

The concert will be followed by a dance, the Saltspring Island orchestra contributing selections.

A hearty invitation is extended to all Saltspringers and others to be present, and a most enjoyable evening is assured all who attend.

COURTENAY NEWS NOTES

COURTENAY, May 10.—Under the auspices of the Women's Institute, Miss Meadows, of Denman Island, gave an interesting exhibition of lace making in the Agricultural Hall, Courtenay. Many ladies were present and an interesting educational afternoon was spent.

Col. E. J. Ryan is in Courtenay on business in connection with water works installation.

Mr. S. Cameron, of Victoria, is in the district looking over his farm on the Headquarters Road.

SAILORS ENTERTAINED BY NANAIMO PEOPLE

Crews of Canadian Fleet Expressed Appreciation of Hospitality and Courtesy Extended Them by Citizens

NANAIMO, May 12. — Declaring that the reception tendered them during their stay in Nanaimo was one of the best they have received since leaving England, the officers and men of the destroyers Patriot and Patrician wish to thank the citizens for the splendid time they have had during their short stay here. The vessels left early this morning for Victoria.

Yesterday the members of the crew were taken for a sight-seeing trip in and around Nanaimo, and in the afternoon a soccer game was played between the sailors and No. 1 and Protection team, the score being 3 to 1 in favor of the latter. In the evening a big smoking concert was held, while the ships' officers were the guests of the Maple Leaf Club at a dance in Young's Hall. Yesterday afternoon the Patriot was moored alongside the Ballast wharf, where hundreds of citizens took the opportunity of inspecting the vessel. The school children boarded her en masse; they were in every nook and corner, and not one of them missed seeing anything worth seeing. They romped around the decks, played with the guns, and had a very merry time.

The concert in the G.W.V.A. Hall was a splendid success, the lengthy programme being enjoyed by the large gathering, the sailors taking part in the programme and joining in the proceedings. Mayor Busby occupied the chair. Those contributing to the programme were T. Lewis, R. Husband, P. McAlpine, J. Black, J. Hamilton, Norman Carter, Ald. W. Hart, Ralph Johnson, W. Lightfoot and Montague St. Lo. Jensen's orchestra was in attendance, while E. Stone rendered several selections on the bagpipes. A boxing exhibition by the Townsend wonders caused lots of excitement. Toasts were given, and with a plentiful supply of "smokes," all attending had a rare time.

WELL-KNOWN COMOX SETTLER PASSES AWAY

Death of Mr. J. E. Hudson Causes General Regret in Northern District

COURTENAY, May 10.—The death occurred on Sunday morning last of James Edward Hudson, aged 54 years, a resident of Comox for nearly thirty years. The late Mr. Hudson was a farmer, occupying land in the Little River section of Comox District and was widely known throughout the valley. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow, a brother, Mr. Thomas Hudson, and a sister, Mrs. A. F. B. Church, of Little River. Two nephews, well known in the logging industry, also survive. They are Messrs. Edward and Harry Vogel, the latter being particularly well known for his operations in the Otter Point region. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock from the family residence and an hour later at the Roman Catholic Church, St. John Baptist, Comox, Rev. Father Beaton celebrating mass and officiating at the graveside. Many of the pioneers of Comox Valley followed the remains to their last resting place, thus testifying to the clinging regard they had for years held for Mr. Hudson. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Thomas Bambrick, John Giddings, Philip Ryan, David Ryan, Patrick and Edward Whelan.

NANAIMO TEAM BEATEN

NANAIMO, May 12.—The Nanaimo Baseball Club met with its first defeat at Chemainus last night, the home team winning by a score of 9 to 8, the game having to be called at the end of the sixth innings owing to darkness. Arrangements are under way for another game between Granby and Nanaimo, to take place on Sunday. Granby made quite an impression on the fans last Sunday and should give the local boys quite a battle this week.

The North Vancouver High School basketball and soccer teams will visit Nanaimo this week-end and will meet the local High School team on Friday evening. The visiting football team will engage the local High School eleven on Saturday morning. After the game the players, visitors, and friends will be entertained at a dance and social to be given by the Davenport basketball team in Young's Hall.

Gabriola Islander Dead

NANAIMO, May 12.—The death occurred in the local hospital yesterday afternoon of W. B. Goodall, a farmer on South Gabriola Island. Deceased was 39 years of age and a native of Edinburgh, Scotland. The late Mr. Goodall served during the war as lieutenant in the Sixth Royal Scots.

May Queen Contest

NANAIMO, May 12.—In the second count for May Queen Miss Georgina Marsh continues in the lead, the poll now standing, Miss Marsh, 1,529; Miss Nellie Clark, 1,024; Miss Lizzie Brough, 386; Miss Helen Huby, 332; Miss Jean Stannard, 33. For Page, Billie Bell, 1,222; Sherman Stewart, 813; Ronald Malone, 58.

MR. O'CALLAGHAN'S CASE

"Mr. Donal O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, is doubtless a gentleman of excellent humor," declared The New York Times in a recent editorial. "He must be amused at the eagerness of his American protectors to create for him a status which he didn't originally claim. He has been here since January 4. In plain disregard of the facts and violation of the law, Secretary of Labor Wilson refused to deport him, made him a 'seaman.' To the present administration he is still a Jonah, a nautical character, expected to take ship early in June. He favored us with a visit as a stowaway for the purpose of giving testimony before an absurd volunteer committee in Washington. That purpose achieved, one might suppose that he would consent to go back. For one thing, he would relieve a kindly Government of a certain difficulty. Of course, compulsion against an alien law-breaker who happens to have powerful friends is not thought of save with trembling. Law has its uses, but votes are supreme.

"Mr. O'Callaghan's counsel, not content with his modest imposed place as a mariner, have vainly tried to establish for him the favored and exceptional position of a 'political refugee.' Neither Mr. Wilson nor Mr. Harding's administration admitting this interesting fiction, there was an effort in Congress, beaten only after a hard fight, to make it law, to insert into the Immigration Restriction Bill an amendment providing for the admission of aliens 'who are refugees for political reasons.' Mr. O'Callaghan is not a political refugee. He is a foreign political propagandist in the United States against a country friendly to the United States. He didn't come here because he was driven out, but because he wanted to. It is true that the amendment provided that the question whether an alien is a political refugee or not shall be determined by a jury, but the proposal seemed, none the less, to be special and personal, and made for the purpose of delaying indefinitely the Lord Mayor's return.

"The proposal to make law for the protection of a law-breaker is curious. No doubt Mr. O'Callaghan enjoys the effect he is making and will hate to leave—if he ever has to leave a country so careless about matters like the law."

HAMSTERLEY ANNOUNCEMENTS

SOME SAY MONEY WILL NOT BUY HEALTH, BUT THEY HAD FORGOTTEN THE HAMSTERLEY - MALAHAT CAMP. True, it does not take much money, and will give you barrels of renewed health, worth many times the small sum charged for the use of a tent pitched in glorious surroundings, and only 3 miles from a sandy beach, though eleven hundred feet above sea level. Inquire at Hamsterley Store, Government Street, where the boats go round.

The entire buildings and nearly two acres of land. $5000

EVERYTHING GOES

AN old-established business, handling groceries, confectionary and school supplies, situated in a populous section, doing a cash business, will be sold as a going concern. Price $750. Box 677, Colonist.

CAFE—Located right in the busiest block of the city, open night and day; superior equipment, in first-class shape; now doing $2,100 a month, but with personal attention could be doubled. Lease at very moderate rent. Everything goes for $3,500.

CAFE—Bright, happy, successful little business, in the busiest section of this busy city; no help required. Big profits. $1,750, terms.

CAFE and Housekeeping Rooms—Net revenue from rooms—always let—$400 month. Cafe is doing about $800 month at good profits. Located in the best industrial section, business always good, and money sure; lease at cheap rent. Stock, furniture and fixtures all for $6,000, half cash. Will take acreage in part trade.

COUNTRY Store — Handling groceries, hardware, drygoods and feed, and doing a brisk trade of $6,000 a month at good profits. Stock is clean and well bought, fixture account is low. Located in healthy, pleasant and thriving district, on railway near Victoria. This unusual opportunity to acquire a sound, permanent business will find a prompt buyer. Hurry or you'll miss it.

COUNTRY Hotel and Store—25 rooms, three baths, etc., lounge office, dining-room, thoroughly well furnished and completely equipped. Also separate bungalow of twelve rooms, partly furnished. Both hotel and store are doing a profitable spot cash combined trade of $40,000. Price including 10 acres of cleared land, orchard of 300 bearing fruit trees, car, 3 cows, chickens, ducks, pigs, and a stock of merchandise amounting to $10,000, is only $60,000, half cash. This business has been established and in one ownership for thirty years. This property will pay for itself. Call and see photographs.

DAIRY Business, with excellent, easily-handled round. Price includes five first-class dairy cows, all utensils, delivery bicycle, etc. Located inside two and half mile circle, near sea and car. Takings last month $205, which can be increased. We can deliver this thoroughly safe, sound money-making proposition for only $1,300, cash.

GROCERY — Bright, busy, successful store, situate on car line, 1½-mile circle; particularly well bought, clean stock; principally cash business at nice profits; postoffice in connection, which takes care of all rental charges; excellent living accommodation. About $6,000.

APARTMENT Block—Very modern, wonderfully well located; hot water heat; vacancies unknown; a real money maker; $30,000; $5,000 cash, balance over 10 years. Would consider good mortgages or agreements for sale on prairie lands.

THREE THOUSAND CASH

IS a lot of money these days. That is exactly the amount a customer of ours has waiting to put into a house that suits him. He wants a four or five-room fully modern bungalow, with a basement, on an average lot in a nice locality WITHIN THE MILE CIRCLE. We have asked for this under "Wanted to Buy Houses" for a week now, and have got absolutely nothing we can submit to him. Surely there must be someone with a house they would like to sell that would comply with above requirements, say in James Bay, Fernwood, Fairfield or near the North Park.

We are not after listings; all we want is the right house for this particular customer. Let us know immediately, and a representative will view the house.

DOUKHOBOR LEADER DENIES MOSCOW STORY

RIGA, May 12.—The Canadian Doukhobors, the religious sect expelled from Russia about 1815, have applied for permission to return to Russia, says a Moscow dispatch today.

LETHBRIDGE, May 12.—Paul N. Potapoff, head of the Doukhobor colony at Cowley, where they have large ranch and farm holdings, declares there is no truth in the Moscow story that the Doukhobors are going back to Russia, and if he has anything to say about it they will never go back.

STOCK MARKET FEELS FURTHER DEPRESSION

Liquidation and Professional Selling Combine to Send Prices Down — Tightening of Money Has Some Effect

NEW YORK, May 12.—The stock market today experienced its fourth setback this week, further liquidation and professional selling in fairly large volume being accompanied by decidedly firmer money tendencies.

Heavy withdrawals of funds from local institutions to meet demands of the United States Government doubtless occasioned the higher rate for call money, which opened at 7 per cent and remained at that figure throughout. Time money was unchanged, but demand for long loans and mercantile paper was light.

Foreign exchange made further substantial response to the German reparations settlement. Demand bills on London came within a fraction of $4, the highest quotation since April of last year, and equal or greater strength was shown by all other remittances. German marks shared in the rise, and an advance of ¾ cent was shown in the Greek rate.

Industrial shares, comprising the steel, equipment and motor groups, including those whose dividend prospects were said to be rather dubious, registered extreme declines of 1 to 3 points. Some of the rails, which were placed in the same category, were under pressure.

Failure of the Southern Railway directors to act on the preferred dividend, and reductions in the common and preferred issues of Alabama Southern, which is under control of the Southern Railway, were accepted as straws showing a general trend.

Representative oils were less active than at any recent period. The reaction among Mexicans was especially pronounced, and gave rise to further speculation respecting the productivity of these properties. Tobaccos and several utilities, especially gas stocks, featured the few stable issues.

Sales were 650,000 shares.

International bonds held firm on the better tone of the exchange market, but domestic issues were irregular, although Liberty bonds showed net gains for the most part. Total sales, $16,275,000.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET

WINNIPEG, May 12.—The October future was opened on the local market today and the first quotation on the wheat list was at 133. An advance of half a cent was made later, but at the close it dropped to 133⅜.

The trade volume was not large, and a lower tendency prevailed. Wheat closed 6⅛c to 6½c lower. The two top grades in the cash wheat market were in fair demand at well maintained premiums, while there was no inquiry for the lower grades.

Coarse grains were also showing lower tendencies. Oats closed 1⅛c to 1⅜c lower; barley ½c to 1⅝c lower; flax ⅛c lower, and rye 1c lower to 1c higher.

ILLUSTRATES BENEFITS OF LIFE INSURANCE

Lesson of the Late Epidemic Brought Home to People of Canada Necessity of Safeguarding Against Hazards

Life insurance in Canada has developed at a very rapid rate in the past few years—in fact more than doubled in volume since 1915. There are many contributing causes for this growth, not the least of which are the result of the war and the influenza epidemic. The total war claims amounted to $22,000,000, but the influenza epidemic proved many times more deadly than war, for in six months—October, 1918, to March, 1919—the claims amounted to $15,-000,000. This insurance money, going into the families so bereaved, has been of untold benefit, in many cases being the salvation of the home.

These facts have greatly emphasized the benefit of life insurance. They have also impressed every person with the uncertainty of life and human plans, bringing them to the serious consideration of life insurance, which guarantees a cash estate at death to carry out the plans for one's family or business interests, or a fund to care for one's self in his own old age. Life insurance is also justly proud of the fact that never in its history in Canada has a single policy holder lost a dollar through the failure of any company.

But even yet it cannot be said that the public generally appreciate the universal application that life insurance has to practically every relationship of life. For this reason a campaign is being conducted through the daily press to educate the public to the true function of life insurance and to create a further desire for life insurance by showing its adaptability to their many needs. The advertisements will appear over the signature of "Life Insurance Service," which organization embraces the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association of Canada, and the story told will be of great interest and value.

The first advertisement, "Life Insurance," tells somewhat of the extent of life insurance and the appreciation of the people of Canada for the service it affords. There is over two and a half billions of life insurance in force in Canada. Some conception of what this means is revealed by the fact that it would provide for 350,000 widows and orphans for 20 years, it would purchase 625,-000 homes at $4,000 each, or it would furnish an education for over a million children, allowing $2,500 for each child. It takes an expert teller 30 days to count a million silver dollars, and it would take him over 250 years to count two and a half billion dollars, the amount of life insurance in Canada. Also figuring will show that there have been slightly over a billion minutes since the birth of Christ—and life insurance in Canada only dates back 75 years.

Beside providing this protection to the homes and businesses of the thousands of persons whose lives are insured, life insurance performs another important function for Canada in developing the country through the investments of its funds. The premiums received from the policy holders are immediately set to work, being invested in Dominion and Provincial bonds, farm mortgages, railway securities or in other ways that go to build up Canada and make it a better place in which to live. The history of life insurance and the development of Canada have been interwoven to no small extent.

Palate and Pocketbook

The Palate and the Pocketbook were walking hand in hand;
"If I could have some chicken," said the Palate, "'twould be grand.
I know a place where good champagne can even now be found."
The Pocketbook said nothing, and his eyes were on the ground.

"I greatly need," the Palate said, "a thick and juicy steak,
With butter spread upon it like a luscious yellow lake.
I need some fresh asparagus, fixed a la Hollandaise."
The Pocketbook said nothing, but his eyes were seen to blaze.

"I want some pleasant salad," the eager Palate urged,
"Where choicest oils and Roquefort cheese are excellently merged.
I want an alligator pear, an artichoke or two."
The Pocketbook said nothing, but his gills were rather blue.

"I want some sparkling Burgundy," the Palate now declared;
"I want some suckling piggie, crisp, and cracklingly prepared.
I want a sherry mousse, I do, and eke some fruits, glace."
The Pocketbook said nothing, but he looked the other way.

"I want," the Palate now began, but here the Pocketbook
Blazed forth upon that Palate with a fierce and warlike look;
"Some coffee and a sandwich, simply built of bread and ham
You're lucky if you get," he said.
The Palate said, "I am."

Sherlock Holmes Stories

The Adventure of the Second Stain

The story thus far:

Lord Bellinger, the Premier and the Right Honorable Trelawney Hope, Secretary for European Affairs, visit Holmes in great distress to tell him that a valuable paper disappeared the night before from the locked despatch box in Hope's bedroom. The paper was a letter from a foreign potentate. If it was found it would doubtless cause war. It would be to the interest of the enemies of this potentate to obtain this letter. Holmes thinks the thief would take it to one of the three most important international spies in London and that it must be already on its way to a foreign government. The illustrious visitors depart and Holmes then reads in the morning paper that the night before one of these agents, Eduardo Lucas, was found murdered with a sabre from a rack of strange weapons in his drawing-room. Lucas masqueraded as a society man. At this point Lady Hilda Trelawney Hope, young and beautiful and apparently much distressed, appeared to ask Holmes to tell her what her husband had been to see him about. She said he never took her into his confidence about politics. Holmes of course refused, but did admit that the matter was of great importance to his political future.

PART FOUR

So for three mornings the mystery remained, so far as I could follow it in the papers. If Holmes knew more, he kept his own counsel, but, as he told me that Inspector Lestrade had taken him into his confidence in the case, I knew that he was in close touch with every development. Upon the fourth day there appeared a long telegram from Paris which seemed to solve the whole question.

"A discovery has just been made by the Parisian police," said The Daily Telegraph, "which raises the veil which hung around the tragic fate of M. Eduardo Lucas, who met his death by violence last Monday night at Godolphin Street, Westminster. Our readers will remember that the deceased gentleman was found stabbed in his room, and that some suspicion attached to his valet, but that the case broke down on an alibi. Yesterday a lady, who has been known as Mme. Henri Fournaye, occupying a small villa in the Rue Austerlitz was reported to the authorities by her servants as being insane. An examination showed she had indeed developed mania of a dangerous and permanent form. On inquiry, the police have discovered that Mm. Henri Fournaye only returned from a journey to London on Tuesday last, and there is evidence to connect her with the crime at Westminster. A comparison of photographs has proved conclusively that M. Henri Fournaye and Eduardo Lucas were really one and the same person, and that the deceased had for some reason lived a double life in London and Paris. Mme. Fournaye, who is of Creole origin, is of an extremely excitable nature, and has suffered in the past from attacks of jealousy which have amounted to frenzy. It is conjectured that it was in one of these that she committed the terrible crime which has caused such a sensation in London. Her movements upon the Monday night have not yet been traced, but it is undoubted that a woman answering to her description attracted much attention at Charing Cross Station on Tuesday morning by the wildness of her appearance and the violence of her gestures. It is probable, therefore, that the crime was either committed when insane, or that its immediate effect was to drive the unhappy woman out of her mind. At present she is unable to give any coherent account of the past, and the doctors hold out no hopes of the re-establishment of her reason. There is evidence that a woman, who might have been Mme. Fournaye, was seen for some hours on Monday night watching the house in Godolphin Street."

"What do you think of that, Holmes?" I had read the account aloud to him, while he finished his breakfast.

"My dear Watson," said he, as he rose from the table and paced up and down the room, "you are most long-suffering, but if I have told you nothing in the last three days, it is because there is nothing to tell. Even now this report from Paris does not help us much."

"Surely it is final as regards the man's death."

"The man's death is a mere incident—a trivial episode—in comparison with our real task, which is to trace this document and save a European catastrophe. Only one important thing has happened in the last three days, and that is that nothing has happened. I get reports almost hourly from the Government, and it is certain that nowhere in Europe is there any sign of trouble. Now, if this letter were loose—no, it can't be loose—but if it isn't loose, where can it be? Who has it? Why is it held back? That's the question that beats in my brain like a hammer. Was it, indeed, a coincidence that Lucas should meet his death on the night when the letter disappeared? Did the letter ever reach him? If so, why is it not among his papers? Did this mad wife of his carry it off with her? If so, is it in her house in Paris? How could I search for it without the French police having their suspicions aroused? It is a case, my dear Watson, where the law is as dangerous to us as the criminals are. Every man's hand is against us, and yet the interests at stake are colossal. Should I bring it to a successful conclusion, it will certainly represent the crowning glory of my career. Ah, here is my latest from the front!" He glanced hurriedly at the note which had been handed in. "Halloa! Lestrade seems to have observed something of interest. Put on your hat, Watson, and we will stroll down together to Westminster."

It was my first visit to the scene of the crime—a high, dingy, narrow-chested house, prim, formal, and solid, like the century which gave it birth. Lestrade's bull-dog features gazed out at us from the front window, and he greeted us warmly when a big constable had opened the door and let us in. The room into which we were shown was that in which the crime had been committed, but no trace of it now remained, save an ugly, irregular stain upon the carpet. This carpet was a small square drugget in the centre of the room, surrounded by a broad expanse of beautiful, old-fashioned wood flooring in square blocks highly polished. Over the fire-place was a magnificent trophy of weapons, one of which had been used on that tragic night. In the window was a sumptuous writing-desk, and every detail of the apartment, the pictures, the rugs and the hangings, all pointed to a taste which was luxurious to the verge of effeminacy.

"Seen the Paris news?" asked Lestrade.

Holmes nodded.

"Our French friends seem to have touched the spot this time. No doubt it's just as they say. She knocked at the door—surprise visit, I guess, for he kept his life in water-tight compartments—he let her in, couldn't keep her in the street. She told him how she had traced him, reproached him, one thing led to another, and then with that dagger so handy the end soon came. It wasn't all done in an instant, though, for these chairs were all swept over yonder, and he had one in his hand as if he had tried to hold her off with it. We've got it all clear as if we had seen it."

Holmes raised his eyebrows.

"And yet you have sent for me?"

"Ah, yes, that's another matter—a mere trifle, but the sort of thing you take an interest in—queer, you know, and what you might call freakish. It has nothing to do with the main fact—can't have, on the face of it."

"What is it, then?"

"Well, you know, after a crime of this sort, we are very careful to keep things in their position. Nothing has been moved. Officer in charge here day and night. This morning, as the man was buried and the investigation over—so far as this room is concerned—we thought we could tidy up a bit. This carpet, you see, it is not fastened down, only just laid there. We had occasion to raise it. We found—"

"Yes? You found—"

Holmes' face grew tense with anxiety.

"Well, I'm sure you would never guess in a hundred years what we did find. You see that stain on the carpet? Well, a great deal must have soaked through, must it not?"

"Undoubtedly it must."

"Well, you will be surprised to hear that there is no stain on the white woodwork to correspond."

"No stain! But there must—"

"Yes, so you would say. But the fact remains that there isn't."

He took the corner of the carpet in his hand and, turning it over, he showed that it was indeed as he said.

"But the underside is as stained as the upper. It must have left a mark."

Lestrade chuckled with delight at having puzzled the famous expert.

"Now, I'll show you the explanation. There is a second stain, but it does not correspond with the other. See for yourself." As he spoke he turned over another portion of the carpet, and there, sure enough, was a great crimson spill upon the square white facing of the old-fashioned floor. "What do you make of that, Mr. Holmes?"

"Why it is simple enough. The two stains did correspond, but the carpet has been turned round. As it was square and unfastened it was easily done."

"The official police don't need you, Mr. Holmes, to tell them that the carpet must have been turned round. That's clear enough, for the stains lie above each other—if you lay it over this way. But what I want to know is, who shifted the carpet, and why?"

I could see from Holmes' rigid face that he was vibrating with inward excitement.

"Look here, Lestrade," said he, "has that constable in the passage been in charge of this place all the time?"

"Yes, he has."

"Well, take my advice. Examine him carefully. Don't do it before us. We'll wait here. You take him into the back room. You'll be more likely to get a confession out of him alone. Ask him how he dared to admit people and leave them alone in this room. Don't ask him if he has done it. Take it for granted. Tell him you know someone has been here. Press him. Tell him that a full confession is his only chance of forgiveness. Do exactly what I tell you!"

"By George, if he knows I'll have it out of him!" cried Lestrade. He darted into the hall, and a few moments later his bullying voice sounded from the back room.

"Claquers" Want Recognition

BUENOS AYRES, May 12.—Claquers, boys and men, whose vocation is to create applause in the Buenos Ayres theatres, have demanded the right to be unionized as a regular part of the theatrical profession. Authors who are accused of owing a debt of gratitude to their humble supporters, oppose their claim.
